Police Lines Stormed in St. Nazaire — Communists Call Out Workers to Join Protest.

ST. NAZAIRE, France, May 28 (AP)—A mob of about 1500 men stormed through police lines today and carried home in triumph a group of reservists who were scheduled to leave by train for service in Algeria.

A force of about 1000 mobile guards and special riot police, swinging gunbuts and clubs, was unable to check the demonstrators' march on the railway station in this heavily Communist seaport and shipbuilding town. Tear gas and practice grenades also were used in vain.

The mob threw anything within reach at the police—stones, iron bars and heavy bolts. Several persons were injured on both sides.

200 Reservists on Train.
About 200 reservists were on the train, due to leave for the Mediterranean at noon.

The protest started off with about 300 persons swinging over the railroad tracks and around the station, and swelled rapidly as workers left their jobs in metal working plants and in the construction industry at the call of the Communist-dominated General Federation of Labor.

The non-Communist unions did not order their men to join in the walkout, but expressed sympathy with the reservists recalled to active duty.

Carried on Shoulders.
While the fighting was still in progress, the reservists left the railroad station to go home. Demonstrators picked them up and carried them on their shoulders.

It was only after the reservists left that order was restored and the area cleared. A number of civilians, including women and children, who had been taken off the train and ushered to a safe corner of the station, then went back to the coaches.

The train left the station almost two hours late.

This was the latest of a series of maneuvers organized by the Communists to block movements of troops being recalled to active duty.

Committees for a peaceful solution in Algeria are being set up in an effort to force the government to negotiate a settlement with the nationalist rebels. In an effort to put down the rebellion and to protect the friendly population in Algeria, the government has moved in about 330,000 troops and 50,000 more are expected to be sent soon.

FRENCH FIND ARMS
IN RAID ON CASBAH

ALGIERS, May 28 (AP)—French authorities today tallied up a store of military booty uncovered in a surprise 18-hour raid deep into the recesses of Algiers' notorious Casbah.

The raid was the first in the 400-year history of the teeming Arab quarter.

A task force of 6000 troops and 1500 special police cordoned off the quarter at 2 a.m. yesterday and swarmed through its twisting streets and squalid homes.

A preliminary count of their take showed hundreds of small arms, cartridges, grenades and knives, several cases of explosives, a clandestine radio transmitter, a makeshift propaganda printing press and duplicating machines, 30 bales of uniforms, 10,000 insignia of the Algerian "Army of Liberation" and medical supplies apparently intended for rebel wounded.

4480 Rounded Up.
The task force rounded up 4480 Arabs for questioning. Of these, 222 were detained as "super suspects."

SECRETARY OF

White House Aid and Former Nebraska
Senator Nominated to Succeed McKay.

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—Fred A. Seaton, White House aid and former Nebraska Senator from Nebraska, was nominated by President Eisenhower today to be Secretary of the Interior.

Seaton would succeed Douglas McKay who resigned from the Cabinet April 15 to run for the United States Senate from Oregon.

The announcement of Mr. Eisenhower's choice of Seaton was made in the late afternoon by Murray Snyder, assistant White House press secretary.

Snyder said only, "The President has just signed papers nominating Fred Seaton to be Secretary of the Interior."

Clarence Davis, of Lincoln, Neb., Under Secretary, has been acting Secretary since McKay left. There was widespread speculation at one time that Davis would get the Cabinet post. However, there had been reports that some sections of the Republican party considered Davis "too conservative" and wanted a "more liberal man."

Seaton is publisher of a number of papers in Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota.

He served a year or so as United States Senator from Nebraska on appointment by the Governor to succeed the late Kenneth Wherry until an election could be held. Seaton did not seek election to the Senate.

He was named as one of the assistant secretaries of defense, and then, some two years ago, was named deputy assistant to the President, right hand man to Sherman Adams. That is his present post.

180 PUPILS ARE MAROONED
BY HEAVY RAINS IN INDIANA

CHICAGO, May 28 (UP)—Rains deluged central Indiana today and at Indianapolis the Red Cross sent boats to move 180 children marooned in two grade school buildings. About 100 families were forced from an Indianapolis trailer court. More than a dozen main highways were closed, and some schools. Heavy rains were general throughout much of the Midwest, but they struck with especial force in central Illinois and Indiana. In Illinois flood waters poured into Farmer City, in De Witt county, and Bellflower, Le Roy, Downs and Heyworth, in neighboring McLean county.

PRESIDENT SPENDS QUIET
SUNDAY ON GETTYSBURG FARM

GETTYSBURG, Pa., May 28 (AP)—President Eisenhower spent a quiet Sunday at his farm.

The President drove around his property in cool, overcast weather with his friend and neighbor, George E. Allen, in a station wagon. He returned to Washington today.

No other activities were on the Eisenhower's Sunday schedule. The President and Mrs. Eisenhower did not attend church.

Schoolboy to Give Eisenhower
'Decision Meter' to Ease Burden

WASHINGTON, May 28 (UP)—President Eisenhower will receive a gift this week that is designed to relieve almost all of the burdens of the presidency.

The gift is a "decision meter" built by Gary Miller, a high school student in Kalamazoo, Mich. Gary is one of the two students accompanying McCall's magazine "Teacher of the Year" Richard Nelson, of Kalamazoo, to Washington and New York.

Miller said the decision meter "is just the thing the President needs for complete relaxation."

To operate the decision meter, the operator plugs it into an electric outlet and then poses the question to be answered, evaluates five phases of the problem and sets five corresponding knobs with plus or minus values. He then flicks a switch and there's the answer to the problem.

"There's really nothing at all complicated about the decision meter," Gary said. He added that the presidential model is "super de luxe" and built to withstand the pressures of its high position.

RELICS OF LINCOLN,
CIVIL WAR FIGURES
FOUND IN ILLINOIS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 28 (UP)—A collection of historical material on Abraham Lincoln and other Civil War era personalities has been unearthed in a basement storeroom, where it gathered dust for 20 years, state officials reported yesterday.

The material was uncovered by a records management firm, which has been hired to evaluate old state government records and discard useless files.

Secretary of State Charles E. Carpenter said the collection contains about 10,000 pictures, books, scrapbooks, diaries and letters and other materials.

The collection concerns Lincoln, Gen. John A. Logan, Elijah P. Lovejoy, abolitionist editor murdered at Alton in 1837, and other persons of the era.

It was found in the basement of the Centennial Building, Carpenter said.

The Lincoln relics include a piece of board with seven bullet holes fired into it, a piece of cloth lining from his coach and a wheel from his carriage.

Data on Logan, who also served in the Legislature, the Congress and was three times president of the Grand Army of the Republic, was given to the state by the general's family.

It includes notes on the House of Representatives impeachment proceedings against President Andrew Johnson.

E. GERMANS HAIL
ROBINSON CRUSOE
AS A 'PROGRESSIVE'

BERLIN, May 28 (UP)—The East German Communists praised Robinson Crusoe as a "progressive" today because he outlawed cannibalism on his tropical island.

The Communist party newspaper Neues Deutschland printed a review of a new East German edition of Daniel Defoe's book, first published in 1719. It recommended it to readers.

The Communist paper conceded that Crusoe "felt like a colonial master" on his island and considered it natural that Friday acted as his slave.

But it said Crusoe was progressive in that he barred cannibalism, regarded natives as men and not as workhorses and protected them from exploitation.

WARNING OF SEVERE STORMS IN GREAT PLAINS IS ISSUED

Tornadoes, Thunderstorms Expected From New Mexico to North Dakota.

KANSAS CITY, May 28 (UP)—The U.S. Weather Bureau's severe storm warning center issued a special bulletin today warning that severe weather was expected this afternoon and evening over a vast area of the Great Plains.

It predicted severe thunderstorms and tornadoes for an area including extreme southeastern New Mexico and extending northward through the Texas panhandle and northwest Oklahoma into southwest Kansas.

Similar conditions also were expected to prevail in second area, over north central and northeast North Dakota.

Engineer Dies, Train Stops.

water, O.

RAVENNA, O., May 28 (UP)—Three persons were killed and seven injured today when a trailer truck crashed into a Pittsburgh-to-Cleveland Pennsylvania railroad passenger train, derailing five cars and wrecking a grain mill at Atwater, 10 miles south of here.

The dead were a brakeman, the driver of the truck, and a man trapped in the grain mill.

Railroad officials had first feared four had died.

A mail-express car, a parlor car and three coaches left the track when the truck slammed into the rear of the diesel locomotive, pulling the Morning Steeler.

Victims were A. J. Fisher, Pittsburgh, the brakeman; Charles Fouser, a farmer struck by a derailed car while standing in the Portage County Farm Bureau Co-operative Mill, adjacent to the tracks; and Andrew Nappi, Akron, O., driver of the truck.

ITALY'S RED BOSS IN BELGRADE FOR VISIT WITH TITO

BELGRADE, May 28 (AP)—Italy's Communist party boss Palmiro Togliatti arrived by plane tonight for a meeting with President Josip (Tito) Broz and to discuss party matters with the Yugoslav Communist party.

Togliatti's visit, just a few days before Tito leaves for talks with Kremlin leaders in Moscow and during elections in Italy, came as a surprise.

Tito and Togliatti have not had a meeting since 1946, when they discussed the future of Trieste. Later Tito split with the Soviet-led Communist bloc party turned against him. Now Tito and the present Kremlin leaders have gone a long way toward patching up their differences.

Soviet Premier Bulganin told a questioner in Moscow yesterday he looked forward to Tito's visit expecting to improve relations between the two countries and said Tito would be shown "everything he wants to see" during his three-week visit.

SPELLERS REACH
$64,000 DEADLOCK
ON TV QUIZ SHOW

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP)—Gloria Lockman of Baltimore and Andy Douglas of Greenwood, Conn., correctly rattled off the same six words last night to deadlock a televised spelling match for $64,000.

Gloria, 13 years old, won $16,000 last summer on the CBS program, "The $64,000 Question." Last night on "The $64,000 Challenge," she was pitted again against Andy, 12, who has matched her word for word over the last five weeks with the stakes doubling each week.

Under the rules of the show, they will return for another try at the $64,000 prize next Sunday. If they again tie, the top money will be divided equally.

NAZI SABOTAGE DISCLOSED IN 1940 SINKING
AT BALTIMORE

Improper Loading Had Been Blamed When Panamanian Sank —
German Documents
Cast New Light.

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—The sinking of the freighter Panamanian at a Baltimore dock, attributed 16 years ago to failure to observe loading instructions, apparently was the work of a Nazi agent.

This was revealed Saturday when German documents, part of a collection of 534 captured at the end of World War II, were made public in a book published by the State Department.

Six documents mentioned the sinking of the Panamanian, described circumstances which left little doubt that the Panamanian was the ship in question.

A Nazi agent named Bergmann took credit for sabotaging the 15,575 gross ton Panamanian.

Owned by German.
The Panamanian, a converted liner flying the flag of Panama, was owned by the Red Star Line headed by Arnold Bernstein, a German-Jewish shipping magnate. Bernstein's ships were confiscated by the Nazis and he was sent to jail for two years.

On March 21, 1940, the Panamanian sank in 35 feet of water shortly after loading 11,500 tons of tobacco, glucose, automobile supplies, canned goods, resin, drums and steel billets for Great Britain. Only the fact that the ship's stern line was still tied to the pier saved it from keeling over.

About 5000 tons of cargo was removed before the ship could be refloated by salvage tugs.

The sinking was caused by flooding of the boiler and engine rooms and the cargo holds through the fuel door.

Chief Engineer S. Hansen and Second Engineer Robert Alberto testified before the Bureau of Marine Inspection and Navigation that the fuel door had been closed and locked before the cargo was loaded.

After blaming the sinking on failure to observe loading instructions the case was closed. Saboteur Recalled.

The Nazi documents showed that Bergmann was recalled to Germany after the sinking because some top German leaders were against all sabotage in the United States for fear of drawing this country into the war.

Bergmann was said to have been ordered to organize sabotage only for use in emergency, such as a declaration of war or rupture of relations. He reportedly carried out a number of acts of sabotage including a small explosion at a munitions factory and the Panamanian incident.

About one month after the Panamanian sank, the Dies committee to investigate un-American activities reported it had information that Communists were involved in the affair.

The committee said the Communist participation was confined to instigation of an act of sabotage and not to the actual act.

At that time Russia and Germany were still friends and Bergmann would have been working with Communist agents.

Denial by Johnson.
Eddie Johnson, former Democratic Senator and Governor of Colorado, has said he had never heard of the Make Europe Pay War Debts Committee and added he certainly hadn't been influenced by it.

Secret Nazi documents of Hans Thomsen, counselor and man-in-charge of the German Embassy in Washington in 1940, published Saturday said that Johnson made isolationist speeches at the behest of the committee.

Johnson said he was making isolationist speeches, but not to his memory at the behest of the committee.

"There's no question that I was strongly against war," Johnson said. "I was making isolationist speeches, and doing everything I could to keep us out of war."

PLEA TO HITLER

The New York Times News Service, (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

LONDON, May 28 — The Marquess of Lothian, British Ambassador to the United States at the outbreak of World War II, privately urged Hitler to restore the freedom of the two Czech provinces of Bohemia and Moravia as a move toward a European settlement, according to captured Nazi archives published in London yesterday.

Lord Lothian made his suggestion through an emissary of Hitler's in Britain shortly before sailing to take up his appointment in Washington August 1939. However he urged the greatest secrecy concerning his sponsorship of the plan.

Japanese Instruments Record
Another H-Bomb Blast at Bikini

AEC Has No Comment After Atmosphere
Pressure Waves and Earth Shocks
Are Detected.

TOKYO, May 28 (AP)—Japanese scientists announced their instruments indicated the United States set off another hydrogen blast at Bikini today comparable in power to the mighty May 21 H-bomb explosion.

The Atomic Energy Commission in Washington had no immediate comment.

The Tokyo Central Meteorological Observatory said its 15 gauges throughout Japan recorded atmospheric pressure waves from the direction of Bikini for about 40 minutes. The observatory said the duration and strength of the waves were the same as those recorded after the May 21 blast, which exploded with an estimated energy of more than 10,000,000 tons of TNT.

A "super-sensitive" seismograph at Matsushiro, 130 miles northwest of Tokyo, recorded earth shocks nearly three hours ahead of the air gauge readings, the scientists reported.

The seismograph also recorded the May 21 blast before the atmospheric instruments.

Earth shocks travel much faster than atmospheric pressure waves.

A B-52 jet Stratofortress dropped the hydrogen bomb which exploded May 21 over Namu island in the United States thermocuclear proving ground at Bikini atoll. A fiery cloud three miles wide boiled up 25 miles into the sky.

None of the 15 newsmen who saw the May 21 bomb drop at Bikini was there today. Their stay in the proving ground was limited to 30 days. Weather conditions forced repeated postponements of the H-bomb drop and thus delayed later tests of the current series beyond the time limit granted the correspondents.

The AEC has said the current series.

AGA KHAN MAY PASS UP ALY AS HIS SUCCESSOR

LONDON, May 28 (INS)—Rumors circulated in London last night that the wealthy Aga Khan will name his youngest son, Prince Sadruddin, successor to his title and fortune.

If they proved true, it would mean the 79-year-old leader of Asian and African Islamic Moslems would be passing over his eldest son, playboy Prince Aly Khan.

Prince Sadruddin, a student at Harvard University, is the half-brother of Aly Khan.

The Aga Khan, who is one of the wealthiest men in the world, is entitled to nominate his own successor to the Moslem leadership and it need not be his eldest son, sometime husband of movie actress Rita Hayworth.

EVEREST CLIMBED BY SWISS TWICE, NEPAL ANNOUNCES

KATMANDU, May 28 (AP)—A Swiss mountaineering expedition has made two climbs to the top of Mount Everest, the world's highest peak, and also conquered the neighboring mountain, Lhotse-1, a Nepalese government spokesman announced today.

Two Swiss, Ernst Schmidt and Weng Mayet, climbed to the top of 29,028-foot Everest on May 23, he said. They were the second team to make the climb successfully. Sir Edmund Hillary and Sherpa Norgay Tenzing, members of a British expedition, first reached the top May 29, 1953.

A second team of Swiss, Adolf Reist and Hans Rudolf von Gunter, made it to the summit May 24, the Nepal spokesman said.

Fritz Luchsinger of the 13-man Swiss group reached the top of Lhotse-1, 27,870 feet high.

Senator Knowland's Actual Words Had Desk Being Sent to Amendment.

The New York Times News Service, (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, May 28—If readers of the carefully edited Congressional Record looked for a suggestion of flying furniture in last Tuesday's edition, they were disappointed. A statement by Senator William F. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, was set forth as follows: "Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask that it be stated."

What Mr. Knowland actually said was: "Mr. President, I send to the amendment a desk and ask that it be stated."

This reminded old-timers of when Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts presiding over the House when the Republicans were in the majority, posed the following question: "For what gentleman does the purpose from Illinois arise?"

Duke's Remark on Split Pants Heard by Crowd Over Speaker

LONDON, May 28 (AP)—The Duke of Edinburgh and Queen Elizabeth II—who are trying to popularize polo—put a new loud speaker into operation yesterday. It worked fine—too fine, if anything.

The scene was the polo field at nearby Windsor Great Park, which the Duke and Queen improved during the winter. A record crowd of 15,000 turned out.

An announcer described the play as the Queen, her children and the other spectators watched the Duke and the other players charge up and down the field.

"The Duke is now being ridden off," said the announcer and then, as his royal highness and another player trotted near the microphone, there words boomed out over the speakers.

Player—"My breeches have split again."

Duke—"You're lucky. They split only at the knee."

Even the Queen joined in the laughter.

HIGH COURT OK'S LOCAL TAXES ON PRIVATELY-BUILT MILITARY HOMES

Splits 5 to 4 to Uphold
Nebraska Decision—
Refuses to Hear Two School Segregation Cases.

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—The Supreme Court today decided 5 to 4 that state and local taxes may be levied on military housing built and operated by private firms on Government lands.

The ruling applies to projects built under the 1948 Wherry Act, designed to provide better and cheaper housing for military personnel and their families. The court was told there are 159 such projects, with 53,339 dwelling units, in various states.

Justice Frankfurter delivered the majority decision in which Chief Justice Warren and Justices Black, Clark and Minton concurred. Justice Douglas wrote a caustic dissenting opinion, joined by Justices Reed, Burton and Harlan.

The Offutt Housing Co., of Omaha, Neb., protested to the Supreme Court against efforts by Sarpy county, Neb., to impose property taxes on housing on the Offutt Air Force Base. The company built and operates a 611-unit project on the base. It appealed from a decision by the Nebraska Supreme Court that the firm is subject to a county property tax on buildings, household appliances and office equipment on the project.

The United States said there are similar private housing projects at 91 other Air Force bases. All presumably are now liable to local property taxes. The Government told the court that 62 of the projects are already being assessed for local taxes.

The issue before the court was whether the privately operated housing projects, since they stand on federally owned land, came under the general exemption of federal property from local taxation.

U. S. Opposed Taxes.
The Department of Justice supported the company's opposition to the county levy. It said it state and local taxes were permitted, the burden of the levy would be passed on to military personnel in the form of higher rents.

The company's appeal said the county tax claim for the years 1952-55 totaled about $100,000.

Frankfurter's majority opinion said the Wherry act represents "one of those cases in which Congress has seen fit not to express itself unequivocally."

"It has preferred," said Frankfurter, "to use general language and thereby requires the judiciary to apply this general language to a specific problem. To that end we must resort to whatever aids to interpretation the legislation in its entirety and its history provide."

"Charged as we are with this function, we have concluded that the more persuasive construction of the statute is that ever flickering and feeble light afforded for exacting its meaning, is that the states were to be permitted to tax private interests."

Dissenters' Argument.
Douglas, speaking for the dissenters, said that had Congress intended to permit such taxation "I would expect plain language revealing the purpose." He said the majority "finds no plain language but relies only on adumbration and reasoning from elaborate implication."

In permitting local taxation without specific congressional authorization, Douglas said, "We use up the function of the lawmakers when we hold to the contrary."

Other Actions.
In another action, the Supreme Court rejected two appeals from lower court school desegregation rulings.

The Supreme Court thus adhered to its apparent intent of leaving the matter of timing to United States district courts to work out in the light of local conditions.

In one case the court had been asked to rule whether United States District Judge J. Skelly Wright of New Orleans had exceeded his authority in ordering the Orleans parish school board to desegregate its public schools with all deliberate speed.

The board contended a request by Negro parents for the order should have been acted on by a special three-judge federal court that sat in New Orleans, and not by Judge Wright alone. The Supreme Court refused today to hear the case. Judge Wright's order stands unchanged.

Memphis Case.

In the second case the Supreme Court refused to rule on a contention that a special three-judge court should rule on a suit by five Negroes who seek immediate admission to the Memphis (Tenn.) State College. The Negroes said United States District Judge Marion S. Boyd of Memphis acted without authority when he held last Nov. 22 that Tennessee laws requiring segregation were invalid but that "time is absolutely necessary to carry out in an effective manner the (1954) ruling of the Supreme Court."

He then approved a gradual plan of desegregation adopted by the state board of education for the Memphis State College.

Taxable Income.
In other actions the court: Decided unanimously that gain realized by an employee who is allowed to buy stock in employer's corporation at a

Americans View Soviet Airliner, Won't Let Russians Inspect B-47

Red Marshal's Request to See Six-Jet
Bomber at Zurich Air Show Refused—
It Was 'Not Convenient.'

By HERBERT SPENCER
ZURICH, Switzerland, May 28 (UP)—United States Air Force officials looked into Russia's new TU-104 jet airliner yesterday but refused to permit Soviet Air Marshal Sergei Rudenko to inspect the interior of a B-47 Stratofortress.

United States officials said it was "not convenient" to show Rudenko and his aides through the six-jet bomber at the International air show here in return for the close-up look at the Russian plane.

Rudenko, who showed Lt. Gen. William H. Tunner, United States Air Force commander in Europe, through the TU-104, accepted the refusal of his request without protest.

Sees No More.
He watched intently as some of the fastest fighter planes and bombers of the West went through their paces over Deudorf military airfield, but he saw no more than the rest of the huge crowd that turned out for the show.

Rudenko sat in a smaller grandstand in front of Tunner during the flying demonstration and turned to gesture and speak rapidly to a Soviet air force deputy.

He refused to talk to reporters about the performance of the NATO jets, but he commented that the air show was "well organized."

Rudenko and other Russian experts looked gloomy when the TU-104 failed to draw any reaction from the crowd.

The Soviet jet transport made a long, low loop in front of the grandstand. But it made no tight turns at altitudes the other planes were using, and when it poured on power to begin a slow climb away from the crowd it wobbled slightly from side to side.

Almost Steals Show.
United States Captain Mitchell of Hickory Grove, S.C., almost stole the show when he left the crowd gasping over a maneuver with a workhorse C-119 Flying Boxcar.

The engine nearest the grandstand quit operating as Mitchell dropped the twin-engine plane low in front of the spectators. The crowd gasped, but it was only a trick to show that the big cargo plane can maneuver safely on only one engine.

Mitchell then caught the lagging motor, climbed steeply and sent the plane through a tight 360-degree turn.

Rudenko stayed for the entire show, including a stunting exhibition by Swiss, United States, French and Czech sports planes. He slipped a big orange drink through a straw.

(The New York Times said the speed of sound in tree-top runs over the airfield.)

UNION, U.S. STEEL BEGIN TALKS ON NEW CONTRACT

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 28 (AP)—The United Steelworkers and U. S. Steel Corp. today began to negotiate a new contract that likely will become a pattern throughout the basic steel industry.

John A. Stephens headed the company's 60-member committee; USW president David J. McDonald headed a union team of 90 members. For the first time the union had a woman negotiator, Mrs. Beatrice Reagan, president-elect of Local 2662, Cleveland, Clifford Hood, U. S. Steel president, was on hand for the opening session.

Today's negotiations are the first of a series that will affect some 650,000 union members employed by 172 basic steel and iron ore producing firms whose contracts expire June 30.

GREEK FOREIGN MINISTER QUILTS OVER CYPRUS

Spyros Theotokis Protests Against 'Irreconcilable' Attitude of Foreign Powers.

ATHENS, May 28 (AP)—Premier Karamanlis today accepted the resignation of Foreign Minister Spyros Theotokis and named Agriculture Minister Evangelos Averoff to his post. Theotokis said in a statement he had resigned in protest against the "irreconcilable" attitude of foreign powers toward Greece's demand that Britain turn over the island of Cyprus to him.

He mentioned no names. However, the United States has been condemned widely in Greece because it has not pressured Britain to accede to Greece. Four fifths of the 500,000 Cypriots are of Greek descent, the rest Turkish. Turkey also opposes transfer to Greece of the British Crown colony, which is only 40 miles off the Southern coast of Turkey.

Theotokis also had been under fire for his "moderate" policy in the Cyprus dispute.

In his letter to Karamanlis, the outgoing minister said he was resigning "to underline more emphatically the profound bitterness which the entire nation feels for the incredible injustices it is suffering today in its efforts to satisfy its most sacred claims."

Averoff said he would announce tonight a statement of the policy "which Greece will henceforth follow in the Cyprus issue." He was foreign under secretary in the 1951 Venizelos Cabinet and later held the portfolio of national economy.

On Cyprus, meanwhile, night-long battles in the Nicosia area pushed tension between Greek and Turkish Cypriots to new heights. British authorities clamped a curfew on the Turkish quarter.

A curfew also was imposed on Afania, a village 10 miles from Nicosia, where combat ended Saturday night caused two deaths.

A Turkish Cypriot constable was killed and two other members of the Cyprus security forces were wounded by shots fired from ambush at a convoy in which they were riding last night near Paphos.

A collective fine of $16,800 was imposed on the twin villages of Upper and Lower Zodia, 20 miles west of Nicosia, today. A British statement said 30 Cypriots in the two villages were being punished for "an extremely bad record."

BORROWS SLEDGE, SMASHES PARKING METER TO BITS

NORTH BERGEN, N. J., May 28 (AP)—Police today sought an unidentified man who borrowed a sledge hammer from a construction worker Saturday, smashed a parking meter into bits and sped off on a motorcycle, saying "I've always wanted to do this."

Police said the worker, Joseph Picone, was repairing a sidewalk on Bergenline avenue at the time of the incident.

Picone and another witness were so startled they failed to note the registration of the man's motorcycle.

BRITISH URGE U.N. CHIEF TO KEEP UP MIDEAST ROLE

Council Commendation for Secretary General.

UNITED NATIONS, New York, May 28 (AP)—Acting for the Western Big Three, Britain urged Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld today to continue his good offices for peace in the Middle East. The British left it up to Hammarskjöld to decide the best way to pursue his peace mission.

The U.N. made public a resolution proposed by the British for the Security Council meeting set for 2 p.m. tomorrow. Britain stands as the sole sponsor of the resolution, but the United States and France are known to concur in it.

They did not agree on a Soviet view for sponsorship by the Big Four powers.

Commendation Urged.
The resolution proposes that the Council commend Hammarskjöld, the Arabs and Israel on the progress achieved thus far toward a peaceful settlement of the tense situation in the Middle East.

The resolution recalls Hammarskjöld's report in which the Secretary General, after a month in the Middle East, noted that all parties to the 1949 Middle East armistice agreement had given assurances to observe a cease-fire.

It declared that the parties—Israel, Egypt, Lebanon, Jordan and Syria—would "speedily carry out the measures already agreed upon with the Secretary General" and should put into effect proposals by Hammarskjöld and the true chief of staff, Maj. Gen. E.L.M. Burns, designed to implement resolutions calling for a cease-fire.

Burns arrived in New York from Jerusalem this morning to attend the Council meeting. He said he would provide any information additional to Hammarskjöld's report that may be required. Burns also said that since Hammarskjöld left the Middle East "the parties have been living up to their obligations, apart from some minor incidents, and I think that there has been a relaxation of tension so that things may take a better turn in the future."

Troops Fired On.
(An Israeli army spokesman in Jerusalem said today that Israeli troops in the Nizana-El Ajia area were fired on last night from Egyptian positions. He said there were no Israeli casualties. The incident was the first reported in that border area for several weeks.)

Burns, a Canadian army officer, said a "period of calm has been established and one may hope it can be strengthened" in the Middle East.

Asked if there were any prospects of a meeting between Israel and Egypt, Burns replied: "Not in the immediate future."

The British resolution calls on the Security Council to demand of U.N. observers must be respected on the armistice lines, in the demilitarized zones and in the defensive areas.

It also indorses the Hammarskjöld view that "re-establishment of full compliance with the armistice agreements represents a stage which has to be passed in order to make progress possible on the main issues between the parties."

Orders to Burns.
The resolution asks Burns to continue to carry out his observation of the cease-fire and to report to the Security Council whenever any action by one party constitutes a serious violation of the agreement which, in Burns' opinion, requires immediate consideration by the Council.

It calls on the parties to the armistice agreements to take steps necessary to carry out this resolution, thereby increasing confidence and demonstrating their wish for peaceful conditions."

The Council will hold its first meeting since it dispatched Hammarskjöld early in April to the Middle East. The Council president this month is Ambassador Josa Brilej of Yugoslavia.

'Pushbutton War' Is Branded 'Dangerous Myth' by Brucker

Army Secretary Says Burden of Combat
Will Fall on Troops—Defends Weapons.

DETROIT, May 28 (AP)—Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker said today the concept of a pushbutton war is a "dangerous myth" and declared the major combat burden of any war would fall on the Army.

Brucker, apparently taking note of recent Air Force criticism of Army weapons, added in a speech at the Detroit Economic Club that "the Army's weapons—both atomic and non-atomic—are the best that have been developed."

"They are not limited in their effectiveness by fog, rain, snow or any other adverse condition," Brucker said. "We are not interested in any weapon merely because it makes the biggest bang or the biggest hole in the ground."

He said the Army's Nike anti-aircraft system was in the nation's "major ground weapon against hostile aircraft" and added, "These deadly missiles are capable of co-ordinated and controlled fire."

Unnecessary Destruction.
He said: "We should have in our arsenal an adequate supply of atomic weapons which can be used to support our mission without unnecessary wholesale destruction—without the annihilation of large segments of the population within an area of combat—which might well be a friendly population."

Then he listed among the Army's "splendid interim atomic weapons" the Corporal guided missile, the Redstone ballistic missile and the Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missile, which he said was developed by the joining of "Army and Navy scientific talent and resources."

Brucker said the Army "is the component of the defense team which has the means and capability needed to gain and to maintain effective control over the land, the resources and the people of an enemy—in other words, actually to conquer him."

Ultimate Source of Strength.
"It would be the ultimate source of the strength that would bring victory. This would be as true in the case of an all-out nuclear struggle as it would be in the case of a remote brushfire war."

Brucker put the Army's present strength at 1,050,000 men with a "hard core" of 114,000 men who have more than 10 years service.

Effective reserve strength, Brucker added, is approximately 585,000. He said the Army is engaged "in an all-out effort" to build up the "ready reserve" to 1,692,000 "which we consider the minimum strength consistent with safety."

"While there are still many problems to be solved," Brucker said, "the Army is enthusiastic about its ability to cope with any military situation of the atomic age."

strating their wish for peaceful conditions."

CENTER PARTIES LEAD IN ITALY'S CITY ELECTIONS

Pro-West Christian Democrats Ahead in Early Returns—Voting Heavy.

ROME, May 28 (AP)—Italy's pro-Western center parties took a substantial lead over the Communist-Socialist left today in fragmentary early returns from nation-wide local elections.

With more than 2 per cent of approximately 27,000,000 votes tallied in scattered districts, the Christian Democrats held a lead of just under 2 to 1 over the Communists.

With 612,956 votes counted, Christian Democrats won 232,693, or 37.96 per cent, compared with 40.7 in the 1953 general election for the Chamber of Deputies and 36.3 in the more nearly comparable 1951-52 administrative elections.

The Communists received 121,649 votes, or 19.84 per cent, compared with 21.7 in the Chamber vote and 20.4 in the last local elections.

The rightist parties combined had 116,454 votes, or 18.99 per cent, compared to 12.7 in 1953 and 11.3 in 1951-52.

The center pro-Western bloc had 49.04 per cent of the votes, compared to 49.7 in 1953. The far left bloc had 169,584, or 30.92 per cent, compared with 37.2 in 1953. The fellow-traveling Socialists had 52,202 votes, or 8.51 per cent compared with 13.1 per cent in 1951-52 and 12.7 in 1953.

The voting turnout in the elections, watched as a test of West European reaction to Moscow's new coexistence line, was heavy. It was estimated 90 per cent of those eligible may have cast ballots.

At stake were control of 6587 community and provincial councils from the Alps to Sicily, local posts in 563 other communities and provincial governments in 533. The candidates totaled 313,601.

Voting was finished in the Tyrol and Sicily last night. It went on today in the rest of Italy until mid-afternoon.

Tyrollean Trent, the first province to report, showed strong gains by both the Christian Democrats of Premier Segni and the Communist-allied Socialists of Pietro Nenni. The area long has been a Christian Democrat stronghold.

Shades of Robin Hood.

HAGER REFUSES TO TESTIFY ON RANSOM, GRAND JURY ADJOURNS

Former Cab Driver Not Cited for Balking — Four Others Were Excused by Moore Last Week.

The Federal grand jury investigating the missing Greenlease ransom money today adjourned to June 11, after John O. Hager, former Ace Cab driver and former convict, refused to testify on grounds he might incriminate himself. It has not been determined whether the grand jury will resume the ransom inquiry when it reconvenes, or give attention to other special investigations.

Assistant United States Attorney Forrest Boecker told reporters he did not cite Hager in court for refusing to testify "because of our experience last week." United States District Judge George H. Moore last week excused four witnesses from testifying, including Joseph Costello, ex-convict head of the Ace Cab Co.

"I've told my story many times to Federal agents and grand juries and I'm not going to attempt to repeat it," Hager, a central figure in the search for the $303,720 missing ransom cash, is reported to have said. After testifying before a Federal grand jury here last February, Hager observed he "had trouble getting all the happenings together in sequence." The reference was to his brief association in October, 1933, with Carl Austin Hall, kidnaper of Bobby Greenlease.

Phone Calls Checked. Previously grand juries have looked into telephone calls made by Hager and Costello to Police Lt. Louis Shoulters giving the tip that led to the arrest of Hall and the kidnaper's companion in the kidnapping, Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady. Both Hall and Mrs. Heady, a St. Joseph, Mo., housewife, were executed for the murder of the Greenlease boy.

Costello today denied a report that he had made "regular payments" to Hager since the latter moved to Los Angeles in 1934.

"John Hager did a great thing, and I gave him $500 as a reward for his union voted him $500 for bringing about the arrest of the kidnappers," Costello related. "The $500 was a gift."

Regarding his other financial dealings with Hager, Costello said he lent his former cab driver $300 after Hager telephoned from Los Angeles, "crying that his wife wanted to get her furniture out of storage."

Helped Him Buy Cab. "He sends me $10 now and then in payment," Costello continued. "I helped him buy a cab in 1947, and he gave me some money every day to pay off. I help a lot of folks. No one needing money is ever turned down. But I've never seen any regular payments to John Hager. I'm generous, but I'm not a complete idiot."

While waiting in the grand jury ante-room today, Hager told the Post-Dispatch he had received no funds from his former boss, Costello, except the $300 loan, the $500 reward and assistance in buying the taxi-cab. "I received no other money from Costello, and any report of 'regular' payments is untrue," Hager declared.

Hager has also been questioned about the mysterious manner in which the lost identification papers of John J. Byrne, a St. Louis bakery salesman, were obtained by Hall. Before his execution Hall told authorities the papers, lost in 1932 near Byrne's home in the 2100 block of Victor street, were given him by Hager. When first booked at Newstead Avenue Police Station, Hall used Byrne's name.

Byrne convinced Federal agents he did not know Hager or Hall. Hager denied giving the papers to Hall, or knowing anything about them.

A grand jury witness last week was a farmer living near Bland, Mo., who presumably testified about unexplained digging near Bland, in Gasconade county, in January 1935. A St. Louis contractor said he was paid $160 for sending a crew and a mechanical shovel to a farm near Bland, where holes were dug near a marked tree. A man, who accompanied the excavators, directed the haphazard digging, thought by authorities to have been a search for buried loot.

RARE OPERATION PERFORMED HERE ON CHILD'S HEART

A rare heart operation on a child, in which an artery from a "blood vessel bank" was grafted on a defective aorta, has been successfully performed on Matthew Schultz Jr., 8 years old, St. Louis Children's Hospital announced yesterday.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew G. Schultz, 718 South Ninth street, suffered from narrowing of the aorta, the heart's main arterial blood vessel. This condition prevents enough blood from reaching the lower parts of the body and can result in enlargement of the heart.

Surgeons, in cutting out the narrow part of the aorta, found that part of the vessel had hardened—an unusual circumstance in a child—so that grafting of the artery from the blood vessel bank at Barnes Hospital was necessary in order to join the cut sections. Matthew has returned home and will be able to lead a normal life, hospital officials said.

DRIVER LEAPS TO SAFETY WHEN TRAIN HITS TRUCK

A city street department truck driver jumped to safety but the truck was badly damaged when struck by a northbound Missouri Pacific passenger train at DeTonty street today.

The driver, Christopher F. Owen, 3930 Natural Bridge avenue, told police he stopped his eastbound vehicle, loaded with eight tons of asphalt, on seeing flashing lights, but proceeded when he saw a handcar station of the locomotive, Charles P. Ashcraft, 5601 Bancroft avenue.

By the time he saw the train it was too late to stop so he turned left and bounced about 40 feet along the tracks ahead of the locomotive. Charles P. Ashcraft, 5601 Bancroft avenue, 70-year-old engineer, said his train was moving about 15 miles an hour when he saw the truck. He immediately applied the brakes, lessening the force of the impact. The truck remained upright and only about a fifth of the load was lost.

LACK OF QUORUM PREVENTS ACTION ON CITY'S BUDGET

The Board of Aldermen met today for the third reading of the city's $53,751,921 budget bill but could do no business because of lack of a quorum. Only seven of the 29 members were present and Board President Donald Gunn ordered a recess until 11 a.m. tomorrow.

Most of the members were in Jefferson City attending the Democratic state convention.

200-Acre Picnic and Play Area Planned on Chain of Rocks Canal

Granite City Group to Develop Tract It Leases From Army Engineers for $1 a Year.

Work will begin immediately on development of picnic and recreation facilities on a 200-acre tract on the west side of the Chain of Rocks canal on the Mississippi river, sponsors of the project said today.

The job is being planned on a non-profit basis by the Lincoln Athletic Club of Granite City, a private organization which conducts recreation programs for children. The club's 150 members have $1000 to start with and plan to pitch in themselves to clear space for parking and set up picnic tables in the area, which is on the lower end of Cabaret island.

Hope for Outside Help. Vasil Eftimoff, school teacher who heads the club, said the group hopes to get some help from outsiders, including businesses and industries, to keep the work going.

For the first year of the project, plans call for grading and surfacing of a parking lot, setting up of 40 picnic tables, and establishment of baseball diamonds, badminton courts and a corksball diamond. A refreshment stand also will be set up. Later on, camping areas will be developed.

The land is owned by the Government and is being leased to the club by the Army Corps of Engineers for $1 a year. Apart from charges made by concessions operators, the public will pay only an entrance fee of 50 cents per automobile or $1 per truck or bus, Eftimoff said.

According to terms of the lease, any profits which are not used for further development of the area are to be turned over to the Government.

Docks for Small Boats. The lease authorizes the club to build docks for small boats and provide carnival and horseback rides.

The area is about four miles south of the U.S. Highway 66 bridge which crosses the canal, east of Chain of Rocks bridge. The club is to maintain and widen the present access road down the west side of the canal.

MAN SERIOUSLY WOUNDED IN FIGHT WITH LANDLORD

Vernon C. Morgan, 4168 West Pine boulevard, was in serious condition today at Homer G. Phillips Hospital as a result of a Saturday night shooting in a quarrel over a toy. He suffered a bullet wound in the chest.

Hugo Kromer, Morgan's landlord, told police he shot Morgan in self-defense after the tenant forced the door to Kromer's apartment, struck him and broke his glasses. Morgan, however, said Kromer fired through the door. Morgan is 33 years old, Kromer 52. Kromer was booked suspected of assault with intent to kill.

Blight in Sherwood Forest.

NOTTINGHAM, England, May 28 (AP) — Tree-killing insects are attacking Sherwood Forest. The insects, a kind of weevil, have destroyed or damaged 40,000 trees, the Forestry Commission reported today. LIGHT IN ICE BOX FASCINATES THREE FRENCH GIRLS HERE

Three little French girls, bright-eyed and bewitching, began to get acquainted here today with life in gadget-minded America. The newcomers, orphaned sisters, were especially taken by the on-and-off action of the refrigerator light in the trim new home of their adoptive parents, Mr. and Mrs. John C. McGuire, 3855 McDonald avenue. Mrs. McGuire stopped their play only when the door hinges seemed to be taking a beating.

McGuire, a nature-lover as well as a lover of children, can hardly wait to take his new daughters to the few acres he owns near Chester, Ill. As a forerunner of the visit, he made a gentle sucking sound that summoned a tame gray squirrel, which he fed. Then he imitated the calls of a dozen American songbirds. Much to the girls' delight, a bird in a distant tree sang out in reply.

3 HURT IN FIGHT WHEN ROWDIES INVADE PICNIC

One of 12 Youths Held Admits Taking Part in Earlier Assault on County Boy.

One of 11 rowdies who started a fight at the annual picnic of the Pan-Hellenic Society yesterday has admitted being involved in an earlier fight which led to a planned free-for-all between county and city youths, St. Louis county police announced today.

He was identified as Ronald E. Vonderhaar, 18 years old, living in the 4600 block of Nebraska avenue. Lt. H. C. (Pat) Blirner of the county police said Vonderhaar admitted being with a group of city youths who beat and "stomped" a county youth in the 8800 block of Gravois road, Affton, on May 14.

County youths, many of them high school students, then organized a large force to take armed retaliatory action against the city boys. This was broken up when county police moved in and stopped them in Lemay, temporarily detaining 48 boys.

12 Youths Arrested. Three persons were injured and 12 youths were arrested as a result of the invasion yesterday by the rowdies, all members of the Monkey Athletic Club, of the Pan-Hellenic picnic at the Hendekamp picnic grounds, on Rott road, south of Kirkwood.

Injured were Vonderhaar, who suffered cuts and lacerations; Robert M. Krull, 23, 5300 Walsh street, broken nose and extensive cuts and lacerations, and Donald J. Deven, 18, 3900 block of Missouri avenue, head cuts.

Krull, who remained at County Hospital, was hurt when he attempted to stop the fighting. Vonderhaar and Deven, identified as members of the rowdy gang, were treated.

Those charged were Milton P. Androff, 19, living in the 3400 block of Crittenden street; David L. Gallagher, 18, 4000 block of Blaine avenue; James E. Florida Primary Campaign Ends In Atmosphere of Chilly Ill Will

Stevenson Favored to Win Most of 28
Votes—Kefauver Charges Opponent
Shows Dual Personality.

MIAMI, Fla., May 28 (AP)—In an atmosphere of chilly ill will, Adlai E. Stevenson and Senator Estes Kefauver close their Florida presidential primary battle today with final pitches for 28 important national convention votes to be decided in tomorrow's election.

The ill will evidently is going to splash over into the oncoming primary in California, where Kefauver intends to raise the issues he has used over and over in Florida.

Kefauver will be on the go until nearly midnight in Miami and nine nearby communities in populous, strategic Dade county, grabbing hands and making speeches.

Stevenson Favored.
Most Florida political observers seem to think that Stevenson will win the larger share of the 28 national convention votes at stake.

Stevenson himself said he thinks he has a good chance of winning.
"I expect to win the primary here tomorrow in Florida," Stevenson told reporters as he boarded a plane for Los Angeles. "I have been very much encouraged by the expressions of confidence throughout the state."

Kefauver told a press conference yesterday: "I expect that my delegates and I will carry Florida on Tuesday. We have come a long way from behind. There has been a considerable change during this last week."

Clenching an unlighted cigar in one hand, the Tennessee Senator kept the other one pumping vigorously today as he told each person he encountered: "I sure hope you'll help me out in the election tomorrow."

Looking beyond, toward the California primary and 68 national convention votes, Kefauver expressed the belief yesterday he has slipped a bit.

He said he had thought he was even with Stevenson but now has dropped behind because Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is plumping for Stevenson.

Charges Dual Personality.
Kefauver, in effect, accused Stevenson supporters of speaking with one face in Florida and another in California.

Kefauver said the Stevenson campaign is showing what he said one voter told him was "a dual personality."

He said that in Florida former Gov. Millard Caldwell is campaigning for Stevenson and "calling me names when Mrs. Roosevelt is campaigning for him in California."

Caldwell, the Senator said, is a "violent segregationist," but Mrs. Roosevelt is "taking the other position in California." As reasons for what he said is a favorable trend in Florida, Kefauver recited most of the issues he has trotted out in the last few days. Among them, contentions that Stevenson: Vetted an old age pension boost while Governor of Illinois; lost to President Eisenhower in 1952 and thus the Democrats need a "new look" in 1956; adopted a technique of smiling while political allies smear Kefauver; has been "strangely silent" about monopoly and big business.

To Bring Up Issues Again.
To a question whether he intended to "bring up these same issues in California," Kefauver replied: "Generally, I assume so."

The Senator's repetitive hammering on issues prompted this statement from Stevenson's campaign manager, Representative Robert Sikes:

"Senator Kefauver's bitter personal attack upon Gov. Stevenson and his Florida supporters is a measure of his desperation. I am convinced that the people of Florida will not be fooled by these tactics."

"There is only one issue in this primary contest: Which man is best qualified to be President of the United States? Gov. Stevenson's honest conduct of his Florida campaign and his exemplary record in public life leaves no doubt that he is the man."

Stevenson, personally, chose to ignore the latest Kefauver jabs.

Some of his lieutenants have been growing a bit uneasy, though—wondering whether people will begin to accept what Kefauver says if the Senator says it often enough.

21 KILLED IN MISSOURI AUTO CRASHES IN WEEK

JEFFERSON CITY, May 28 (AP)—There were 21 deaths on Missouri's streets and highways last week, bringing total traffic fatalities so far this year to 414.

The record for 1956 now stands 90 above the total for the same time last year, according to State Highway Patrol records. Last week's total was five more than for the same week in 1955. All but four of last week's fatalities occurred from Friday through Sunday.

For the first 27 days of May this year the death record reached 81, or 22 more than for the same period last May.

As one patrol safety officer put it: "It looks like drivers are just going to do as they please, despite all laws and warnings and good common sense."

Cadillac

Expected Much...and Got More!

He had heard it time and again from his friends who drive Cadillacs.

He had heard, for instance, of Cadillac's marvelous performance...and of Cadillac's great comfort and handling ease...and of the personal satisfaction that comes to the man at the wheel.

And so, when he accepted the keys to his first Cadillac car just a little while ago, he thought he knew what to expect from the "car of cars".

Well, here he is—only a few short miles out on his maiden journey—and he's learning a great truth about Cadillac: that nothing can adequately prepare a man for Cadillac ownership, save the experience itself.

How, for instance, could anyone fully foresee the joys of owning a new Cadillac? It gives a man a sense of pride and a feeling of fulfillment that literally defy description.

Or how could anyone anticipate the thrill of driving a new Cadillac? Smooth and quiet...eager and responsive...restful and relaxing—it simply has no counterpart on the world's highways.

And how could anyone possibly foreknow the many other pleasures that await him at the wheel...

...the joy of finding that his Cadillac, with all its quality and character, is among the most practical of motor cars to own and operate...

...and the satisfaction we believe he will find in his relationship with us as his Cadillac dealer—and in our honest concern with his motoring well-being.

Yes, it's a wonderful thing, this education in the ways of Cadillac ownership—and we sincerely hope that you will stop in soon for a personal preview of the experience.

We think you will be delighted to learn how quickly you can get delivery and to find how much your current car is worth to us in trade.

SCHWIMMER OUT AS DEFENDANT, TRIAL CONTINUES

continue the trial since a substantial amount of Government evidence before the jury at this time related only to Schwimmer.

Margiotti and Lashly also informed the court they understood Schwimmer was to have taken the stand in his defense, which would have left him open for cross-examination by attorneys for Connelly and Caudle.

Removal of Schwimmer from the trial, which began May 7, is not tantamount to dismissal of the charge against him. He can be tried at a later date.

Not in Court Today

Schwimmer, who suffers from heart disease and was taken to Lutheran Hospital after becoming ill in the courtroom Wednesday, was not present when court convened this morning.

His attorney, Morris A. Shenker, told Judge Hulen: "Mr. Schwimmer is in the hospital. 'Are you willing to proceed in his absence and waive his presence, as you indicated you would do last week?' the judge asked.

Shenker replied: "Last week I thought we could proceed as I thought he would be ill for only a day or two, and I thought the trial could continue without him, but now he's been in the hospital five days and I don't see how I can proceed now."

Dr. A. M. Frank, a physician retained by Schwimmer, then took the stand and said: "It would be very detrimental for the man to come into court now. I mean as far as his life is concerned. It would be putting him in jeopardy."

Another Attack Last Night

The witness pointed out that Schwimmer had another attack last night from angina pectoris, a heart disease that causes contracting pains in the chest.

Wyllis S. Newcomb, chief Government counsel, said: "I want to know what the prospects are. He has had attacks in the past and he felt better in a few days or even in a few hours."

"If he had a few more days at the hospital under medication and treatment, would it be probable that he return to a normal life for a man with a coronary-artery disease?"

Dr. Frank answered: "I'm still of the opinion that man should not be subject to trial. I was of that opinion before the trial started and I so wrote the court. I should say that he should not stand trial for a long time."

Dr. Walter Baumgarten, who had been asked by the court to visit Schwimmer, testified he was convinced the defendant's attacks were "not feigned or imagined." He said he examined Schwimmer at the hospital Friday, Saturday, Sunday and today.

Hazard Called Too Great

"I feel that for him to return to court would probably mean new risks and intensify the attacks," Dr. Baumgarten stated. "Would it be improper to bring this man to trial?" Judge Hulen asked.

"I feel it would be too great a hazard to force him to trial," the physician replied.

The witness said electrocardiogram examinations of Schwimmer disclosed no change from Wednesday through this morning. He testified that Schwimmer may "imagine" his attacks are more severe than they actually are.

Judge Hulen then asked Shenker what he wanted to do and the attorney said: "I'm in a dilemma—whatever order the court makes is all right."

Newcomb then suggested that the trial continue, with Schwimmer as a defendant, until more certain information is obtained regarding his condition.

At this point, Shenker, who had been in consultation with other defense counsel, asked for a mistrial. Judge Hulen granted the motion.

Lashly, as attorney for Connelly, then asked the court to direct the Government to put Charles Oliphant, former chief counsel for the Bureau of Internal Revenue, on the stand as a witness.

The defense attorney said he understood the Government would not call Oliphant to testify even though it had two of his former secretaries identify transcriptions of telephone calls to Oliphant's office.

The judge denied the request, saying: "The court has no power to direct the Government to put on any witnesses."

The Government plans to complete its case this week. The defense has estimated a week to 10 days would be required for its testimony.

Turner L. Smith and Meyer Rothwacks, who were Justice Department attorneys assigned to Caudle's division, are to be among the Government witnesses today and tomorrow.

FRENCH POLICE, MOB CLASHES OVER RESERVISTS

Wood film treatment in the movie "Algeria," the Casbah in reality is a crowded, filthy-strewn slum for 50,000 Arabs and a few Europeans. It long has been regarded as an Arab refuge. Its inhabitants live jammed into tiny unsanitary hovels which interlock into a maze of rooms, passages and alleyways.

In the film, which introduced the section to Americans, police used the beautiful Hedy Lamarr as bait to lure the fugitive Charles Boyer "outside" the Casbah maze because they despaired of finding him inside the quarter.

The French task force spurred Hollywood drama on the Sunday raid. Helicopters hovered overhead while troops swarmed through the narrow streets.

The alleyways, usually alive and noisy with vendors, strollers, shoppers and the colorfully clad inhabitants, were silent and virtually deserted. Arabs look out sullenly from their windows.

Clashes Subside

Elsewhere in Algeria, Arab nationalist activity and clashes between French and rebels appeared to have quieted down yesterday. Only a scattering of incidents was reported.

At L'Arba village, 30 miles from Algiers, three masked men armed with machineguns killed a local official, Mahieddine Mohamed.

French troops killed three rebels in a skirmish near Bougie. Other French troops in the rebel-infested Kabylie mountains shot down 10 Arabs near Dakhbou.

MOROCCO TO LOOK AT U.S. AIR PACTS

PARIS, May 28 (AP)—The foreign ministers of France and Morocco today signed a series of agreements which give the former North African protectorate, the site of some big United States air bases, its full diplomatic freedom.

The documents included letters exchanged between the two governments specifically reserving the right of Morocco to review the agreements concluded between the United States and France in 1950 which gave the United States permission to establish the bases.

At the time the French-American agreements were negotiated, France said it was not necessary to bring the Moroccan government into the talks. Now the Moroccan government says it never was officially informed about the agreements.

Members of the Moroccan Government have hinted that rental money may be demanded from the United States for the bases, which were built at a cost of about $500,000,000.

delegates and there will be 32 at large. The districts which have not chosen their delegates and alternates were to do so in caucuses today. They were subject to technical approval by the convention, and then it was to choose those to represent the state as a whole.

The at-large group was expected to include Symington and Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr. of St. Louis, who also is here. Former President Truman could be a delegate at large, but he has said he would rather not, so he could have a free hand at the convention.

Dark-Horse Operation. Symington's backers are depending on a strictly dark-horse operation, expecting that if Adlai Stevenson and Senator Estes Kefauver wind up in a deadlock, then Symington will begin to win delegates as a compromise candidate.

Symington explained that he is "knee deep in this air power investigation," and is flying back to Washington after today's meeting. He is chairman of a Senate subcommittee which is inquiring into the country's aviation potential for defense.

The Senator noted that the scope of the investigation has been enlarged to include a study of Naval air power, at the request of Republican members. He said that was agreeable to him, but that it would increase the work of the subcommittee "tremendously."

Many of the assembled party workers were lapel buttons saying "Symington for President," and "We Want Stuart." Some of his supporters said the buttons were not purchased, but were contributed by a Kansas City manufacturer of campaign paraphernalia—a man who "apparently recognizes the straws in the wind."

Would Aid Chances

St. Louis and Kansas City leaders of the party and many other practical party workers out over the state feel that with Symington heading the national ticket the chances of Democratic candidates winning state, legislative and local offices would be enhanced.

A minor ruckus occurred yesterday when more than 100 employees of the State Department of Agriculture attended a meeting in the State Office Building on behalf of L. C. Carpenter, State Commissioner of Agriculture, who is opposing Lt. Gov. James T. Blair Jr. for the Democratic nomination for Governor. Carpenter has obtained a two-month leave.

Blair supporters contended that the employees were ordered to meet and get busy among the convention delegates in support of Carpenter. This, the Blair men, argued, was in violation of a pledge Carpenter made to Gov. Phil M. Donnelly, that he would make no demands on employees of his department.

Carpenter said he knew nothing of the meeting, and that it was "purely voluntary on the part of my employees who, of course, are all political appointees."

In a significant development in the Blair-Carpenter contest, two Jackson county coalition leaders announced their support of Blair. They are William Sermon of Independence and County Clerk Ben Nordberg.

In Opposition Camp. They are in camps opposed to the faction headed by James M. Pendergast of Kansas City, who already had endorsed Blair. The only Kansas City faction leader who has not taken a position in this race is James P. Aylward Sr.

City Treasurer John J. Dwyer of St. Louis, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, has announced for Blair, and so have a number of other city committeemen, including State Senator William E. Hilsman of the Twenty-Eighth Ward, and Matt O'Neill of the Twenty-first.

Nicholas M. Blassie, head of the St. Louis Meat Cutters' Union, said the union not only would endorse Blair but would contribute funds for his campaign.

Harold Gibbons of St. Louis, head of the Teachers' Joint Council, said it has taken no action so far but that he felt certain it would be for Blair.

Gibbons, who was hoping to be one of the delegates at large, is Missouri's leading supporter of Gov. Averell Harriman of New York for the Democratic presidential nomination.

JAPANESE RECORD ANOTHER H-BOMB BLAST AT BIKINI

rents tests will run into June. After the May 21 explosion, the task force said its power yield "likely will be one of the biggest of the current series." It said the energy yield was substantially less, however, than that of the 1954 test of a thermonuclear device built on another of Bikini's islands. That island disappeared in the violence of the blast.

The Tokyo observatory said the Matsushiro seismograph recorded the earth shocks at 3:03 a.m. (1:02 p.m. St. Louis time Sunday). The air gauges recorded the atmospheric pressure waves at 6:33 a.m. in Yokohama and 6:14 a.m. in Tokyo.

The seismograph recorded the May 21 explosion 12 minutes after the blast was set off at Bikini and the air pressure gauges reacted about three hours later.

Allowing for time zone differences and the speed of earth shocks and atmospheric pressure waves, the newest blast—if it was detonated—apparently was set off about dawn at Bikini.

COUNTY POLICE MUST PAY $47 FOR NEW UNIFORMS

A new summer uniform for St. Louis county policemen, costing about $47, was announced by Police Superintendent Albert E. DuBois today, bringing to nearly $200 which the $350-a-month patrolmen will have had to pay for official clothing since the department was established last July 1.

DuBois said the gray cotton twill shirt and trousers and pith helmet authorized for 1955 will be used in future as a "training uniform." The new outfit consists of light gray poplin shirt, dark gray tropical worsted trousers and gray visored cap.

In its next budget the County Council will be asked to provide a "sizeable" uniform allowance for the officers, who now must provide their own pistols, which cost about $55 each new, and handcuffs, costing an average of $12 a pair.

Other uniform expenses so far have been $116 for winter clothing, $13.50 for leather accessories and $17 for last year's summer attire. The $47 for this summer covers three shirts, two pairs of trousers and the cap.

MAN STABBED TO DEATH, ASSAILANT NOT IDENTIFIED

Fred Tripp, 2049 Ann avenue, was stabbed to death early yesterday by an unidentified assailant in the 4000 block of Olive street. He was a porter, about 50 years old.

Witnesses called police after seeing Tripp struggling with a Negro man about 20 to 25 years old, who struck him with a long-bladed knife and then ran west on Olive.

He was not robbed, and before losing consciousness he was able to give a description of the other man.

YOUTH ADMITS PUSHING LOG ON POLICE CAR

30-Pound Wedge Crashes Through Vehicle Attempting to Catch 'Drag Racers.'

A Ladue High School senior, Reginald Hobson Drant, was at liberty under $3500 bond today on a felony warrant charging assault to do great bodily harm following his admission that he pushed a 30-pound piece of fire wood from a highway overpass onto a police car early yesterday.

Five other youths were let off with a lecture after they admitted they had been "laying" for a police car because of efforts of the Missouri Highway Patrol and Richmond Heights and Ladue police to halt "drag racing" on Daniel Boone Parkway west of Brentwood boulevard and other places.

State Trooper Bert F. Morris narrowly escaped serious injury when the wood crashed through the machine as it passed under the McCutcheon road bridge over the parkway, pursuing two cars which were racing to see which could reach high speed most quickly from a dead stop.

Morris had gone to the highway after police received a tip late Saturday night that "drag racing" was planned. He arrived just as a race was starting and gave chase.

As he approached McCutcheon at nearly 80 miles an hour, his rotating spotlight picked out figures on the overpass and he heard a voice call "Now!" A split second later the log struck the right side of his windshield. Morris's hands were cut by the flying glass and he gave up the chase.

A short time earlier a passer-by on the bridge, seeing the youths with the wood balanced on the rail, had been suspicious and telephoned police, giving the license number of an automobile parked nearby. This led to the arrest of Drant and the others.

Other nearby residents reported having seen several youths pushing the chunk of wood off the viaduct, apparently practicing timing on the road shoulder as other automobiles passed.

Drant, 18 years old, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Drant, 4 Ladue Hills, Olivette. The warrant, issued by Magistrate Raymond I. Harris, is returnable Friday. Of the five youths released, police said two also were Ladue High School students. Family automobiles reportedly were used for the racing.

PILOT AND SENATOR ASSAIL COMMERCE DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—The president of the Air Line Pilots Association and Senator A. S. (Mike) Monroney (Dem., Oklahoma), said today they agree the "stupid policies" in the Commerce Department have frustrated the growth of United States civil and military aviation.

Clarence N. Sayen of Chicago, testifying before the Senate aviation subcommittee which Monroney heads, urged Congress to strip the Commerce Department of authority over the Civil Aeronautics Administration and to consider placing a new Cabinet member—a secretary for air—at its head.

Sayen, whose association is the collective bargaining agent for pilots of 41 airlines, agreed with a remark by Monroney that CAA's air traffic control work has been "starved to death by stupid policies" in the Commerce Department. Monroney said CAA comes up with good programs but keeps meeting up with "hatchet men in Commerce."

The subcommittee is conducting public hearings on a bill by Monroney to make CAA an independent agency, headed by an administrator, and also is investigating the firing of Frederick B. Lee as CAA administrator last December.

NAZI SABOTAGE DISCLOSED IN 1940 SINKING

cause of his impending mission to the United States "and the present atmosphere there," one Nazi report said.

Sought to Avoid Suspicion.

"Lothian clearly wants to avoid the suspicion," it went on, "that he has not yet been converted from his idea of reconciliation with Germany."

The value to Hitler of liberating Bohemia and Moravia, Lothian was said to have stressed, would be to "disarm at one blow his Hitler's bitterest enemies abroad" and to produce a "revolutionary effect" inside Britain itself.

European, notably British, public opinion had been deeply shocked by the Nazi occupation of Prague in March 1939, and by the subsequent incorporation of Czechoslovakia into the Hitler Reich.

However, Lothian's plan for the restored freedom of the two major provinces of Bohemia and Moravia—which would presumably have left the German-populated Sudetenland in Hitler's grip—either never reached, or never influenced Hitler.

By September Lothian had arrived in Washington, and a few days later the Nazi attack on Poland was launched.

Test of British Thinking.

An illuminating account of Nazi maneuvers to gauge top British political thinking on the eve of the war has been furnished by the latest volume of German foreign policy documents which is published by the government stationery office.

Entitled "The Last Months of Peace," the new volume is based on 785 documents captured in World War II. Those concerning Lothian's plan are based on private reports furnished Hitler by Adam von Trott zu Soltz.

Von Trott, who attended Oxford as a Rhodes scholar, had political and social contacts in Britain. It was he who discussed the Bohemian-Moravian "liberation" plan with Lothian.

Their meeting came at a dinner given in June 1939, by the late Viscount Astor and Nancy, the dowager Viscountess Astor, at their home, Cliveden in Buckinghamshire.

"Being the only German among some 30 guests, and supported only by my host, who is still as markedly Germanophile as ever, as well as by his like-minded son," Von Trott wrote "I sensed that the general attitude toward me was one of unusual embarrassment."

Nevertheless, he went on, he decided, "in accordance with my instructions to go over to the attack at the first opportunity."

Opportunity at Dinner.

The opportunity arose at dinner when he was seated next to Lothian and opposite Lord Halifax (who succeeded Lothian as ambassador in Washington after the former's death in December 1940).

"At first Lady Astor, with her aggressive and mocking manner, made it rather difficult for me to gain a hearing," Von Trott acknowledged in a report to Hitler.

However, when the ladies had retired after dinner "I was able in about three hours to put the German view clearly and unreservedly, to register the nature of the British reaction."

In a later "private" conversation, Von Trott continued, Lord Lothian urged the Bohemian-Moravian plan and the greatest possible secrecy for it.

Ibn Saud's Views Tested.

By the Associated Press. Another captured German document claimed the late King Ibn Saud offered to co-operate with the Nazis just before World War II if Germany would provide bargain-price arms for Saudi Arabia.

The document was a report sent to Berlin just before World War II by Fritz Grobba, German Minister in Iraq and Saudi Arabia. Grobba's report, as published by the British, indicated he had been sounding out possible allies for Hitler in case war broke out.

"While in Jidda (Saudi Arabia) I completely revised my views of King Ibn Saud's attitude to Britain," Grobba wrote. "I have gained the definite impression that he hates the British and is trying to extricate himself from their hands. . . . He feels hemmed in by them. . . .

In three detailed conversations which I had with the British other than as liars.

"Compared with the opportunities and advantages offered to us in the event of war and even in peacetime by co-operation with Ibn Saud, the price he asks is extremely little. He wants 8000 Mauser rifles with ammunition and a small ammunition factory in favorable conditions of payment."

The documents do not show what action was taken on Grobba's report. But Saudi Arabia remained in the Allied camp during World War II and was given American lend-lease aid which ranged to $17,500,000 up to 1946.

Ibn Saud died in 1953 at the age of 71 and was succeeded by his son, the present King Saud.

Swedish Ex-Foreign Minister Denies Pro-German Views. STOCKHOLM, May 28 (UPI)—Former Swedish Foreign Minister Christian Gunther yesterday termed "completely unfounded" alleged pro-German statements attributed to him in wartime Nazi documents released in Washington.

Gunther was out of town for the weekend and could not be reached personally. However, he authorized the Foreign Office to issue an emphatic denial of the alleged statement.

The documents said that Gunther "condemned in the strongest terms the flagrant violation of Norwegian territory by the Western powers." The statement was contained in a telegram sent April 9, 1940, by Prinz zu Wied, then German ambassador to Sweden, to the German Foreign Ministry after an alleged conversation between Wied and Gunther.

SCHOOL BOARD TO CONSIDER INTEGRATION FILM REQUEST

A request by Charles Guggenheim & Associates to use Beaumont High School for scenes in a planned documentary film on racial integration in St. Louis public schools will be brought before the Board of Education on Thursday, it was decided today at a meeting of the board's community planning committee.

Oscar A. Ehrhardt, chairman of the committee, declined to say whether his group would recommend approval of the request, which was discussed in closed session. He said the full board, which will meet as a committee of the whole, also would consider the matter in closed session.

Ehrhardt said a poll he took of board members indicated there were "mixed feelings" about the project. He said that when the board decided on its integration policy, it agreed informally not to dramatize or publicize the action. Guggenheim, who produced documentaries about the St. Louis earnings tax and bond issue campaigns, said the film will be made in other locations, if the board does not permit the use of school property. It is being financed by the Fund for the Republic, of New York.

THE VOTE THAT COUNTS MOST.

WICHITA, Kan., May 28 (AP)—Democratic Chairman Frank Theis of Kansas says his county chairmen are having "women trouble" in lining up candidates for the state legislature. "A county chairman will tell me he just about has a man ready to run for the Legislature and then he reports the man's wife won't let him run."

FRANCE TRANSFERS FOUR AREAS TO INDIA

Nehru Says He Also Hopes to Report Shift of Goa Soon.

NEW DELHI, May 28 (AP)—France today formally transferred its four little settlements on the Indian coast to Prime Minister Nehru's government.

Nehru and French Ambassador Count Stanislas Ostrorog signed the treaty of transfer, which must be ratified by the parliaments of both nations.

The pact covers the four settlements of Pondichery, Karikal and Yanam on the east coast and Mahe on the west. French since the Eighteenth Century, they actually came under Indian control in November 1954.

Nehru told parliament completion of the transfer treaty had been delayed "because France has had many other heavy problems to consider." He expressed "high appreciation" to the French government.

The Prime Minister added that he hoped that "before too long" he could report to parliament the transfer to India of Goa and two other small Portuguese colonies which are the last foreign areas on the Indian subcontinent. Portugal has refused to negotiate on the Indian demands.

The French settlements total 193 square miles in area and have a population of more than 317,000.

The settlements shall remain separate administrative units in India and shall retain French as the official language unless the people or their elected representatives decide otherwise.

People born in the former French areas and living there six months to remain French nationals.

Those born in the former French areas living outside India remain French nationals unless they express a desire to become Indian citizens. Institutions seeking to promote French culture and traditions will be permitted to continue.

One Killed by Bomb on Launch Docking in India.

The announcement indicated Indian agitators were suspected.

PRESIDENT, TOP OFFICIALS DISCUSS SECURITY MATTERS

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—President Eisenhower met today with key diplomatic, intelligence and military officials for a discussion of what the White House termed "security matters."

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty declined to elaborate on the topic but declared that the conference had nothing to do with the possibility of top United States military officials visiting Russia.

In reply to a question, Hagerty also said the discussion was in no way related to recently publicized differences between the armed services.

AIRMAN ACCIDENTALLY SHOT TO DEATH IN PISTOL GAME

YOKOTA, Japan, May 28 (AP)—An 18-year-old Texas airman was killed Sunday in a pistol game with another air policeman, the Air Force said today.

It said Airman 2-C Jack V. Tinnin of El Paso was killed in "an accidental shooting." The Air Force gave this account:

Airman 2-C Richard Jennings of Berkeley, Calif., going on duty, yelled, "Okay, draw!" when Tinnin, just off duty, entered the barracks after checking in his 45 automatic pistol. Jennings drew his weapon which accidentally discharged. Jennings is confined to his barracks pending completion of an investigation.

SENATE UNIT OK'S MEASURE CLOSING DRAFT LOOPHOLE

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—Chairman Richard Russell (Dem.), Georgia, said yesterday the Senate Armed Services Committee has voted to close a legal loophole open to a few draft-age men who want to avoid military service.

Only those able to get an appointment to Army, Navy, Air Force or Coast Guard academies can take advantage of the loophole, by resigning after brief service.

"We were told that as many as 28 former service men in a recent class at Annapolis resigned soon after appointments," Russell said.

Existing law directs that cadets at the West Point Military Academy, midshipmen at the Naval Academy and appointees to other military academies be discharged from regular military obligations when they win these appointments.

Until 1953 the selective service act required that the student officers serve out regular enlistments or be subject to draft induction unless they completed their studies or had medical or physical discharges.

Since then the resigned cadets and midshipmen have

HOUSING DESIGNED FOR THE AGED URGEDHealth, Welfare Facilities Needed, Says National Leader Here.

Since more Americans now live to an old age, public housing officials should think about providing more specially designed units for older people, Robert D. Sipprell, president of the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials, said here today.

He stated very few units at present were designed to meet the needs of older people. In designing units for them housing authorities should consider carefully their needs for special health and welfare facilities.

This advice was given today at the opening general session of a two-day north central regional conference of the association at Hotel Statler.

"Federal controls and regulations have greatly increased the burden of paperwork for housing authorities," Sipprell declared. He said federal administrative restrictions and demands for detailed reports have increased in the past several years.

He called for fewer federal restrictions so that more housing groups could make their own decisions at the local level to fit local conditions.

Chester A. Amedia, head of the technical and maintenance section of the association, told a committee yesterday that building maintenance was becoming an increasingly acute problem.

He said many housing units are now more than 15 years old. Some units built during the war, when durable materials were unavailable, are also showing the need for extensive maintenance work, Amedia declared.

A two-day community improvement clinic also opens today at Hotel Statler. The clinic is sponsored by ACTION (American Council to Improve Our Neighborhoods) and the American Municipal Association.

Workshops for public officials and civic workers from Missouri, Illinois and Iowa began today. This group will have a joint luncheon with the housing and redevelopment convention tomorrow.

high school No. 354, has for 20 years augmented his salary by lecturing on moral and ethical subjects to the children of revolutionaries who came to power in 1917.

He now finds these questions troubling the offspring of the builders of barricades:
How should one take bread out of a plate? (Barinov was not clear, but the problem seemed to be whether to use a fork or a hand.)

Can a girl invite a young man to dance?
How do you greet an acquaintance when you meet him?
Barinov was dismayed that publishers have not brought out pamphlets to give youth the answers to these pressing problems. He also thought that young Communists should have literature on good taste, beauty and elegance, politeness, table settings, how to look at paintings and why love is called a beautiful and noble feeling.

HALL AND BUTLER TRADE POLITICAL PUNCHES OVER TV

Pledge No 'Mudslinging,' Then Accuse Each Other of Countenancing 'Scandals.'

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall predicted yesterday President Eisenhower will be re-elected by an overwhelming majority, but Paul Butler, Democratic chairman, said there is a greater demand now for a change than a year ago.

The two political leaders met in a brisk televised debate on NBC's "American Forum," peppered with charges and countercharges of lack of sincerity, distorting facts and having a "short memory."

Both chairmen promised their respective party campaigns will be free of "mudslinging" and then immediately accused each other of countenancing "scandals" in the Truman and Eisenhower administrations.

In the heat of the exchange in which the two chairmen threw away their prepared material, Butler renewed a challenge to Mr. Eisenhower to defend his record before television cameras in a debate with the Democratic candidate for President.

Predicts Acceptance.

Butler did not name any Democratic presidential aspirant but predicted the candidate, whoever he may be, will accept any such challenge.

"As far as I'm concerned, it won't be accepted," said Hall. He challenged Butler's sincerity in making the offer.

"Did Roosevelt or Truman ever accept such a challenge?" asked Hall.

"I was not Democratic national chairman then," said Butler.

Hall's case for the Administration centered around a defense of policies concerning national defense, the federal budget and taxation, civil rights and economic prosperity.

Butler said that never had so many campaign promises been made on so many subjects as were made by Mr. Eisenhower as a candidate in 1952.

"He certainly has not produced," Butler said, citing lowering of taxes, reduction of the national debt and balancing the budget as examples of lack of action.

"Why don't you be honest with the American people," Hall retorted. "You know the budget's balanced."

Claims Promises Kept.

Hall said many promises were made by Republicans four years ago and that the President "has kept them."

On national defense, Butler asserted that heads of the armed forces at present are "squabbling" with each other and that this itself negated a G.O.P. platform promise to "strip the services clean of such conflict."

"You have a short memory, Paul," Hall replied. He said such inter-service conflicts existed in previous administrations and that the prime important factor was whether we have a "good defense."

"When you (Democrats) were in control, we didn't have anything to fight with when we got into trouble in Korea," Hall added.

Butler said that under the present Administration "big business is getting bigger and small business is disappearing." He said that a year ago there was a "demand by the people for a new administration and that demand now is even greater."

WAREHOUSE POOL APPROVED BY DEFENSE DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—Representative Henry S. Reuss (Dem., Wisconsin), said yesterday the Defense Department has approved a proposal to pool unused warehouse space among the three military services as recommended by the Hoover Commission.

The commission has estimated that some $250,000,000 a year could be saved by pooling and exchanging available warehouse space by the Army, Navy and Air Force.

Reuss, author of a bill to accomplish the commission's proposal, said Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker had endorsed the plan.

THREAT OF FAMINE ADDED TO CRISES IN EAST PAKISTAN

The New York Times News Service, Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.

KARACHI, May 28—President Iskander Mirza was beset by new troubles today in a crisis over heavily populated East Pakistan. Nearly 45,000,000 inhabitants face a threat of imminent famine in the area, which is separated from West Pakistan by India.

In the wake of his dismissal Saturday of the provincial government for maladministration, President Mirza conferred yesterday with Prime Minister Mohammed Ali and his Cabinet. It was an unsuccessful attempt to find administrative talent to replace the seven-month-old regime of Abu Hussain Sarkar, chief minister of East Pakistan. Meanwhile, the central government rushed specialists in food and administration to Dacca, capital of the eastern area.

Mirza issued a proclamation Saturday night declaring the administration of the area had been taken over by the central government. Fazlul Huq, the provincial governor, will be the

URGES U.S. BUILD LARGE NUCLEAR PLANTS ABROAD

Publisher Who Headed Panel on Peace-Time Atom Puts Cost at $300,000,000.

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 28—The United States should build a number of full-scale nuclear power plants in underdeveloped foreign countries, Robert McKinney, New Mexico newspaper publisher, said today.

McKinney, who headed a citizen's panel that reported to Congress last January on the impact of peaceful uses of atomic energy, said his proposed international atomic power demonstration program would cost $300,000,000 to $350,000,000.

In testimony before the Senate-House Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, he urged the program as a way to prove that "atoms-for-peace" was more than "an advertising program without a product."

McKinney, editor and publisher of the Santa Fe New Mexican, presented the proposal as an alternative to a plan by Senator Albert Gore (Dem., Tennessee), for government construction of six nuclear power plants in various parts of the United States. The joint committee is holding hearings on the Gore bill.

Can't Abdicate Now.
"It was in the United States that the first controlled nuclear chain reaction was achieved," McKinney noted. "It is in the United States that the greatest progress has been made toward harnessing the fundamental discovery. After having come so far in our development of the peaceful uses, we cannot now abdicate—and let others bring them to mankind."
"We must press forward vigorously with peaceful uses of atomic energy as a constructive new instrument in international relations. Otherwise, all our fine promises since we first used the phrase 'atoms-for-peace' will have gone only to make headlines and consume newsprint. At our own invitation, the world will judge us as to whether 'atoms-for-peace' was an advertising program without a product."

He objected to the Gore plan for domestic power plants on the ground that they would require heavy capital expenditures that never could be written off and continuing subsidies for deficit operations.
Higher power costs abroad would make it easier for atomic plants there to compete with conventional generating plants, McKinney pointed out. He proposed construction, "in countries needing atomic power now," of one atomic plant of each major type and appropriate size to be constructed in the United States under current plans by private firms, most of them with some government assistance.

Helping Those in Need.
"The international program would prove to the world that we are vigorously moving forward to help those in need; that we are giving them our latest developments, not our cast-off designs; and that worldwide application of peaceful uses of atomic energy are not being held back because our own needs for fuel, energy and food are not as pressing as in other nations," he said.

As possible sites, he mentioned Japan, the Philippines, Thailand, Pakistan, India, Turkey and countries in the Middle East, Africa, Western Europe and Latin America.

Recalling President Eisenhower's offer last February of 20,000 kilograms of nuclear fuel for use at home and another 20,000 for use abroad, McKinney observed that "just making fissionable material available does not build reactors."
"We must make a broad atomic assistance program an integral part of our international relations," he said.

5 ST. LOUIS YOUTHS HELD IN EAST SIDE DISTURBANCE

Five St. Louis youths were arrested Saturday night when they drove to Fairmont City and allegedly attempted to start a fight with a group of youths there. Police reported they confiscated a shotgun, 22 caliber pistol, lead pipes and automobile chains from the youths.

Four of the five, all 17 years old, were identified as Ronald G. Stefanie, 700 block of Shendoah avenue, Eugene R. Thompson, 1000 block of Ann avenue; George P. Schuld, 2400 block of South Ninth street, and William Plafcan, 1800 block of South Thirteenth street. The other is 15 years old.

Police Chief Charles Druse of Fairmont City said Stefanie had been ordered to stay away from Fairmont City by friends of a girl he was dating. Officers arrived at the scene just as the 15-year-old boy discharged a shotgun blast into the air. All were fined $25 by Justice of the Peace Alex Bregen on charges of disturbing the peace. Stefanie was fined an additional $50 for speeding and having a concealed weapon, a knife, and the 15-year-old was fined $25 for discharging a firearm.

Sukarno Receives Degree.
DETROIT, May 28 (AP)—Indonesia's President Sukarno received an honorary Doctor of Laws degree yesterday at the University of Michigan. In an address at Ann Arbor, the President expressed the belief that atomic energy can industrialize Asia, or destroy mankind.

GARRISON NORTON PICKED AS AID TO NAVY SECRETARY

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—President Eisenhower today nominated Garrison Norton, now a consultant to Secretary of the Air Force Donald A. Charles, to be assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air.

Norton, a 56-year-old Republican, would succeed James H. Smith Jr., whose resignation was announced by the White House today.

Norton served as an assistant Secretary of State in the Truman Administration in 1947. He also has been chairman of the government's air coordinating commission. He is a special partner in the banking firm of A. M. Burden of New York and makes his home in Washington.

The President picked David A. Hamil, speaker of Colorado's General Assembly, to be chief of the Rural Electrification Administration. The White House said a formal nomination to the $15,000-a-year post would be sent to the Senate soon.

Subject to Senate confirmation, Hamil, 47-year-old Republican, would succeed Ancher Nelson, who resigned May 15 to seek the Republican nomination for Governor of Minnesota.

Hamil, whose home is at Atwood, is in the cattle feeding business. He has been speaker of the Colorado General Assembly since 1951 and now is serving his third term as speaker.

STRIKE SET BY EMPLOYEES OF CITY WATER DIVISION

A strike of 400 laborers and truck drivers employed in the city water division has been scheduled for Friday, Jack Keene, business representative of Local 675, State, County and Municipal Employees' Union, announced today.

Keene said the workers, all members of the union, are dissatisfied with the Civil Service Commission's refusal to reclassify them in a compensation bill pending before the Board of Aldermen. They receive about $18 a month less than men employed in similar capacities at the Laclede Gas Co., he said. The compensation bill provides for a 5 per cent wage increase for most employees but contains no reclassification provisions. The men work in outer yards of the water plant. Laborers in the water division are paid $1.76 an hour and truck drivers $1.80.

WOMAN TO SETTLE TAX BILL WITH $34,067 PAYMENT

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—The Government has agreed to accept $34,067 from Mrs. Frances Burchette Reayburn, Peoria, Ill., in settlement of an income tax bill for $265,951.

She is owner of Burchette Photo Studios in Peoria, Springfield, Rockford, Decatur and Lincoln, Ill., and Davenport, Ia.

Mrs. Reayburn did not dispute the Internal Revenue Service's claim that she owed the $265,951 for income taxes, interest and penalties for 1942 through 1946.

Her husband, Arthur, joined her in signing an agreement to pay the Government a graduated percentage of any annual earnings over $7500 from 1955 through 1965. This would be in addition to the $34,067.

COMPTON FORESEES ATOMIC STATEMATE
Looks for 10-Year Truce—No U.S. Defense for Long-Range Missile.

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, May 28—The United States has not yet developed any adequate means of defense against the intercontinental ballistic missile of the future, Arthur H. Compton of St. Louis declared here today.
Compton, former Chancellor of Washington University, added, however, that research now under way in this country gives promise of an "atomic statemate" which could insure peace for another 10 years.
Addressing the annual convention of the American Booksellers' Association, the Nobel prize-winning physicist said a standoff in nuclear weapons and the means for their delivery may produce "a precarious armistice."
Such a truce, he said, could be depended upon "only so long as we keep ourselves prepared and vigilant," adding: "the more enduring peace must rest on reducing international passions to a temperate heat and on strengthening the ties of mutual need."
Compton, now distinguished service professor of natural philosophy at the University, told the Post-Dispatch his prediction of a decade of peace was based in part on research work he has observed throughout the country.

This work, he said, "gives a foretaste of 10-year statemate" in which scientists in the United States and Russia will continue to devise "deterrents" to an all-out atomic war.
"After that, however, there is no known defense against guided missiles," he asserted. This does not necessarily mean that a defense will not be found before the intercontinental missile is perfected, he added.
Compton, who worked on the original atomic bomb, said he did not want to be drawn into the present controversy over whether the United States is lagging behind Russia in development of guided missiles and long-range bombers.

Neither Dares Attack.
From a purely military point of view, neither side dares attack the other at the present time, because the "deterrents" developed by scientists would result in instant destructive retaliation, Compton declared.
"The uncertainty is whether the peoples of the world will act rationally, in their own interest," to prevent a sudden attack, he commented.
In his speech, Compton discussed the need for greater international co-operation as holding the best chance for lasting peace. Development of atomic energy for peacetime uses, he said, "demands a co-operative society."

He described a new book he has written, "Atomic Quest—A Personal Narrative," in which he discusses the personalities of the men who developed the first atomic bomb. The book is scheduled to be published next fall.

EXHAUSTIVE CLINICAL TESTS PROVE DR. EDWARDS' OLIVE TABLETS 58% MORE EFFECTIVE THAN OTHER LAXATIVES!

261 cases tested prove OLIVE TABLETS give you Nature's ideal regularity!
Medical evidence finally promises you thorough, safe, natural relief from that miserable, sickening feeling of irregularity! Leading doctors in a prominent medical center have just finished testing 7 popular, well-known laxatives. These are the facts based on clinical records of 261 patients, from 11 to 87 years old, suffering from acute and chronic constipation:
DR. EDWARDS' OLIVE TABLETS, made from pure-vegetable drugs and plant herbs, gave thorough, gentle, effective results in 9 out of 10 cases! OLIVE TABLETS were 58% more effective—with less unpleasant effects—than all the other laxatives tested!

The doctors found, too, that OLIVE TABLETS function naturally, work only on digested food in the lower bowel, without causing undue weakness or removing nourishment that your body needs. They're unsurpassed as a laxative for temporary constipation. Sold by all druggists.
For a reprint of this doctors' report, published in "Clinical Medicine," write: The Olive Tablet Company, Box 277, Station A, Columbus 1, Ohio.

TWO N. CAROLINA RACE MANIFESTO OPPONENTS LOSE

Only One of Non-Signers Wins in Democratic Congressional Primary.

RALEIGH, N. C., May 28—Representative Harold D. Cooley, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee and veteran of 22 years service in the Congress, was the only one of three North Carolina congressmen who failed to sign the March 12 southern manifesto to survive Saturday Democratic primary voting.

Representatives Thurmond Chatham and Charles B. Deane, the other non-signers of the paper pledging 101 Congressmen to use every lawful means to resist the Supreme Court's segregation decision, both lost out in races in which the manifesto was the main issue. However, observers looking for signs of hardening of the arteries on the race issue in North Carolina could see mixed trends in the moderately heavy primary voting.

Representative F. Ertel Carlyle, Seventh District representative since 1948, was unseated in a race in which the manifesto was no issue. He was beaten by former United States Senator Alton A. Lennon.

Representative Chatham lost to District Superior Court Solicitor Ralph H. Scott of Danbury. Although the manifesto became the principal issue in this campaign, it was generally conceded even before the emergence of that paper that Chatham was in trouble.

Cooley Had Farm Backing.
Nor was the victory won by Cooley an outright test of the race issue, since he repeatedly expressed his opposition to integration in the campaign in which he easily turned back W. E. Debnam, Raleigh news commentator. Cooley's chairmanship of the Agriculture Committee, a job of considerable importance to his predominantly agricultural district, had farm leaders working like beavers for him.

The Eighth District race, in which Deane lost to A. Paul Kitchin, lawyer from Wadesboro, was regarded as a true test of the race issue in that district since Deane flatly declined to back track on his refusal to sign the manifesto and it was the sole issue used against him.

On the other hand, voting in other contests strongly indicated that North Carolinians favor moderation on the issue. Gov. Luther Hodges piled up a record-breaking vote against three opponents, two of whom had used the race issue against him. It appeared the Governor's total would approach 400,000 votes, about five times the combined total for his opponents and 88,000 more than any candidate ever received in a North Carolina Democratic primary.

Hodges approach to the race issue generally is looked upon as moderate, although he has expressed "unalterable opposition" to mixing the races in public schools.

For Lieutenant Governor.
The only other contest in which the race question became an issue was for lieutenant governor. State Senator J. Vivian Whitfield, the only candidate to advocate closing the schools if necessary to avoid integration, came in a poor fifth. Senate President Luther Barnhardt, who led that race, did not speak out on the segregation question.

In other races of consequence, Senator Sam J. Ervin Jr. was renominated by a one-sided margin over Mayor Marshall Kurfees of Winston-Salem; and Ralph Webb Gardner of Shelby, son of the late Gov. A. Max Gardner, led in a three-man race for Congress in the eleventh district. A second primary appeared likely in this campaign for a seat being given up by Representative Woodrow Jones.

Of six Congressmen involved in primary contests representatives Cooley, Carl T. Durham and Graham A. Barden won, all by good margins.

TWO ADDED TO FBI LIST OF 'MOST WANTED MEN'

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—The FBI today made two additions to its list of "10 most wanted men," as replacements for two fugitives charged with the 1950 Boston Brink's robbery who were caught in that city two weeks ago.

The newly listed pair are: Carmine DiBiase, 33 years old, wanted for a five-year-old murder on New York's lower East Side.

Eugene Francis Newman, 30, charged with taking part in an abortive attempt to steal nearly $500,000 from an armored truck at Buffalo, N.Y., last Aug. 3. Authorities say he may be in Canada.

CANON CLIMBS TO BELFRY TO ESCAPE SWARM OF BEES

MALMESBURY, England, May 28 (AP)—A swarm of bees forced Canon D. E. J. Anthony to climb to safety in the belfry of his church last night.

Verger W. R. Pritchard discovered the bees just before communion, but was able to lock them in the vestry. The bees remained docile until evening when Canon Anthony went to don his surplice. As they started to swarm about him he fled to the belfry. Once again the verger got them into the vestry and the canon climbed down and held service.

MEMORIAL DAY ROAD TOLL OF 110 IS PREDICTED

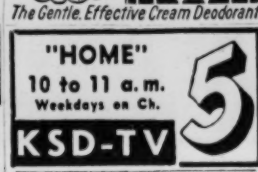

CHICAGO, May 28 (AP)—The National Safety Council estimates Memorial Day traffic accidents will claim 110 lives. The normal average of motor vehicle deaths on a non-holiday Wednesday at this time of year is 70.

The council challenged the motoring public to hold the Memorial day death toll to 70. The period covered by the advance estimate is from 6 p.m. Tuesday to midnight Wednesday. The estimate does not include deaths that may occur later from injuries suffered on Memorial Day.

Dulles Indorses Foreign Policy As Campaign Issue, Welcomes 'Thorough Airing' of Affairs

Secretary Believes Election Debate Would Be a 'Healthy Thing'—Also Defends His Globe-Trotting Diplomacy in TV Interview.

By DANA ADAMS SCHMIDT
The New York Times News Service.
(Copyright 1956, by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, May 28. SECRETARY OF STATE DULLES says he welcomes "a pretty thorough airing" of foreign policy during the fall election campaign. He hopes the discussion will prove "constructive" and "not just throwing dead cats around."

He gave his opinions last night in a filmed television program that was made before he left, Friday, for a vacation at his Duck Island retreat.

Dulles defended his globe-trotting diplomacy on the grounds that "it's silly to go to it the old-fashioned way of exchanging notes, which takes a month, perhaps, before you get a good understanding."

He thought he could get better understanding "by overnight flight" and "talking a few minutes face to face."

"I don't think we'll ever go back to the old-fashioned way," Dulles said.

He said he had traveled 310,000 miles as Secretary of State, adding that the "team of Bulganin and Khrushchev" are also on the move. He asserted that the Russian leaders had spent "more time outside of Russia than I've been outside the United States" in the last year.

Cites Statistics. "You might say they've out-Dulled Dulles," observed Representative Kenneth B. Keating (Rep., New York, who interviewed the Secretary on the program "Let's Look at Congress" over six New York state stations.

In defense of his record for keeping Congress and the public informed Dulles cited some more statistics.

1. He had met with congressional committees or bi-partisan groups 130 times—more often than "any of my predecessors."

2. He had held 70 press conferences, frequently followed by radio-television appearances.

3. He had made "54 major foreign policy speeches."

He said President Eisenhower takes "a tremendous interest" in foreign policy.

"He and I talk things over at a formative stage when policy is being made," he said. "How are we going to do these things, how are we going to get peace in Korea, how will we bring the Russians to act more decently, and things of that sort. And he, with his broad foreign experience—he's covered not only Europe, but also the Far East—and with his knowledge of foreign personalities, he's able to make personally a very great contribution to foreign policy."

It was at this point in the interview that Dulles welcomed an election debate of foreign policy.

Stevenson's Record on Old-Age Pensions Worries Californians

Congressmen Roosevelt and King Defend Illinoisan—Oldsters and Their Leader Call Kefauver 'Friend of Needy.'

By DREW PEARSON
(Copyright, 1956.)

WASHINGTON. LONG-DISTANCE telephone lines have been burning up between California, Chicago and Washington over Adlai Stevenson's record on old-age pensions when he was Governor of Illinois.

First to pick up the telephone were Pat Brown, Attorney General of California, and Paul Ziffren of Los Angeles, both top strategists of Stevenson's California campaign. They called Dick Finnegan, Stevenson's campaign manager in Chicago, to say that George McLain, powerful leader of the old-age pension movement in Southern California, had published in his National Welfare Advocate a scathing review of Stevenson's pension record, showing that he had vetoed a bill for a 10 per cent raise in Illinois aid to the needy.

Brown and Ziffren were worried over what this would do to the vote for Stevenson in Southern California.

Telephones Congressmen. Finnegan did some telephoning of his own. He called Congressmen Jimmy Roosevelt and Cecil King, both from Southern California, both Stevenson delegates, and both friends of George McLain.

Roosevelt and King promptly buttonholed McLain in Washington. They were in a good position to do this because both have introduced his bill to overhaul the entire public assistance section of the Social Security Act. This pertains to aid for the aged, the needy, the blind, the physically handicapped and dependent children. What puts Stevenson on the spot is that Senator Kefauver is the sponsor of this same bill in the Senate.

Quite a hassle followed between McLain, King and Roosevelt, despite the fact that McLain has been a staunch backer of both Congressmen and went down the line for Roosevelt for Governor in 1950.

McLain compromised by publishing a statement by Congressman King praising Stevenson's record for old-age pensions. McLain also omitted a previously planned account of Stevenson's record in okaying the "shame list" of recipients of public assistance.

However, McLain also ran a full-page photo of Kefauver on Page 1 of his paper under the caption "Kefauver—Friend of the Needy," while on the editorial page he ran a letter from Warren Lamson, president of the Illinois Pension Union giving Stevenson's record on pensions and on the "shame list," which oldsters bitterly resent.

Congressmen Roosevelt and King, defending Stevenson, said: "On 134 occasions in four years the Republican legislature of Illinois tried to pass bills for roads, bridges, pensions without appropriating one cent to finance them. Gov. Stevenson insisted that the funds be appropriated before he would approve the bills."

The facts, as tabulated by the California Institute of Social Welfare, are that on Aug. 3, 1951, Gov. Stevenson vetoed House bill No. 85 providing for a 10 per cent increase for "food, clothing and personal incidentals" for the aged and the needy; but one month earlier, June 30, 1951, he vetoed Amendment 2 of Senate bill 556 carrying a $14,300,000 appropriation to pay for this 10 per cent increase. Thus he vetoed both the appropriation and the authorization.

"Shame List" Bill. July 28, 1951, Stevenson signed Senate bill No. 485 which required each county department of welfare to publish monthly reports of those receiving pensions, disability assistance, blind assistance and aid to dependent children—the "shame list." The Illinois bill was passed contingent on passage of a similar law by Congress in Washington. Oct. 1, 1951, Congress passed the Jenner amendment which activated the "shame list" in Illinois.

The California Institute of Social Welfare also compiled figures showing that pensioners Continued on Page 9, Column 6.

Rejection of Wiley by Wisconsin G.O.P. Poses Delicate Decision for Eisenhower to Make Senator Is Top Midwest Supporter of Administration Policies.

By ALLEN DRURY
The New York Times News Service.
(Copyright, 1956, by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON. THE repudiation of Senator Alexander Wiley by the Wisconsin state Republican convention has posed a delicate political problem for the Eisenhower Administration.

The Senator is the principal Midwest supporter of the President's foreign policy.

Representative Glenn R. Davis, the man who beat him for endorsement in the convention, is an Eisenhower delegate to the 1956 Republican national convention and a reasonably consistent supporter of the President's domestic policies.

Behind Representative Davis are aligned the leaders of the Republican state organization, including Senator Joseph R. McCarthy.

Wiley, seeking his fourth term at 72, has strong rank-and-file support and plans to fight Davis for the nomination in the state primary in September, regardless of the convention action.

Vigorous Supporter. The Senator, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee in the first two years of the Eisenhower Administration and the committee's ranking Republican member now, has gone to bat repeatedly for Mr. Eisenhower's foreign policy proposals. His vigorous support had much to do with his rejection by the convention.

The President compromised with the McCarthy faction in Wisconsin once before, when he was seeking the state's votes in the election of 1952.

Should Wiley fail to receive Administration support in his battle with Davis, Mr. Eisenhower may lose from the Senate a man who has been of great assistance in beating back such proposals as the treaty-limiting amendment offered by Senator John W. Bricker (Rep., Ohio).

Further, the Administration would lose its main supporter in the entire Midwest. Most other Senators from that area are lukewarm in their backing of Eisenhower for the policies and, in some cases are actively engaged in trying to undercut them. Not the least of these is McCarthy.

Wiley Men Complain. In view of the political risks Wiley has taken for the President, many of the Senator's associates already have complained bitterly in private that the President was doing little to assist him in his fight for political survival.

They reportedly fear he may do even less now that the party organization has turned its back on the Senator because of his loyalty to the President.

Davis, who first said he would not seek the nomination but changed his mind when the convention started balloting, is regarded by House colleagues as strongly conservative. One of his most important votes last year was in opposition to the Administration's foreign aid bill.

On major 1955 roll-calls in the foreign policy field, he voted with the Administration only 30 per cent of the time.

Wiley, who knew beforehand that he faced serious opposition within the party, told friends some time ago that if his support of the Eisenhower foreign policy meant his political demise, "then there are other things in life than being a member of the United States Senate."

His friends here understand now that he would like the President's support, but will fight hard to retain his seat whether he has it or not. They aren't counting him out yet.

Davis Captures Fund-Raisers, Is 'Young Blood' President Favors.

WASHINGTON.

SENATOR ALEXANDER WILEY, denied re-election endorsement by the Wisconsin Republican convention, will look to President Eisenhower for help in the state nominating primary next September.

As chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee from 1952 to 1954 and now its ranking Republican, Wiley has ardently pushed the President's foreign policy. The veteran Senator has also fought the Bricker amendment, which Mr. Eisenhower opposes, from his key place as ranking Republican on the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Backers of Representative Glenn R. Davis, who won a surprise G.O.P. endorsement over Wiley, can be expected to insist upon White House neutrality. They will probably have National Chairman Leonard Hall in their corner, for they are the dominant fund-raising force of the state organization.

Taft Man Plays Role. Their best-known member is Thomas G. Coleman, a wealthy manufacturer from Madison, who was the late Senator Taft's floor manager at the 1952 Republican convention. Coleman has strongly backed Senator Joseph McCarthy at home, but has prudently kept his Eisenhower Administration fences in good repair.

To the extent that the Coleman faction sponsors him, Davis who is 41 years old, represents a revival of the right wing isolationist sentiment of Wisconsin. His House colleagues, however, classify him as the Nixon type of politician, rather than an echo from the Taft past.

In his nine years in the House they have found him ambitious, tough and intelligent. Republicans describe his voting record as "in between." Democrats feel it reflects "strictly standard brand" Republicanism, spiced with expediency. Neither side expects to find him at the barricades fighting for unpopular causes.

Davis Assured of Funds. The G.O.P. endorsement denied Senator Wiley has no legal status; it does insure Davis of campaign funds, for Coleman is a fabulously successful money-raiser. As the Senator frankly said, it was not quite a case of

Eisenhower's Personality Holds Voters More Than Policies Do

He Does What Comes Naturally and Succeeds Politically—Troubles Come When He Listens to Advisers.

By JAMES RESTON
The New York Times News Service.
(Copyright 1956, by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, May 28. FOUR YEARS AGO this week, Dwight D. Eisenhower arrived in Washington from Paris to seek the Presidency, and the Capital is still trying to figure him out.

If anything, he has proved to be even more popular with the voters than his backers thought. He has achieved his main objective: he has regained control of the Government for the liberal wing of the Republican party. He has used his power to defend the principle of collective security, and he has conserved what he and the Republican liberals regard as the best parts of the New Deal.

On all this, Washington is generally agreed, but it is still arguing about how he does it. What are his techniques of leadership? What accounts for the general assumption that, regardless of his age, his health, and his opposition, Mr. Eisenhower will win in November?

Personality Carries the Day. Mr. Eisenhower provided the key to this the very first day he came home, on June 1, 1952. He did not pretend then to know the answers to many of the great problems facing the nation. He frankly conceded his weaknesses on policy. What he lacked in the way of a policy, he more than made up for in terms of personality, and this personality is still carrying the day.

Almost as soon as he returned four years ago, he went to his home town in Abilene, Kans. Everything he said there was on his own, everything that was natural and spontaneous, was immediately successful in political terms. It was only when he followed the advice of his political advisers that he tended to get into trouble, and this has been the usual pattern ever since.

His public themes have changed very little. He was exuberantly optimistic then, and he is inexpressibly optimistic now. War and depression were his great enemies then, and these are still his principal topics of public conversation.

If anything, he is even less inclined now than he was then to say anything openly critical of any political opponent. He was outspokenly critical of the late Robert A. Taft in those early days before the Republican nominating convention, but once the convention was over, he made his peace with the Taft wing of the party, and still has a number of powerful conservative Republicans administering in his name the policies Taft fought against for years.

Political Career a Surprise. Though he speaks today very much as he spoke four years ago, his political career has been as much a surprise to him as to anybody else.

He did not plan it the way it has gone. He started out saying he was not going to "fight" Taft for the nomination, but he fought hard. He said he would not wage an aggressive campaign for the Presidency, but ended by flying all over the country and hitting the Democrats with every weapon in the Republican arsenal.

He indicated strongly that he did not want a second term, but he decided to make the race even after his heart attack. He said the doctors would not have a decisive voice in his second-term decision, but he told his press conference last week:

"In the early days when the doctors got to what I thought was a little too optimistic prognosis, I began to argue with them, and I gave them many lectures on exactly what the Presidency was, but I didn't succeed in changing the mind of anybody."

Does What Comes Naturally. Nevertheless, Mr. Eisenhower just goes about his business as naturally to him, and succeeds politically, regardless of whether he is consistent, or whether he operates in accordance with a carefully thought-out plan.

Washington is still arguing about whether he sees his role as that of a powerful leader, or as a unifier and mediator. On the other hand, many others here believe that he is responsible for many controversies, largely because he does not consciously lead but avoids decisions until he is forced to intervene.

Last week, for example, he was questioned about two controversies raging in the Capital. The first was between the armed services over their missions in an era of atomic stalemate. The second was between Secretary of State John Foster

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

September Parking Crisis

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Ever since the riverfront parking area has been in existence, it has solved the problems of thousands of automobile owners whose livelihood depends on this method of transportation.

Over-zealous promoters with an eye towards the tourist dollar have foisted the Mid-America Jubilee on us and have decreased the usable parking space in the riverfront area considerably. Not only does the preparation for the Mid-America Jubilee decrease the parking space now, but for a full 30 days in September, increased traffic and lack of parking space will create a critical situation.

And now the public is informed that: "Effective June 1, 1956, the sale of monthly parking permits will be temporarily discontinued until further notice."

Many salesmen who have relied on this parking facility will now be forced to pay a parking fee several times each day—every time their business requires use of their car. Evidently few business men in the downtown area are aware of what has been going on and how it can affect their business.

This utter disregard of the acute parking problem by our city officials seems fantastic. It is time some action be taken to correct this situation.

NORMAN E. HANSEN.

Naive in the Extreme

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
In "Up to the President" you exhibit justifiable alarm about the unhappiness that exist among the three branches of the armed forces. But, if you will forgive me, your suggestion that the President give his "sure, informed, expert attention" to the situation is naive in the most extreme sense of the word.

R. R. CORNWALL.

Noisy but Nice

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
This is one of many answers which I am sure you received in reply to "Fergusonian" who so selfishly complains about the jets on Sunday.

The noise of jet aircraft is not a desirable one, but neither is that of bombs bursting on "well-trimmed lawns." J.B.G.

University City.

I agree with the Fergusonian. Six days a week we people of Ferguson have to put up with this dreadful, terrifying noise, but why on earth can't they remember the Sabbath?

ANOTHER FERGUSONIAN.

May I console Fergusonian? In Webster Groves some of our attractions are rather peculiar: dogs run wild at night and bark and yelp undisturbed; car drivers use residential streets as raceways—with much horsepower; test planes are not a rarity as they zoom toward and blast through the sound barrier, and, as a special lure to would-be newcomers, 99 and 44/100 of the male population has power-mower facilities.

Webster Groves. V.M.B.

The five jets that Fergusonian complains about were probably weekend warriors, patriotic young Americans who are going up there Sundays and risking their necks so that Fergusonian and the rest of us can have our churches.

PAUL ALLEN EBBES.

I recall some 15 years ago on a Sunday morning when church services, among other things, were halted on the beautiful green island of Hawaii.

AFTONIAN.

In many parts of the world people are slaves of the government and they too must hear jets every day of the week. But they need not worry about interrupted Sabbath services, for there is no worship, at least not openly.

MARIAN ROBERTS.

When the noise of the jets gets deafening, all church activities should cease and everyone should bow in silent prayer that these are American jets, not Communist planes.

AMERICAN.

As long as those boys and their jets are in the air, Buster, you'll be able to go to church. It's when they're no longer in the air your troubles will really begin. They deserve your thanks, not your sarcasm.

E.G.M.

Brentwood.

Another Subpena

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I am among those who have been subpoenaed to appear before the House Committee on Un-American Activities. I want to say right here and now that I have never done anything or said anything that I am ashamed of. On the contrary, I am proud of my record of standing up for freedom of speech and press and for civil rights, for democracy, and for the economic improvement of the working people of our country.

It seems to me that if the House Committee really wants to investigate un-American activities, it should move on further South and hold hearings on the White Citizens Councils, who are defying and flouting the Supreme Court decision on integration of the schools, which is now the law of the land.

Surely if these gentlemen are really looking for subversive activities, there is much work to be done. If nothing else, they could certainly start with Senator Eastland, who is the chief spokesman of the Dixiecrat conspiracy which is defying the democratic laws of the United States.

ELLIOTT WAXMAN.

Protecting a Basic Right

The Bar Association of St. Louis has just embarked on a piece of work that is in accord with the highest traditions of the legal profession. This is the bar's offer of services to assure the assignment of lawyers to assist witnesses under subpoena to appear before the Moulder subcommittee of the House of Representatives when it opens hearings in St. Louis, June 4.

Between 40 and 50 people are already known to be under subpoena. The check list of possible witnesses, suspected of Communist activity, runs to more than 70. Some of these have counsel to look out for their constitutional rights. Others, so the Bar Association has found, are experiencing difficulty in obtaining legal assistance because of "an unpopular cause."

It would be improper to prejudice this hearing either favorably or unfavorably. Congressman Morgan M. Moulder of Camden, who represents the Eleventh Missouri district, has been one of the moderate members of the House Un-American Activities Committee. He has helped keep it in reasonable balance in recent years. As the subcommittee chairman at the St. Louis hearing, Morgan Moulder will be under public scrutiny for fairness as well as purpose in carrying out the House's assignment to investigate Communist activities.

But the fairest chairman cannot possibly provide the legal guidance to which any witness in a hearing so important is entitled for his own protection. The investigators' list of prospective witnesses includes known Communists. It includes so-called "fellow travelers." It includes people who may have done little more than participate in race relations conferences, advocate greater relief expenditures, sign "peace" petitions or support the Spanish Republic in its fight against Dictator Franco, in 1939.

A group of individuals so diverse obviously needs the benefit of counsel in the hearing room. Two months ago 10 persons, accused of subversive activities, were put on trial in Cleveland. Federal Judge Charles J. McNamee requested the Cleveland Bar Association to help obtain counsel for the defendants. As a consequence of the trial and the constitutional protections afforded the defendants, six were convicted and four were acquitted.

The record in Cleveland is proof enough that the Sixth Amendment's guarantee of "assistance of counsel" is not an empty provision. In overall importance that guarantee comes close to being the most basic of all the rights of accused persons. Repeatedly the Supreme Court has thrown out convictions, as for example in the late Justice Sutherland's historic opinion in the Scottsboro case of Powell vs. Alabama, because provision for counsel was not adequate.

This obviously does not reflect sympathy on the part of any member of the Bar Association of St. Louis in favor of the Communist party. It does not reflect sympathy for the political or economic views of any subpened witness. What it does is to reveal the St. Louis bar as aware of and ready to fulfill a fundamental professional duty.

The bar's executive committee, headed by the president, Richard D. Shewmaker, and the special committee headed by R. Walston Chubb, are to be commended for their vigilance in behalf of the entire legal profession in St. Louis.

For Shifting and Twisting

An English manufacturer is advertising an "unusually wide armchair to give a business executive room to twist and turn in comfort." At first glance this would seem to comfort of lese majeste since captains of industry, wizards of finance and barons of business just do not belong in the wriggling category. They are persons who sit with something approaching the immense unwieldiness of inertia.

But perhaps there is something indicative of the times in this English chair specially built for twist and turns. That formidable compendium of information, the Encyclopedia Britannica, in a dissertation on chairs, says: "No other piece of furniture has ever been so close an index to sumptuary changes."

So it may be that there are troubled days ahead, days when the most imperturbable tycoon may feel the need of an unusually wide chair in which he can shift and twist with the greatest of ease. Indeed, some of the admirals, generals and high civilian authorities in the Pentagon probably could gyre and gimble in those spacious chairs right now if they had them.

Still the Samaritans

Miss Margaret Hickey, as St. Louis well knows, believes in getting things done, and now she has the new job of helping to do all the things encompassed by the National Conference of Social Work. That task ranges as far as from man to boy down the path of humanity.

It is not necessary to tell St. Louis much about the N.C.S.W.'s new president, or her remarkable career as lawyer and business woman and editor. It should be known that with her assistance the Ladies Home Journal left the home to bring a journal of the world back into it. But it is not as simple to explain what Miss Hickey means to the National Conference of Social Work.

Here is an organization which is concerned with the "disadvantaged," either individually or in the mass. At its convention here, for example, speakers did discuss the traditional problems of social work, including public dependency and institutional care. But they also spoke of national trends toward conformity and prejudice, as evidenced even in our laws such as the Immigration Act. Lack of food is an individual disadvantage only, in this country, but prejudice is a national disadvantage.

Thus the needs of social welfare are expanding. "Need of this kind," says Miss Hickey, "knows no economic or social status." But need of this kind has become too big for professional social workers alone; it requires help from housewives and business men and doctors. Everybody can make a contribution to his fellows' welfare. So the conference elected Margaret Hickey, a practical person with a big heart. That is what social welfare needs most of all.

A Law to Be Changed

Dickson Terry's report on the St. Louis architectural firm that designed the handsome new terminal building at Lambert Field ought to make interesting reading at 911 Locust street.

That is headquarters of the School Board. Like the City of St. Louis, the Board is in the midst of a substantial building program. But unlike the city the school system cannot employ private architects, the statutes requiring it to maintain a captive architectural division. This prohibition holds even if work of higher quality and lower cost can be obtained with outsiders.

The outstanding terminal building at Lambert Field is an achievement of the St. Louis firm of Hellmuth, Obata and Kassabaum. They also have handled such jobs as the Pruitt, Cochran and Darst housing projects, the Military Personnel Records Center and others. But not one school building in St. Louis by that firm or by any other. The law says No. Certainly this is a law to be changed, and certainly this ought not to be difficult to do—provided that the members of the School Board take the lead with the Legislature.

Something New in Surpluses

The Senate has embarrassed the Administration again. As it did last year, it voted to restore the original public housing program contemplated by the basic legislation of 1949, which the late Senator Taft co-sponsored. This would mean building 135,000 low-rent homes a year for the next four years, the President being authorized to increase or reduce the figure, within limits, in recognition of the economic situation each year.

Why should this legislation embarrass an Administration which claims to be in favor of public housing, and which lists its own program in President Eisenhower's file of desired bills? The answer seems to be that while the Administration favors a small amount of public housing—35,000 units a year has been the President's program—it opposes construction on anything like the scale advocated by Robert A. Taft, even though the country has grown in the past seven years and the Taft program is considerably smaller in relative terms now than it was then.

This point was established last year when the Senate voted for 135,000 units, the House for none and the conference committee for 45,000. Everybody had expected the conference committee to "compromise" at the 35,000-unit level recommended by the President, but by some fluke it gave him a bonus of 10,000.

At that point the White House amazingly began to lobby against the compromise bill, uttering dark threats of veto and a special session call unless the figure was trimmed back to 35,000. Congress stood pat, and the President in the end quietly accepted the 45,000 figure.

There is not much question that the House will trim the Senate program this year, as it has usually done. But the President could probably get more than 35,000 units a year if he wanted to fight for more, or even if he would merely refrain from fighting against more. With private home construction falling off, it would not hurt at all to have a reserve of public housing authorizations on hand with which to touch up the building industry if he need be.

Will the President fight (or stand) for a bigger program than the one he asked? Surely an Administration which prides itself on being "liberal" Republican can afford to follow the conservative Robert A. Taft on public housing.

Arithmetical Digression

The arithmetic of the Cardinals right now—at this precise moment of baseball history and perhaps no other—is something to think about, and to add and subtract and divide, or maybe take the square root of, or something.

Sunday left the Redbirds plainly one full game ahead of everybody else in the National League. They have lost four more games than Milwaukee but have won six more than the Braves. So there it is—one full game ahead.

But the Cards are also 11 points behind Milwaukee in the percentage standings. This comes about because the Cards have played 10 more games than the Braves, and in baseball it is not better to have played and lost a few than never to have played at all.

Nevertheless the only thing that kept Milwaukee ahead is mathematics. We have a feeling that the addition and subtraction will come out all right in the end. The Braves have to make up those extra games sometime. And while mathematics is an exact science, baseball is an art.

Bad News About Algeria

Law and authority were flagrantly defied when a mob of 1500 persons stormed police lines in St. Nazaire and carried home in triumph 200 French reservists about to depart for Algeria. The riot illustrates the power of the Communists in France, since it began with a call from the Communist-dominated General Federation of Labor for workers to gather at the railroad station. The Communists may be counted on to make the most of the wave of protests against sending more troops to Algeria.

Thus France's worst overseas problem seems to be growing more difficult. Since French settlers have been in Algeria since 1830, the Mollet government refuses to abandon them to the Arabs. It is unwilling to give up this link with French Equatorial Africa, one of its important contributions to NATO. Further, the Paris government insists that the Algerian nationalists, unlike those in Tunisia and Morocco, are not reliable representatives of their people.

The rebels, on the other hand, spurn the French proposal that they put down their arms and participate in the free election of leaders who would work out a settlement short of complete independence. Paris argues that most Algerians are being terrorized by the rebels and really do not want to cut their ties with France. It points out that despite the profits of the French colonies, France has been pouring far more into Algeria than it has been taking out.

The cost to Paris is running high, higher than the cost of the Indochina war. Advice is cheap. Yet if a majority of Algerians is not too unfavorably disposed toward France, how long can Paris wait before enlisting it against the terrorists? How long before the Arab extremists may be accepted as the true leaders? How long before French sentiment makes the government's task impossible? Surely French statesmanship must make an imaginative effort, perhaps along the lines of Mendes-France, to bring about a peace of moderation.

Transit Demonstration in D.C.

Congress is about to demonstrate to the nation how it goes about solving a transit problem. The Senate has voted for public ownership of Capital Transit Co. when its franchise runs out, by congressional order, next August. But the House has passed a bill to restore the franchise and to give the company tax concessions to make private ownership work better. Thus all Senate and House conferees have to do now is to make oil and water mix.

A 51-day strike last summer angered Congress into action. Fare rises and declining service—an old story—also demanded attention. But the difference between the Washington transit story and that elsewhere involves control of Capital Transit by Louis Wolfson, the Florida purchaser of ripe companies.

Before Wolfson, Capital Transit was paying $4.12 1/2 a share on earnings of $14.77 a share. After Wolfson, the company paid out $9.05 a share on earnings of $5.86. The House bill thus would subsidize a management which has given its stockholders a fine ride while transit riders waited for the bus.

So St. Louis thinks it has a transit problem? We would not trade with Washington, anyhow.

AND NOW PROGRESS

Scientific Secrecy, a National Peril Between Book Ends

The Mirror
Public Opinion

Knowledge of nature open to all, says editor; greatest progress achieved by working with what already has been discovered; difficult enough to keep up with all that is being done without being blinded for security's sake; this is a danger, not a safeguard.

From a Statement by Gerard Piel, Editor of Scientific American, to House Government Information Subcommittee

The problem of dealing with secrets is an old one in government. The concern of governments is with state secrets. They are concerned with codes, with wave lengths, caliber, horsepower, range, rate and scale. But the disclosure even of this kind of secret in the contest between states is only a matter of time. Ultimately they become known through our use of them and the enemy's interception and capture.

But the secrets of nature with which science is concerned are open to the discovery by scientists all over the world. As Harold Urey has said, to understand and to originate require approximately the same competence.

This is sustained by the history of science, where we see time and again the classical situation of simultaneous discovery of fundamental knowledge by scientists working in entire independence of one another.

The classical story is that of Newton and Leibniz, who simultaneously within the same half decade discovered the calculus of Priestley, an Englishman, and Scheele, a Swede, who simultaneously made the discovery of oxygen; Joseph Henry here in America, Michael Faraday in England, and of Lenz in Russia, who simultaneously came upon the principle of induction, upon which the dynamo was based.

How Secret the Secret?

This goes on despite all measures that can be taken to maintain secrecy. During the Second World War the technology of radar was developed independently by the United States, England, France, Germany and Japan.

More recently, despite the security system under which our atomic technology and research have been conducted for the past decade, we see the story of the development of the synchrotron. It was invented by an American, McMillan. McMillan's invention was kept secret until quite independently the synchrotron principle was published by Veksler in Russia in 1945.

By concealing what we know we may delay the discovery of new work of others. But they will ultimately discover it no matter what we do. By frustrating communications within science, however, we will surely slow up ourselves.

Communication is inseparable from research. New scientific work does not exist in a vacuum. It has to be communicated from one scientist to another. A scientist never publishes until he has argued and discussed and circulated his work among other scientists who work closely with him and thrashed out the points with those in his own field that he knows personally. Through publication he undertakes to reach others whom he doesn't know personally.

A Chain Reaction of Effort

A sample of what publication means is a bibliography from an American journal, "Reviews of Modern Physics." In January 1940, when the atom was a big secret, entitled "Nuclear Fission." This undertook to round up all the work that had been done in this field. The first paper included is that of Enrico Fermi, published in the British magazine "Nature." In the following years there were an increasing number of papers.

What Fermi did set in motion a chain reaction of investigation and effort. It is important to know about this work, too, that Fermi and his colleagues were mistaken in their original assumption about what it was they had found.

It took four years of work by scientists all over Europe to straighten this thing out. Here we see what an essential part publication plays in getting work done. With our vast number of journals, and even with punch cards and mechanized mediums of communication, the problem is the enormous volume of work that must be carried by the channels of communication in science. Just as scientists cannot tell where to look for work, so we cannot possibly tell to whom it ought to be communicated. It is particularly in the realm of cross-fertilization that new work takes place. Progress often comes from the most odd and unpredictable places.

Mr. Cristofalis Beats Brookhaven

Out at Brookhaven, for example, a group of scientists developed a new improvement on the synchrotron. No sooner had they got the word of their work into print when one Nicholas Cristofalis turned up as the prior inventor. Cristofalis was engaged in the business of installing elevators, and not in the United States but in Athens. He sent a letter to Berkeley. When Berkeley heard about Nicholas Cristofalis, they looked up his correspondence and found it in the crank file.

The trouble is that communication in science is all too easy to tamper with. The same kind of danger is to be found when we try to wrap national security in secrecy. There is a terrible tendency, inside secret projects, to invent.

In the atom bomb project there was at the outset the important problem of concentrating and separating the fissionable material from the ores that it occurs in in nature. Three main lines of attack were developed: Thermal diffusion, electromagnetic separation, and the conversion of U-238 to plutonium in a pile. There was a fourth attack, known as gaseous diffusion.

One stubborn group, working outside of the project, proceeded to push the gaseous diffusion possibility. They pushed it without support from the Government, until late in 1942, when the du Pont Corporation came into the picture as the contractor for Hanford. The du Pont chemical engineers concluded that the gaseous diffusion was the closest to a straightforward industrial process. They insisted that the gaseous diffusion program be pushed.

It turned out, when the gaseous diffusion plant went on stream in early 1945, that it was by far the most productive and efficient method.

It is an old experience in the administration of our country that secrecy can be a shield for incompetence and corruption. Now we have a new reason to oppose secrecy. It is the danger that secrecy lays to the advancement of science, and hence to the general welfare and to national security.

MUCH IN A QUIP

From the Sacramento (Calif.) Bee.

A quip going the circuit in Washington, D.C., is one by that famous high grade quipster, Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of former President Theodore Roosevelt.

To President Dwight D. Eisenhower's announcement he would seek a second term Mrs. Longworth reacted with this: "He has thrown his halo into the ring."

It was Mrs. Longworth who called Thomas E. Dewey when he was running for the presidency "the little man on the wedding cake."

The image of a miniature of waxy sweetness and triviality did Dewey no good, especially when it was compounded with former Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes' wheeze: "Dewey has thrown his diapers into the ring."

Whether employing diapers or halo, the delightful spirit of political irreverence uses symbols often nearer the truth than the solemn and pious pretenses of campaign oratory.

Lost Ones of Berlin

THE RIGHT TO LOVE. By Markosha Fischer. (Harper and Brothers, 280 pgs., $3.50.)

Mrs. Fischer was a special representative of the International Rescue and Relief Committee in Germany after World War II. She knew the blocks of empty-seeming ruins which still incredibly housed the lost people of Berlin. She knew the young people of whom she writes—Russian, German, American—youth in years but experienced all most beyond our understanding in the miseries and depths of human despair. She knew of their emptiness when war stopped; their continued compulsion to violence; the reach for love, for belonging; the hunger for faith; the bewilderment when beliefs were shattered; the need for employment, the spiritual need as well as the physical.

These agonies are hard to communicate to Americans. Physical comfort, the stability of our regular life, the strength of America, gives even the most insecure of us at least examples of living that are convincing. But these lost Germans—Russians remembered only war and uncertainty and day to day existence. Mrs. Fischer makes us understand their confused, pitiful life; shows us their courage, their acceptance of physical hardships, their growing ability to think for themselves their creation of a kind of morality which they must have to live.

So this is a story of Volik, a fantastic young Russian officer and party man; of Maya, Volik's sister, an interpreter for the Allied officers, who committed the sin of loving an American; of their Mother who finally saw the destructive power of Communism but had not the strength to defy it; of Steve, Maya's young lieutenant; of Joan, a USO hostess, who was home and companionship to Steve; of Eva, a girl of the Hitler Youth Movement. All these lives touched in friendship, or fear, in love or suspicion. And because of this instability of the relationships they sprang up quickly and went deep. The value of the individual finally asserted itself and the right to love became the only reality to them all.

Mrs. Fischer's story has moments of poignancy and a real understanding of the human heart. The story has pace and suspense. The characters are convincing and real. Yet something seems to be missing. One feels that perhaps it is more of a tract than a novel.

Italian Scholar's Feat

THE HERO IN ECLIPSE IN VICTORIAN ENGLAND, by Mario Praz. (Oxford, 311.)

It is difficult to withhold admiration for this feat of scholarship in the field of English literature by an Italian critic. Mario Praz will be remembered for his provocative study "The Romantic Agony," to which this analysis of the hero in Victorian fiction can in a sense be called a sequel.

It is the author's contention that the romantic hero of the nineteenth-century English novel became what he chooses to call "bourgeois" in the stories of Walter Scott, Thomas Love Peacock and their contemporaries. Following them came Dickens, Thackeray, George Eliot and Trollope, who further diminished the hero's stature.

The term "hero," he explained, is a euphemism here for what is really a profound scrutiny of the Victorian novel in all its aspects. Dickens, for example, is examined with a clarity and depth of perception that ranks with that of Edmund Wilson.

Not the least interesting feature of the book is the author's comparison of the novel with painting, the effect of which is to add a further dimension to the book. The translation by Angus Wilson is first rate.

JOHN BARKHAM.

THOMAS L. STOKES

Asked in Florida: Why Not Both?

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — DLAI STEVENSON and Senator Estes Kefauver have been seen and heard by many, many thousands of voters in campaign tours in this state, which holds its presidential primary Tuesday.

This prompts a question you hear often as you follow the campaign trail: "What about a Stevenson-Kefauver ticket? Is that possible?"

Stokes

The question has been posed before, here and there about the 1956 primary campaign in which the two party leaders have become better known than any Democrats with the exception of ex-President Harry Truman, who isn't running for anything.

Curiously about the possibility of a Stevenson-Kefauver ticket has heightened since the television performance of the two here.

Each Deserves Something.

Both were impressive in their grasp of national and international issues, as Democrats and them, and were articulate and forceful. They exhibited the poise of professionals, even though some viewers who apparently had expected a dramatic political brawl were disappointed.

Wide interest in a Stevenson-Kefauver ticket is, in itself, recognition of the fact that the two men have worked hard for the nomination, as anyone who has watched them can testify, and at the same time worked for the Democratic party.

Everywhere they have gone—and that's been plenty of places—their names have been on the lips of the nomination has been a democratic doctrine. Each would seem to deserve something of his party, not only for this tireless effort but for submitting himself to tests before the voters which no other aspirant for the nomination has ventured.

A Stevenson-Kefauver ticket would depend upon several eventualities. And it could be considered, initially, only under two conditions, one applicable to each candidate.

No Prospect in Reverse.

The 1952 Democratic standard-bearer would, of course, have to win top place on the ticket at the Chicago convention in August. This means that he would have to do well enough in the final two primary tests—here Tuesday and in California the following Tuesday—to head off the Senator and convince the delegates that he is the man to lead the party.

DR. ROLAND HILL DIES, PHYSICIAN 52 YEARS

Former Chief of Staff at Bethesda General Hospital Headed Medical Society Here.

Dr. Roland Hill, a practicing St. Louis physician and surgeon for 52 years and former chief of staff at Bethesda General Hospital, died yesterday of a circulatory ailment at St. Luke's hospital. He was 57 years old and had been in intermittent ill health for a year.

Dr. Hill

Dr. Hill served as president of the St. Louis Medical Society, the Western Surgical Society and the St. Louis Surgical Society before his retirement in 1942. He was a member of numerous other professional groups.

Since retiring, he had lived in St. Petersburg, Fla., at the Congress Hotel here at 5147 Waterman boulevard, his home at the time of his death.

Born at Aylmer, Ontario, Canada, Dr. Hill was graduated from the University of Toronto School of Medicine.

Surviving are his wife, the former Margaret M. Pollock of St. Louis; a son, Roland H. Hill, who lives in Uruguay; two grandsons, Roland H. Hill Jr., Newark, N.J., and Gim (Bud) Hill, Los Angeles; a granddaughter, Miss Eleanor Hill, Indianapolis, and three great-grandchildren, all of Newark.

JOHN BURROUGHS SENIOR WINS VASSAR SCHOLARSHIP

Miss Susan Hockaday, a senior at John Burroughs School, Ladue, has won a one-year scholarship to Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, N.Y., it was announced today.

The scholarship was awarded by the Vassar Club of St. Louis and is renewable at the end of each year of study for three years. Miss Hockaday was chosen from among several applicants.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln B. Hockaday, and lives at 9701 Litzinger road, Ladue. Miss Hockaday, 18 years old, plans to become a medical illustrator.

JOHN J. COLLIGAN DIES

John J. Colligan, jailer at the St. Louis county jail from 1937 through 1944, died today of heart disease at DePaul Hospital. He was 66 years old. Prior to becoming jailer, he had been a deputy sheriff in the county. He lived at 1440 Telegraph road, Lemay.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Nora Colligan, and a son, John Jr., both of the Telegraph road address.

WAR DEAD HONORED

IN SERVICES HERE

Graves of Veterans Decorated in Advance of Memorial Day Observances

Memorial services in honor of the nation's war dead were conducted in several cemeteries in the St. Louis area yesterday in advance of full-scale observances Wednesday, Memorial day.

Graves of 208 war veterans in Friedens Cemetery, 8900 North Broadway, were decorated in services sponsored by Navy Post 294, American Legion. Three volleys were fired by the post's rifle team in tribute to the war dead.

Frank A. Neun, former assistant city counselor, spoke at a memorial program at New St. Marcus Cemetery, 7901 Gravois road, St. Louis county, where services were sponsored by Atwell T. Lincoln Post 62, American Legion.

Graveside memorial services sponsored by veterans' organizations also were held in St. Peter's Cemetery, 2101 Lucas Hunt road, St. Louis county, and in Mount Hope Cemetery, 1215 Lemay Ferry road, Lemay.

Boy Scouts placed flags at graves of war dead in Jefferson Barracks National Cemetery in preparation for memorial services Wednesday morning. Speakers at the service there will include United States Senator Wallace F. Bennett of Utah and Missouri Lt. Gov. James T. Blair Jr. The service will be sponsored by the Jefferson Barracks Inter-Veterans Memorial Day Service Committee.

A parade through downtown streets, in which 167 military and veterans organizations will participate, will precede services at the Jefferson Barracks National Cemetery Wednesday afternoon. Former Congressman Lloyd Thurston of Osceola, Ia., will be the principal speaker at the memorial service.

Gov. Phil M. Donnelly warned automobile drivers to exercise care and accept their responsibility to drive in a safe and courteous manner over the holiday. At the same time he called on law enforcement agencies to enforce vigorously all traffic laws in an effort "to bring sanity to our highways and to reduce the shameful toll that rapidly is reaching proportions of an all-time high in traffic madness."

The Late Spring Book.

However they feel toward him, practical politicians recognize that a Stevenson-Kefauver ticket would be a strong combination. With the national reputation the Tennessee Senator made as a vigorous crusader in his crime investigation, he would be an effective opposite number for Vice President Nixon in the fall campaign.

He would give the South a share in the ticket, while at the same time offering a Southerner who can stand four-square, without equivocation, on the platform that Democrats will adopt backing up the Supreme Court on its school integration decision.

There you have a ticket for the late spring book. It's a long time, to be sure, before the August derby at Chicago.

LUTHERAN LEADER ASSAILS MODERN 'PAGAN' FUNERALS

The New York Herald Tribune—Post-Dispatch

NEW YORK, May 28.—A spokesman for the United Lutheran Church in America yesterday assailed some modern funeral services as "downright pagan" and criticized long newspaper obituaries as a possible indication of a "spirit of competition to see whose obituary will read the longer."

Dr. Edgar S. Brown Jr., director of worship of the United Lutherans, said, "whether like it or not we must admit that too frequently modern funeral practices are downright pagan."

Dr. Brown's remarks were printed in a message to the denomination's 4400 pastors in the Memorial issue of The Lutheran, official weekly magazine of the United Lutheran church, the country's largest Lutheran group.

Emphasizing he was not "warning on undertakers," Dr. Brown said, "to a Christian, death has a distinct meaning. It is not the end but the beginning."

Dr. Brown made several recommendations in the handling of funeral services, among which were more church funeral services, the sealing of caskets before the services, the elimination of services of secular organizations and the consideration of a more permanent memorial than flowers.

INSURANCE COMMISSIONERS OPEN CONVENTION HERE

Insurance on plants using radio-active materials will be among the subjects discussed at the eighty-seventh annual convention of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners which opened today at Hotel Sheraton-Jefferson.

Insurance commissioners of the 48 states, Alaska, the Canal Zone, District of Columbia, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, together with their staffs and representatives of insurance companies, were attending the meeting.

The association has been described by its president, C. Lawrence Leggett, Missouri state superintendent of insurance, as "the finest working example in the United States of effective state control of a national industry." The convention will end Friday at noon.

HENDER C. SCHUYLER BURIED

Funeral services for Hender C. Schuyler, former Webster Groves resident, were held today in Washington, D.C., with burial in Arlington National Cemetery. He died Thursday of a heart attack at his home in Washington.

Mr. Schuyler, about 68 years old, had been employed in the Washington office of the Public Housing Administration since 1943 and entered Government service in 1933. He was a 1910 graduate of Cornell University Engineering School and the son of the late Sydney Bedloe Schuyler, auditor for the Missouri Pacific Railroad. Surviving is his wife, the former Frankie Starr.

PRESBYTERIAN BODY VOTES FOR MERGER

Decision Is Unanimous—New Church Would Have 3,000,000 Members.

PHILADELPHIA, May 28 (AP)—The 168th general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. today unanimously approved a merger with the United Presbyterian Church.

The merged church, which still must be voted on by the presbyteries of the two branches, is to be known as the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. with 3,000,000 members.

The Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., meeting here for seven days through May 30, is the larger of the two with 2,700,000 members, primarily in the north. The United Presbyterian Church, confined mostly to Pennsylvania, has 250,000 members.

The merger proposal was acted on by voice vote after the assembly delegates had rejected a substitute motion to return the merger plan to a negotiating committee in an effort to find a different name for the new church.

The Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., a Southern group, last year rejected the merger proposal, so the other two Presbyterian groups decided to go ahead without it.

HEADS ANTI-BIAS COUNCIL

Herold S. Cook, an attorney, has been elected president of the Jewish Community Relations Council, an organization to combat racial discrimination, it was announced today.

He succeeds Milton I. Goldstein, president for the last three years. Other officers are: Morris Kraines and Henry J. Scherck Jr., vice presidents; Sam Shalkewitz, treasurer, and Mrs. Milton Epstein, secretary.

STUDENT TO RECEIVE M.D., MASTER OF SCIENCE DEGREES

Ronald V. Erken, a member of the St. Louis University School of Medicine class which will be graduated next month, will be the first student at the school ever to receive the degrees of doctor of medicine and master of science at the same commencement.

Erken, 26 years old, of St. Joseph, Mo., who ranks high scholastically in his class, has studied under Dr. Alrick B. Hertzman, director of the department of physiology, and has held a United States Public Health Service research assistantship.

He was valedictorian of his high school graduating class in 1947 and was offered four-year scholarships at seven universities. In addition to St. Louis University, where he was graduated magna cum laude (with great honor) in 1951. After his graduation from the medical school June 2, he will spend his internship at Letterman Army Hospital, San Francisco.

ALBERT P. MACINNIS DIES; FORMER RAIL FREIGHT AGENT

Albert P. MacInnis, a former general freight agent for the Wabash Railroad, where he had worked for 35 years until his retirement last June 1, died of cancer today at Missouri Baptist Hospital. He was 67 years old and lived at 4515 Maryland avenue.

Born in Beverly, Mass., Mr. MacInnis had lived here since 1930. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. A. P. MacInnis; a daughter, Mrs. L. Matthews, Omaha; a son, Robert P. MacInnis; a sister, and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be at 9 a.m. Wednesday at St. Louis Cathedral, 4431 Lindell boulevard. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

IMAGINATION URGED IN RACIAL PROBLEMS

Southern Baptists Are Told Church Cannot Force Integration.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 28 (AP)—Southern Baptists were urged last night to seek a solution of racial problems through "imagination rather than compulsion."

Paul Geren, former State Department representative in Jordan, and recently appointed executive vice president of Baylor University, made the plea in an address to the annual convention of the Women's Missionary Union.

There was no indication whether Geren's talk meant the racial question would be a topic for floor discussion at the annual Southern Baptist Convention which opens its four-day meeting Wednesday. Segregation issues are not on the agenda, but each of the 15,000 messengers (delegates) from the denomination's more than 30,000 churches is free to raise any issue.

The W.M.U. is the convention's auxiliary and what is done at its three-day meeting that opened yesterday afternoon could influence convention discussions.

Geren, who was reared at El Dorado, Ark., and has served as a Baptist Missionary in the Far East, told the W.M.U.:

"Colored people are increasingly articulate. They are increasing in political power and in the consciousness of organization and the protestation of rights. They are making the relation of white and colored peoples the dominant political and moral issue of the world scene."

"In the South, where Southern Baptists are a plurality among church members, we are confronted with a special case of the general race problem which poses grave problems for both Negroes and whites."

"We send our missionaries to Nigeria and thereby affirm that... so far as the gospel is concerned there is no difference between Jew and Greek, American and African."

"What is required of us in dealing with the problems in our backyards is that we be faithful to our reach across the sea."

Geren pointed out that the Baptist denomination, in which each church is an independent unit, lacks authority to enforce its resolutions on the race question by the threat and fact of excommunication.

"Perhaps our contribution," he said, "can be of this kind: Imagination rather than compulsion."

"We need to have fast friendships across racial lines; we need imagination to suggest new ways out of old impasses; we must inspire enforcement with the spirit of love."

Country Boys Mizell and McDaniel Turn Into Cards' Mound Slickers

Each Gains 4th Victory In Twin Bill With Cubs; The Man Bats in 7 Runs

By Jack Rice

The Country Boys, Wilmer Mizell of the Alabama cotton belt and Lyndell McDaniel of the Oklahoma corn belt, can find no slicker fellows than themselves on the Cardinals pitching staff today. They represent 36 per cent of the Cardinals' victories and as members of an 11-man staff, that's no small claim to success.

Each won his fourth game yesterday, during the afternoon and evening the Cardinals spent with those newly-nice fellows, the Chicago Cubs, at Busch Stadium before a crowd of 25,834. McDaniel was the winner as a relief pitcher in the first game, 11 to 9. Mizell followed with a complete-game victory, 12 to 2.

Both of them owed a special debt to Stan Musial, once again the Cardinal pitchers' best friend with four hits in six times at bat, and seven RBIs, in the two games. This offset his early mourning about his recent record of six RBIs in two weeks.

Mizell Finishes Strong.

Mizell was delighted that the batters found him as strong at the finish as they had at the start. Until recently, Linegar Bend has been the only fellow who didn't notice a difference come over him. While trainer Bob Bauman rubbed his arm, Mizell gently worked on his memory and said that during sieges of late-leaving trouble, he always had felt strong as he did at the start.

"Bill Sarni would tell me he didn't think I was, though, and I guess the results said it, too," said Mizell. "Today (Catcher) Sarni told me I had as much as I did at the start, and he told me that after the game at New York, too."

A 4-1 victory last week against the Giants was Mizell's first complete game. These successive strong games may mean this is the Wilmer the Cardinals have been expecting, the pitcher whose turn can be looked forward to as a steady influence.

He was in Cuba last winter, playing baseball, after two years in the Army, where baseball also is played. "I thought I was in as good shape as I am now, when I got out of the Army," said Mizell, furling his brow to indicate this was a thought, not a guess.

In his office, Manager Fred Hutchinson failed to see any mystery in the situation. "It's the hitters," he said. Army hitters and hitters in Cuba just don't have the knack for conditioning a pitcher that National League hitters do.

The growth of Mizell as a pitcher is an anticipated, and banked-on, McDaniel's development as a relief pitcher is more of an accidental evolution, although last season he got a bonus of some $40,000 to sign, indicating the Cardinals do some banking on him, too. The term "bonus baby" has been rather literally true with McDaniel, however.

Boss Revised Estimate.

Manager Harry Walker babied the young man, mostly using him for relief in lost causes, sparing him a sudden jolt of pressure. Hutchinson admitted he followed the same line of thought. Asked if McDaniel hadn't been pre-justified for a place as eleventh man on a 10-man staff, Hutchinson said: "At the beginning of spring training he was. But after a while, I began to realize he wasn't that at all, he was sixth or so, though I don't like to class men by numbers like that."

"Will he be a starter eventually? Sure, but I don't want to rush him. Let him win like this. I've had to put him in a couple of times already when I didn't want to, when the pressure was on, but he's always responded."

McDaniel is a mental nature, as a relief pitcher. He is a devout Bible student, and bringing in the strays takes faith in any endeavor. He gave a demonstration of it, for a Cardinal pitcher who cared to watch and learn, during the first game. It was a ridiculous game, because the Cardinals had led 8-to-1 after three innings. McDaniel relieved Larry Jackson, who had replaced starter Tom Poholsky, in the fifth.

Only One Run On Lindy.

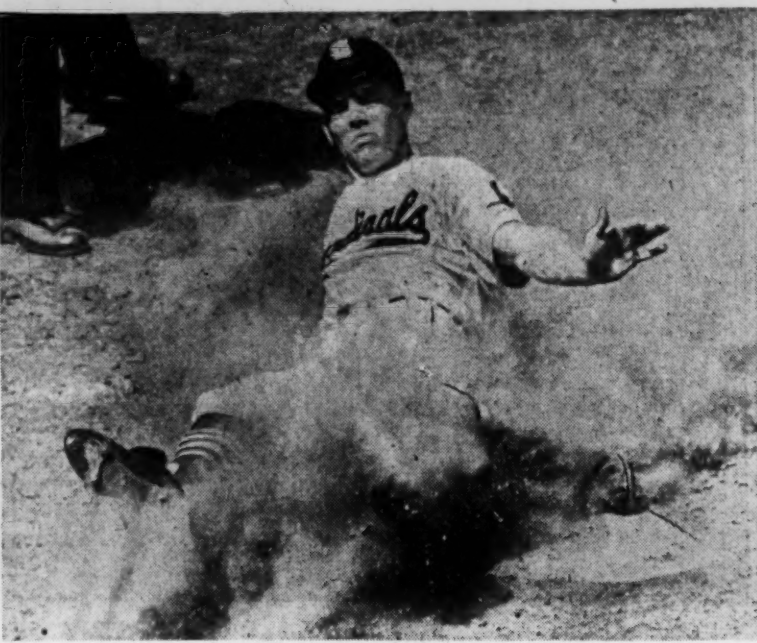

Five runs were in, tying the score at 8-8, a man was on third, and there was one out, when McDaniel took the mound. He made infield outs of Eddie Miksis and Gene Baker. A single by Baker and a triple by Ernie Banks scored a run against him in the eighth. He seemed wary. But the boy who doesn't say "Darn," or even a string of "Gosh," proved that a batter doesn't need strong language. Just strong morale, and retired the side one-two-three in the ninth.

It was his fourth victory in relief. His only start was a quick failure, against the Cubs. He hasn't been defeated yet, and now he has a 2.96 earned run average, which is the way pitchers get into Cadillacs, with air-conditioning.

What McDaniel got from Musial was a tie-breaking run batted across, in the fifth, and Musial scored an eleventh, or insurance, run in the seventh. Mizell, holding the Cubs to four hits with only Miksis's bases-empty homer in the sixth as a pitch he wished he had back, could have won with nobody but Musial swinging for him. The Man homered to the right-center pavilion roof with two on in the Cards' five-run seventh inning, providing the best guidance a couple of Country Boys could have.

Jackie Brandt Arrives---In a Hurry

Rookie Center Fielder JACKIE BRANDT enjoyed his first productive day as a Cardinal in collecting three hits and scoring three runs in the Sunday doubleheader. Brandt is shown here sliding across the plate with his first run, in the third inning of the opening game, on Don Blasingame's single. The Redbirds won both games, 11-9 and 12-2.

Long's Slugging Nets Him $2500 Merit Increase

PITTSBURGH, May 28 (AP).

DALE LONG, 30-year-old Pittsburgh Pirate first baseman who has achieved something baseball's greatest sluggers never accomplished, is a little bit awed by the fan reaction.

A $2500 "merit raise" has been given Long as the result of his terrific batting which includes belting seven homers in as many consecutive games for a major league record.

Sometime before tonight's game with Brooklyn he expects to stop in the office of Pirate General Manager Joe Brown and sign a contract calling for $16,500.

But the awe of the fans over his achievements apparently is just as pleasing to Long as the money.

"It used to be that I'd walk through a crowd and hardly anybody would notice me," Long said. "Now it's different. I went to an affair in Mt. Pleasant (Pa.) last week as a favor to a friend. The people just stood around with their mouths open. They gaped at me like I was a freak or something. But, don't get me wrong. I liked it very much."

First Defeat For Mt. Carmel

Mount Carmel's attack was stalled for the first time yesterday and the team was handed its first loss after three victories in the Bishop Cody League of the C.Y.C. senior baseball division. Holy Cross, which stopped Mount Carmel, 3-1, now shares first place.

In the same league Jack Leonard hurled a one-hitter and the Rev. Bernie Kuhn helped with three hits in a 10-0 victory for St. Rita over Sacred Heart.

St. Michael beat St. Aloysius in the Bishop Winkelmann League, 4-2, with the big blow from three-run double in the seventh. Al Klein of St. John's yielded only five hits and whacked a two-run triple in a 6-3 triumph over St. Anthony.

Epiphany was beaten by the same 4-2 score for the first time straight time. St. Joseph beat Epiphany this time as the winning hurler, Jack Willie, fanned 11.

In the other Cardinal Glenon League game, St. Paul beat St. Cronan, 6-2, with the help of home runs by Pitcher Tom Drzen and Jim Boyd.

White Sox Sign Infielder.

CHICAGO, May 28 (UP)—Donald Mincher, a 17-year-old first-baseman from Huntsville, Ala., who was signed by the Chicago White Sox and assigned to their Memphis farm club, has been optioned to Duluth-Superior of the Class C Northern League.

Heinsohn, 1789-Point Scorer at Holy Cross.

Signs Celtic Contract

BOSTON, May 25 (UP)—

Tommy Heinsohn, one of the country's outstanding basketball players, has signed to play with the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association.

Heinsohn, 6-7, 220-pound Holy Cross standout, was the Celtics' No. 1 pick. Bill Russell of San Francisco, is a member of the United States Olympic basketball team which will compete at Melbourne, Australia, this summer and cannot be signed until completion of the tour next December.

Heinsohn scored 1789 points during three years play at Holy Cross, setting an all-time school mark.

Troy Strikes Early To Win In Inter-City

Troy scored six runs in the first three innings, then rolled on to a 7-1 victory over Venice-Madison in the DuSburg territorial tournament, turning back Hugh Stewart of Los Angeles, 6-2, 2-6, 6-3.

Stewart Loses Final.

DUISBURG, Germany, May 28 (AP)—Jack Arkinstall of Australia won the men's championship in the DuSburg territorial tournament, turning back Hugh Stewart of Los Angeles, 6-2, 2-6, 6-3.

John Burroughs Redbirds Can Go Into Lead Team Leads in By Beating Braves Tonight Tennis Tourney

John Burroughs and Country

Day are running one, two in the St. Louis Country Day School's annual invitational tennis tournament still incomplete after yesterday's program was halted because of rain. The event started Friday and Saturday's schedule was entirely rained out.

Burroughs, aided by the fine play of his two ranking players, Earl (Butch) Buchholz and Paul Putzel, has accumulated 38 points to lead in the team event. Country Day, defending titleholder, is next with 32. Principia follows with 25. Others: Ladue 14, Webster Groves 11, St. Louis U. High 11, Ferguson 10, Normandy 7, Pattonville 5, and Central 2.

Dick Horwitz, No. 2 Country Day junior, added five points to the Country Day total by beating Tom Phillips, No. 1 Principia player, in the quarterfinals, 6-1, 6-1. Buchholz, one of the country's leading juniors, reached the semi-finals by downing Dave Rahubka of Beaumont, 6-0, 6-0.

Country Day's No. 1 singles player, Neil Drury, eliminated Chuck McKinley of Pattonville, a ranking district player, 6-2, 10-8, in the third round. Drury meets Putzel in the quarterfinals. Ladue's Rod Susman beat Paul Young of Central, 6-0, 6-2, for the right to play Hudson Caspercken of Ferguson, Caspercken defeated Gordon Wagner of Beaumont, 6-1, 6-2.

The remaining singles and doubles matches will be played today or tomorrow. Team coaches are making their own arrangements in order to complete the event as soon as possible. Bob Hughes, Country Day athletic director, is the meet manager.

Tourney points are scored as follows: singles—those who play in second round receive 2 points; third round—3, fourth round—5, semifinals—10, finals—15, winners—20. Doubles—teams in second round—3, semifinals—5, finals—10, winners—15.

An error spared Jim Davis from being just another of the boys, one of the six pitchers the Cubs used in the first game of Sunday's doubleheader, and made him a record-book hurler instead. Davis struck out four Cardinals in the sixth inning.

Wally Moon began the inning with a double, and stole second while Hal Smith was batting. Davis struck out Smith. Davis struck out Jack Brandt. Davis struck out Lindy McDaniel, but this time Hobie Landrith's butterfly-catching talents failed against the Davis knicker. The ball got by McDaniel's third swing, and it also got past Landrith.

McDaniel, as alert as though he had been exposed to such things all his life, raced for first. Moon ran home to score. Davis braced, and struck out Don Blasingame, Odd on Repeating.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 28.—JOE CONRAD going for his second successive British amateur championship in Scotland and Eddie Merrins shooting to repeat in the Western amateur here bring up the point. It's really difficult to knock over two straight titles at any level. It must be especially so in amateur golf. You look through the records of the last 40 years in American and British tournaments and in Canadian and sectional championships in United States, and you don't find many repeaters.

Lawson Little was the last to do it in the National amateur. Before that the incomparable Bobby Jones repeated twice in ringing up his first 40 years—the era of heightened competition—of Little has made it only straight in the British amateur.

Frank Stranahan and Bud Ward were modern-day repeaters in the Western amateur, and Chick Evans took four in a row in the early twenties. Stranahan and Sandy Somerville, an American and a Canadian, who did it in the Canadian amateur, St. Louis' Jim Jackson and Gus Moreland struck twice in the Trans-Mississippi, and Southern amateur championships.

But that's about the extent of back-to-back performances over the last 40 years of amateur play. Significant events.

Deceiving Meadow. BELLE MEADE Country Club, scene of the current Western amateur tournament, has a name that no doubt means Beautiful Meadow. But it's not so easy as it may sound.

It's a fairly flat course, but take it from Hord Hardin, bank executive who took part of his vacation to be one of the seven St. Louis entries here, the course has its testing qualities.

Belle Meade's layout is 6702 yards long, with a par of 36-36-72. Though two of its four par fives may be reached in two strokes, and though some of its four par threes may seem fairly easy, the par fours are a different matter.

"The length of the course is in its par fours," said Hardin, the Belleville golfer who was a semifinalist in the Western amateur in 1949 when it was played on his home course in St. Louis.

"That length means amateurs, there'll be a lot of times that a player will get sixes on a par-four hole, which won't help the scoring any. This, especially, if it is windy."

Another characteristic of this Southern course is that the greens are slow, and they may remain that way through the tournament. The reason for this is that the greens are a combination of rye and Bermuda grasses. With hot weather just around the corner, the club will endeavor to keep the rye grass alive as long as possible and therefore will not want to cut it real short. At this time the summer transition from rye to Bermuda grass is about to start.

"You can charge your putts because the greens are slow," said Hardin, "and that may help some of the players who are not such good putters but are fine players generally. It should help a player like Gene Dahlbender of Atlanta (1948 Southern champion)."

In addition, Belle Meade offers trouble possibilities in water hazards, a creek that winds through the course, and in out of bounds dangers, Hardin said.

Tee to Green. CLAUDE HARMON, former Masters champion and professional at Winged Foot Golf Club in Mamaroneck, N.Y., is scheduled to join Lindsey Nelson and John Derr in NBC television coverage of two golf events that will show on KSD-TV. The first coverage is of the round robin tournament at New Rochelle, N.Y., June 10 (telecast scheduled from 3 to 4:30 p.m. St. Louis time). The other telecast is on the National Open at Rochester, N.Y., and it is scheduled from 3 to 5 p.m. St. Louis time.

Harmon, who helped develop such golf stars as Jack Burke and Mike Souchak, has had extensive TV and radio experience.

Bob Renner, tournament director for P.G.A., reports that the San Diego youngster Mickey Wright is the most improved player on the women's circuit.

She has clipped 1.72 strokes off her average of 1955. Mickey was scoring at a 76.87 average a year ago; now the figure is 75.15.

The women will shoot for considerable cash in June, starting with the $7500 Pittsburgh Open and continuing with the $12,000 Triangle round robin at Virginia Beach, Va., and the $7500 L.P.G.A. title meet at Bloomfield Hills, Mich.

Norwood Hills continues to hold forth hope it may entertain the pro women stars in a $5000 event late this summer.

Everton Game Postponed. NEW YORK, May 28 (UP)—Rain forced postponement yesterday of the exhibition soccer game between Everton of Liverpool, England, and Aberdeen of Scotland, and the game was rescheduled for June 17.

Everton's next game is scheduled for Wednesday, May 30, at New York against Schuylkill of Augsburg, Germany.

D'Antoni Has 75 in 1st Round of Western Amateur Golf

Score of 72 Best In Field

By Robert Morrison of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 28.—Jim Jackson, St. Louis' Walker Cup star, went off to a good start in the Western Amateur qualifying play today when he shot the first six holes in one under par. Eddie Merrins, defending champion from Meridian, Miss., was playing with Jackson and took nine strokes on the fourth hole to be five over par through six.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 28.—Vince D'Antoni, an old Western golfer out of St. Louis, was in the first group off as the Western Amateur tournament qualifying began here today, but he missed his chance to take the early lead.

D'Antoni, who was the intercollegiate champion in 1939 but an infrequent amateur tournament player in recent years, turned in a three-over-par 75 for the first of four qualifying rounds here.

But he was topped by a player in his group, the Nashville City Champion, William Davidson, a home club player on the Belle Meade Country Club Course. Davidson had 72, a score that was shortly matched by Lee Raymond, Toledo, O.

St. Louis' D'Antoni, who has been hitting the ball very well this season, was out in 37, the over par, but a seven on the par-five fourteenth hole spoiled his bid to improve his situation.

In Three Traps. He was trapped three times on the second nine. He three-putted twice but still got par fives on the first nine. And his only birdie came on a 20-foot putt on the par-3 sixth hole.

"I think it's going to take 150—two 75's—to survive the cut in the field to the low 50 after 36 holes," said D'Antoni, disappointed with his start.

Dale Morey, the Hoosier with a putting stick that can be a magic wand, was one of the favorites as the tournament started.

"He has been under par in every practice round," said Morey's fellow Walker Cup player, Jim Jackson, who is one of seven St. Louisans entered in the competition.

This was a tribute from one good putter to another, but Jackson's outlook was not quite so bright after he toured the Belle Meade Country Club layout twice without touching the par of 72.

Morey himself wasn't so confident about the deal.

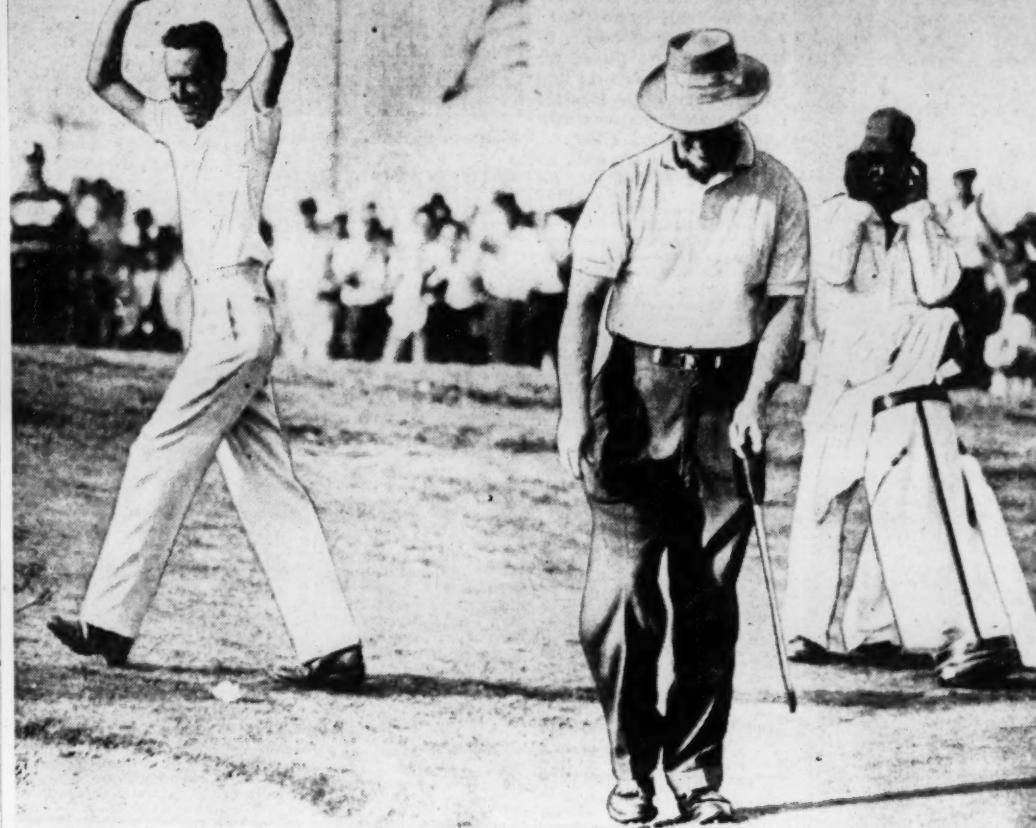

"I'm afraid we haven't played so much as some of the southern boys at this time of the year," he said as he faced the new Western route that could lead to about 216 holes of golf over seven days.

The preliminaries last three days. There will be 18 holes today, 18 tomorrow and 36 Wednesday for those wishing to be among the low 18 scorers who go into 36-hole match play Thursday. Quarterfinals at that distance are Friday, semifinals Saturday and the final Sunday.

Par Golf or Go Home. After the first 36 holes of medal play, the field of 132 entries will be reduced to the low 50 for the last 36 holes of stroke play Memorial Day.

"I'll take 238 (even par) for 72 holes and figure that will be good enough to qualify," said Morey, the 1953 Western champion who, with Jackson, failed to qualify among the low seven in last year's Western at Rockford, Ill.

"But I'd hate to have 290 or

DON JANUARY, newcomer to the pro golf trail from Abilene, Tex., waves his arms after shooting a spectacular eagle (two under par) on the eighteenth green to win the $30,000 Dallas Centennial Open with a 268 total. January, who had earned only $3417 on his first pro tour, got $6000 for his victory. Golfer at right is BILLY MAXWELL, from the state of Texas, of course. Maxwell totaled 272 for fourth place.

292." Morey cautioned. Jackson was inclined to agree, but he believed the dividing line may go a bit higher.

Besides Jackson, a two-time Walker Cupper and Trans-Mississippi champion, the impressive St. Louis entry includes that city's District amateur champion, Bob Goaly of Belleville, Ill.; Hord Hardin, Bob Cochran, Vince D'Antoni, Larry Etzkorn and Lou Cassetti.

In addition, Missouri is represented in the entry list by state champion Jim Tom Blair of Jefferson City, former state winner Bill Stewart of Springfield and Bill Webb of Kansas City.

A Talented Field. In a field that includes southern amateur titleholder Arnold Blum from Georgia; last year's Western medalist Don Bisslinghoff from Florida; the talented Houston collegian, Rex Baxter Jr.; the North and South champion, Hillman Robbins Jr. of Memphis, and the title defender Eddie Merrins of Meridian, Miss., there will be a scramble for match play places.

The great and near-great of amateur golf here won't have to worry about the title threat of Robbins, however. The young man, who has figured strongly in many amateur tournaments in recent years, will be shooting only for the medal.

When Robbins is finished with the stroke play part of the tournament Wednesday, he will depart for San Antonio where he will report for military service. This is as good as providing one unexpected place in the match play draw of 16.

Robbins was runner-up to Merrins in a 37-hole final at Rockford last year. He would have been a favorite here if he could have played through.

In all, 11 Americans won matches on the course, one advanced to the final round and was eliminated. In addition to Vare, two other Yanks won by default before the tournament got underway and two were not scheduled to start play until tomorrow. Seventeen U. S. players are thus left in the tournament.

Besides Conrad, Strafaci and Manley, the Americans who won were: Joe Golden of Austin, Tex.; Jennings Randolph Jr., of Washington, D.C.; Billie Goodloe of Valdosta, Ga.; Ernest Arend Jr., of Deal, N.J.; Ed Whalley Jr., of Salem, Mass.; Gil Frey of Portland, Ore.; Norman Scheer of Newark, N.J.; Charles Gilbreath of Sulphur Springs, Tex.; Finlay Goslin of Birmingham, Mich.; O. F. Woodward of Palm Beach, Fla.; John Penrose of Miami Beach, Fla.; and Ray Graham Jr., of Glen Head, N.Y.

Reiser Routs Wrozier. The upspring career of Sonny Wrozier, now a Borbein Young coach, ended after one week in the Midwest League. Outfielder Harold Alcorn of St. Louis U. and First Baseman Charley Meine of Hancock High have been signed by Manager Bob Swacker of the Jokers A.C. in the new Lemay senior league. Polish Falcons have added Charley Balgolia of St. Louis U.

Snafu department: Because nobody was around to unlock the Fairground Park clubhouse for the recent Industrial League game between Moloney and ChronCraft, gloves had to be used for bases and the players had to change clothes in a nearby tavern.

January's 268 Nets Him Title In Dallas Golf

DALLAS, Tex., May 28 (UP)—Dallas Centennial Open champion Don January and a couple of other 26-year-old comparative newcomers to the golfing tour offered living proof today that collegiate golf is spawning the "comers" along the golfing gold dust trail.

January, a hometown lad who registers out of Abilene, Tex., after three years as a member of the national collegiate champion North Texas State College golfer, picked up his first pro championship yesterday—a rich $6000—by winning the Centennial Open with a 12-under par 268.

Don Finsterwald, who primed for his pro career at Ohio University shared second and third place money of $5400 with national PGA champion Doug Ford of Mahopac, N.Y. at 269.

While still another graduate of that fine North Texas State team, Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., finished fourth at 272 and won $1800.

Finsterwald, who registers out of Bedford Heights, Ohio, boosted his season money winnings to $16,261.65—tops among the pros, while Maxwell raised his to $11,660.33, and Ford to $10,158.51, all well among the top 10.

January, who led the tournament through the first two rounds and then yielded the lead to Finsterwald by one stroke going into the final round, blasted 15 feet from a downhill lie in a sandtrap for an eagle duce on the 18th to finish with a 35-32-67. It was his third eagle of the pressure-packed final round.

The others came on a 25-foot chip in on the first hole and a tremendous drive on the 299-yard 11th hole that left him only four feet from the cup for an eagle duce.

It was January's initial tournament triumph in St. Petersburg, Fla., and Jackson Bradley of Houston, Tex., split $2800 between them as they tied for fifth place at 273, while five players won $910 each in deadlocking for seventh with 274s. They were Johnny Palmer of Tulsa, Okla.; Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex.; Tommy Bolt of Houston, Tex.; and Jimmy Demaret of Klamath Lake, N.Y. and Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill.

Conrad, Defending British Amateur Golf Champion, In Third Round of Event

TROON, Scotland, May 28 (UP)—Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., opened defense of his British Amateur golf championship today with a 5 and 4 victory over New Zealand's Ian Ewen to lead an American advance in the opening rounds of the tournament.

Frank Strafaci of Garden City, N.Y., who is entered in the tournament for the seventh time, and Hobart Manley of Savannah, Ga., also scored notable United States victories on the sun-swept but windy Troon course. But the Yanks lost one of their strongest hopes for the title when Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., was upset.

Strafaci defeated Keith Tate of England, 1 up, despite a penalty stroke on the 18th hole. Manley, a former North and South amateur champion, eliminated Alan Slater of England, last year's finalist, 2 up.

David Mackie, a 24-year-old Scottish civil engineer, knocked out of the tournament, 2 and 1, Sanders, winner of the All-American amateur championship at Chicago last year, was rated second-best to Conrad among the 27-man U. S. contingent.

Conrad, the chunky red-haired Texan who won the tournament last year on his first try, had drawn a first-round bye and thus advanced to the third round. He was the only Yank who played a second round match today, although Edwin C. Vane of Philadelphia moved into the third round when his opponent withdrew before the start of the tournament.

In all, 11 Americans won matches on the course, one advanced to the final round and was eliminated. In addition to Vare, two other Yanks won by default before the tournament got underway and two were not scheduled to start play until tomorrow. Seventeen U. S. players are thus left in the tournament.

Besides Conrad, Strafaci and Manley, the Americans who won were: Joe Golden of Austin, Tex.; Jennings Randolph Jr., of Washington, D.C.; Billie Goodloe of Valdosta, Ga.; Ernest Arend Jr., of Deal, N.J.; Ed Whalley Jr., of Salem, Mass.; Gil Frey of Portland, Ore.; Norman Scheer of Newark, N.J.; Charles Gilbreath of Sulphur Springs, Tex.; Finlay Goslin of Birmingham, Mich.; O. F. Woodward of Palm Beach, Fla.; John Penrose of Miami Beach, Fla.; and Ray Graham Jr., of Glen Head, N.Y.

Country Boys Mizell and McDaniel Turn Into Cards' Mound Slickers

Jackie Brandt Arrives---In a Hurry

John Burroughs Redbirds Can Go Into Lead By Beating Braves Tonight

By Jack Rice

The Country Boys, Wilmer Mizell of the Alabama cotton belt and Lyndell McDaniel of the Oklahoma corn belt, can find no slicker fellows than themselves on the Cardinals pitching staff today. They represent 36 per cent of the Cardinals' victories and as members of an 11-man staff, that's no small claim to success.

Each won his fourth game yesterday, during the afternoon and evening of the Cardinals' doubleheader, the Chicago Cubs, at Busch Stadium before a crowd of 25,834. McDaniel was the winner as a relief pitcher in the first game, 11 to 9, Mizell followed with a complete-game victory, 12 to 2.

Both of them owed a special debt to Stan Musial, once again the Cardinal pitcher's best friend with four hits in six times at bat, and seven RBIs in the two games. This offered nicely an mourning about his recent road record of six RBIs in two weeks.

Mizell Finishes Strong.

Mizell was delighted that the batters found him as strong at the finish as he had at the start. Until recently, Vinegar had been the only fellow who didn't notice a difference come over him. While trainer Bob Bauman rubbed his arm, Mizell gently worked his memory and said that during sieges of late-inning trouble he always had felt as strong as he did at the start.

"Bill Sauer would tell me he didn't think I was, though, and I guess the results said it, too," said Mizell. "Today (Catcher) Sarni told me I had as much as I did at the start, and he told me that after the game at New York, too."

A 4-1 victory last week against the Giants was Mizell's first complete game. These successive strong games may mean this is the Wilmer the Cardinals have been expecting, the pitcher whose turn can be looked forward to as a steady influence.

He was in Cuba last winter, playing baseball, after two years in the Army, where baseball also is played. "I thought I was in as good shape as I am now, when I got out of the Army," said Mizell, furling his brow to indicate this was a thought, not a guess.

In his office, Manager Fred Hutchinson failed to see any mystery in the situation at all. "It's the Wilmer the Cardinals don't have the knack for conditioning a pitcher that National League hitters do."

The growth of Mizell as a pitcher is as anticipated, and banked-on, McDaniel's development as an accidental evolution, although last season he got a bonus of some $40,000 to sign. Indicating the Cardinals do some banking on him, too. The term "bonus baby" has been rather literally true with McDaniel, however.

Boss Revised Estimate.

Manager Harry Walker babbled the young man, mostly using him for relief in lost causes, sparing him a sudden jolt of pressure. Hutchinson admitted he followed the line of thought. Asked if McDaniel hadn't been pre-judged for a place as eleventh man on a 10-man staff, Hutchinson said: "At the beginning of spring training he was. But after a while, I began to realize he wasn't that at all, he was sixth or so, though I don't like to class men by numbers like that."

"Will he be a starter eventually? Sure, but I don't want to rush him. Let him win like this. I've had to put him in a couple of times already when I didn't want to, when the pressure was on, but he's always responded."

McDaniel is a mental natural as a relief pitcher. He is a devout Bible student and brings down in the strays faith in any endeavor. He gave a demonstration of it, for any Cardinal pitcher who cared to watch and learn, during the first game. It was a ridiculous game, because the Cardinals had led 8-1 after three innings. McDaniel relieved Larry Jackson, who had replaced starter Tom Poholsky, in the fifth.

Only One Run Off Lindy.

Five runs were in, tying the score at 8-8, a man was on third and there was one out, when McDaniel took the mound. He made infield outs of Eddie Miksis and Gene Baker. A single by Baker and a triple by Ernie Banks scored a run against him in the eighth. He seemed wavering. But the boy who doesn't say "Darn," or even a "Gosh," proved that a batter doesn't need strong language, just strong morale, and retired the side one-two-three in the ninth.

It was his fourth victory in relief. His only start was a quick failure, against the Cubs. He hasn't been defeated yet, and now he has a 2.96 earned run average, which is the way pitchers get into Cadillacs, with air-conditioning.

What McDaniel got from Musial was a tie-breaking run batted across, in the fifth, and Musial scored an eleventh, or insurance, run in the seventh. Mizell, holding the Cubs to four hits with only Miksis's bases-empty homer in the sixth as a pitch he wished he had back, Musial swinging for him. The man homered to the right-center pavilion roof with two on in the Cards' five-run seventh inning, providing the best guidance a couple of Country Boys could have.

Carter Totals 809 to Win TV Bowling Match

CHICAGO, May 28 (AP)—Don Carter of St. Louis fired an 809 series on a nationally televised bowling match last night to collect $1899. He missed a perfect 300 score by one pin in the first game of a three game match.

Carter put together games of 299, 245 and 265 to defeat his opponent, Buddy Bomar of Chicago, by 98 pins. Bomar had rounds of 258, 216 and 237 for a 711 total.

Carter collected $1 for each of his 809 pins and an additional $1000 in $10 a pin bonuses for firing over 700. Bomar collected $410.

In previous appearances on the revised bowling show (WNBQ-TV), Carter has firmed with the 300 mark twice, firing a 299 and a 298. The show offers a $10,000 prize for a perfect 300-game fired before the TV cameras.

The first of a three-game match was not televised, thereby automatically disqualifying Carter from the $10,000 prize even if he had fired a perfect game. He left the 6-pin standing on his 12th ball to thwart his effort for a 300 score and ended with 299.

Oldtimer Dazzy Vance Reported Knocked Down in a Rhubarb

DADE CITY, Fla., May 28 (AP)—Dazzy Vance, former National League pitcher and a member of baseball's Hall of Fame, got embroiled yesterday in a rhubarb after a game.

Vonzo Sweat, manager of the Dade City team, said the 65-year-old Vance, coach of the West Citrus opposition, was alleged oral abuse of a Dade City player. Vance said Dade City player tried to shove him but the ex-major league's son, stepped in.

Police Chief Leon Hudson said that when he arrived, Vance was trying to quiet things down and cool off West Citrus fan who got into a fight.

White Sox Sign Infielder.

CHICAGO, May 28 (UP)—Donald Mincher, 27-year-old first-baseman from Huntsville, Ala., who was signed by the Chicago White Sox and assigned to their Memphis farm club, has been optioned to Duluth-Superior of the Class C Northern League.

Rookie Center Fielder JACKIE BRANDT enjoyed his first productive day as a Cardinal in here sliding across the plate with his first run, in the third inning of the opening game, on Don Blasingame's single. The Redbirds won both games, 11-9 and 12-2.

Long's Slugging Nets Him $2500 Merit Increase

PITTSBURGH, May 28 (AP). DALE LONG, 30-year-old Pittsburgh Pirate, first baseman who has achieved something baseball's greatest sluggers never accomplished, is a little bit awed by the fan reaction.

A $2500 "merit raise" has been given Long as the result of his terrific batting which includes belting seven homers in as many consecutive games for a major league record.

Some time before tonight's game with Brooklyn he expects to stop in the office of Pirate General Manager Joe Brown and sign a contract calling for $16,500.

But the awe of the fans over his achievements apparently is just as pleasing to Long as the money.

"It used to be that I'd walk through a crowd and hardly anybody would notice me," Long said. "Now it's different. I went to an affair in Mt. Pleasant (Pa.) last week. The people just stood around with their mouths open. They gaped at me like I was a freak or something. But don't get me wrong. I liked it very much."

First Defeat For Mt. Carmel

Mount Carmel's attack was stalled for the first time yesterday and the team was handed its first loss after three victories in the Bishop Cody League of the C.Y.C. senior baseball division. Holy Cross, which stopped Mount Carmel, 3-1, now shares first place.

In the same league Jack Leonard hurled a one-hitter and the Rev. Bernie Kuhn helped with three hits in a 10-0 victory for St. Rita over Sacred Heart.

St. Michael beat St. Aloysius in the Bishop Winkelmann League, 4-2, with Mike Conroy's three-run double in the seventh. Al Klein of St. John's yielded only five hits and whacked a two-run triple in a 6-3 triumph over St. Anthony.

Epiphany was beaten by the same 4-2 score for the third straight time. St. Joseph's beat Epiphany this time as the winning hurler, Jack Willie, fanned 11.

In the other Cardinal Glenn Cronan, 6-2, St. Paul beat St. Cronan, 6-2, with the help of home runs by Pitcher Tom Drazen and Jim Boyd.

John Burroughs Team Leads in Tennis Tourney

John Burroughs and Country Day are running one, two in the St. Louis Country Day School's annual invitational tennis tournament still incomplete after yesterday's program was halted because of rain. The event started Friday and Saturday's schedule was entirely rained out.

Burroughs, aided by the fine play of its two ranking players, Earl (Butch) Buchholz and Paul Putzel, has accumulated 38 points to lead in the team event. Country Day, defending titleholder, is next with 25. Principia follows with 23. Others: Ladue 14, Webster Groves 11, St. Louis U. High 11, Ferguson 10, Normandy 7, Pattonville 5, and Central 2.

Dick Horwitz, No. 2 Country Day junior, added five points to the Country Day total by beating Tom Phillips, No. 1 Principia player, in the quarterfinals, 6-1, 6-1. Buchholz, one of the country's leading juniors, downing Dave Rahubka of Beaumont, 6-0, 6-0.

Country Day's No. 1 singles player, Neil Drury, eliminated Chuck McKinley of Pattonville, a ranking district player, 6-2, 10-8. In the third round, Drury meets Putzel in the quarterfinals. Ladue's Rod Susman beat Paul Young of Central, 6-0, 6-2, for the right to play Hudson Carspecken of Ferguson, Carspecken defeated Gordon Wagner of Beaumont, 6-1, 6-2.

The remaining singles and doubles matches will be played today or tomorrow. Team coaches are making their own arrangements in order to complete the event as soon as possible. Bob Hughes, Country Day manager, is the meet.

Tourney points are scored as follows: singles—those who play in second round receive 2 points; third round—3, fourth round—5, semifinals—10, final—15, singles winner—20. Doubles—teams in second round—3, semifinals—5, finalists—10, winner—15.

CASTING RESULTS.

Len Williams, scored 388 points out of a possible 400 for all-around honors in the Carondelet Fly and Ball Casting Club weekly tournament. He won the dry-fly event, tied Vic Wiedemann in the wet-fly and shared first with Jim Venable in the 36-ounce bait.

Clem Corcoran and L. R. Allen tied for the all-round title in the St. Louis Fly and Ball Club competition. Each scored 388. Miss Imelda Gavin won every women's event.

Redbirds Can Go Into Lead By Beating Braves Tonight

An error spared Jim Davis from being just another of the boys, one of the six pitchers the Cubs used in the first game of Sunday's doubleheader, and made him a record-book hurler instead. Davis struck out four Cardinals in the sixth inning.

Wally Moon began the second game, Minner was the starter in the first game, and is learning lefties are leftovers in anti-Cardinal strategy now. Prior to this season, his record against the Cards was 21 victories, seven defeats. He is 0-1 with them so far.

He wasn't a loser yesterday, just quickly departed. Don Blasingame was hit with a pitch, Red Schoendienst and Stan Musial singled, to score a run before he had an out. Walks to Hank Sauer and Wally Moon and a two-run single by Hal Smith made for four runs, and finished Minner for that game.

Five Hits for Sauer.

Sauer had a good day. The long-time Cub here got two hits in three times at bat the first game, three hits in four times at bat the second game. "There's hope yet," he said, grinning, in the Cardinal clubhouse after this day's successful filling-in for injured Rip Repulski. It was not a simple matter of knowing all the opposition's tricks, either. Before the game, a serious Sauer said to Cardinal catcher Bill Sarni, "How's Minner throw, what's he do to you? I've never batted against him."

The Cardinals have been tolerating an absurdity, trailing the Braves in percentage though winners of more games. Early-season rainouts for Milwaukee caused the situation. Tonight the Redbirds meet the Braves at Busch Stadium and victory would put them in first place percentage-wise, too. They would be .639 to Milwaukee's .615. The Cards' Herm Wehmeier (1-3) and the Braves' Lou Sleater (1-0) are the probable pitchers.

Vinegar Bend Mizell came close to Davis's fate, through his own doing. Mizell struck out three men in the seventh, and there also was a man retired on a foul. Ernie Banks took a third swing at a searing curve, but the ball bounced at the plate, for an error on Mizell, and eluded Bill Sarni. Banks made first safely. The effective outs in the inning were strikeouts of Walt Moryn and Harry Chitt, and Monte Irvin's lofted foul. Mizell struck out 10, now has struck out 44 men in 60 innings.

Cards Take to Minner.

Three of the pitchers used by the Cubs in the first game, Paul Minner, Jim Hughes and

When Minner fled out, Davis had achieved distinction. He was the first Cub pitcher to finish an inning without a Redbird left on base—J. R.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 28.

JOE CONRAD going for his second consecutive British amateur championship in Scotland and Eddie Merrins shooting to repeat in the Western amateur here bring up the point. . . It's really difficult to knock over two straight titles at any level.

It must be especially so in amateur golf. You look through the records of the last 40 years in American and British tournaments and in Canadian and sectional championships in United States, and you don't find many repeaters.

Lawson Little was the last to do it in the National amateur. Before that the incomparable Bobby Jones repeated twice in ringing up his five American amateur titles, and for 40 years—the era of heightened competition—only Little has made it two straight in the British amateur.

Frank Stranahan and Bud Ward were modern-day repeaters in the Western amateur, and Chick Evans took four in a row in the early twenties. Stranahan and Sandy Somerville were two who did it in the Canadian amateur; St. Louis's Jim Jackson and Gus Moreland struck twice in succession in the Trans-Mississippi, and Conrad took two straight Southern amateur championships.

But that's about the extent of back-to-back performances over the last 40 years of amateur play in significant events.

Deceiving Meadow.

BELLE MEADE Country Club, scene of the current Western amateur tournament, has a name that no doubt means Beautiful Meadow. But it's not so easy as it may sound.

It's a fairly flat course, but take it from Hord Hardin, bank executive who took part of his vacation to be one of the seven St. Louis entries here, the course has its testing qualities.

Belle Meade's layout is 6702 yards long, with a par of 36-36-72. Though two of its four par fives may be reached in two strokes, and though some of its four par threes may seem fairly easy, the par fours are a different matter.

"The length of the course is in its par fours," said Hardin, the Bellville golfer who was a semifinalist in the Western amateur in 1949 when it was played on his home course in St. Louis.

"That length means amateurs, there'll be a lot of times that a player will get sixes on a par-four hole, which won't help the scoring any. This, especially, if it is windy."

Another characteristic of this Southern course is that the greens are slow, and they may remain that way through the tournament. The reason for this is that the greens are a combination of rye and Bermuda grasses. With hot weather just around the corner, the club will endeavor to keep the rye grass alive as long as possible, and therefore will not want to cut it real short. At this time the summer transition from rye to Bermuda grass is about to start.

"You can charge your putts because the greens are slow," said Hardin, "and that may help some of the players who are not such good putters but are fine players generally. It should help a player like Gene Dahlbender of Atlanta (1948 Southern champion)."

In addition, Belle Meade offers trouble possibilities in water hazards, a creek that winds through the course, and in out of bounds dangers, Hardin said.

Tee to Green.

CLAUDE HARMON, former Masters champion and professional at Winged Foot Golf Club in Mamaroneck, N.Y., is scheduled to join Lindsey Nelson and John Derr in NBC television coverage of two golf events that will show on KSD-TV. The first coverage is of the round robin tournament at New Rochelle, N.Y., June 10 (teletext scheduled from 4 to 4:30 p.m. St. Louis time). The other telecast is on the National Open at Rochester, N.Y., and it is scheduled from 3 to 5 p.m. St. Louis time on June 16. . . Harmon, who helped develop such golf stars as Jack Burke and Mike Souchak, has had extensive TV and radio experience.

Bob Renner, tournament director for the Women's P.G.A., reports that the San Diego youngster Mickey Wright is the most improved player on the women's circuit.

She has clipped 1.72 strokes off her average of 1955. . . Mickey was scoring at a 76.87 average a year ago; now the figure is 75.15.

The women will shoot for considerable cash in June, starting with the $7500 Pittsburgh Open and continuing with the $12,000 Triangle round robin at Virginia Beach, Va., and the $7500 L.P.G.A. title meet at Bloomfield Hills, Mich.

Norwood Hills continues to hold forth hope it may entertain the pro women stars in a $5000 event late this summer.

Everton Game Postponed.

NEW YORK, May 28 (UP)—Rain forced postponement yesterday of the exhibition soccer game between Everton of Liverpool, England, and Aberdeen of Scotland, and the game was rescheduled for June 17.

Everton's next game is scheduled for Wednesday, May 30, at New York against Schuylkill of Augsburg, Germany. Everton plays at St. Louis Saturday night.

D'Antoni Has 75 in 1st Round of Western Amateur Golf

Score of 72 Best In Field

By Robert Morrison of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 28—Jim Jackson, St. Louis's Walker Cup star, got off to a good start in the Western Amateur qualifying play today when he shot the first six holes in one under par. Eddie Merrins, defending champion from Meridian, Miss., was playing with Jackson and took nine strokes on the fourth hole to be five over par through six.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 28—Vince D'Antoni, an old War-sen golfer out of St. Louis, was in the first group off as the Western Amateur tournament qualifying began here today, but he missed his chance to take the early lead.

D'Antoni, who was the intercollegiate champion in 1939 but an infrequent amateur tournament player in recent years, turned in a three-over-par 75 for the first of four qualifying rounds here.

But he was topped by a player in his group, the Nashville City Champion, William Davidson, a home club player on the Belle Meade Country Club Course. Davidson had 72, a score that was shortly matched by Lee Raymond, Toledo, O.

St. Louis's D'Antoni, who has been hitting the ball very well this season, was out in 37, one over par, but a seven on the par-five fourteenth hole spoiled his bid to improve his situation.

In Three Traps.

He was trapped three times on the second nine. He three-putted twice but still got par fives on the first nine. And his only birdie came on a 20-foot putt on the par-3 sixth hole.

"I think it's going to take 150—two 75's—to survive the cut in the field to the low 50 after 36 holes," said D'Antoni, disappointed with his start.

Dale Morey, the Hoosier with a putting stick that can be a magic wand, was one of the favorites as the tournament started.

"He has been under par in every practice round," said Morey's fellow Walker Cup player, Jim Jackson, who is one of seven St. Louisans entered in the competition.

This was a tribute from one good putter to another, but Jackson's outlook was not quite so bright after he toured the Belle Meade Country Club layout of 72 without touching the par of two.

Morey himself wasn't so confident about the deal.

"I'm afraid we haven't played so much as some of the southern boys at this time of the year," he said as he faced the new Western route that could lead to about 216 holes of golf over seven days.

The preliminaries last three days. There will be 18 holes today, 18 tomorrow and 36 Wednesday for those wishing to be among the low 16 scorers who go into 36-hole match play Thursday. Quarterfinals at that distance are Friday, semifinals Saturday and the final Sunday.

Par Golf or Go Home.

After the first 36 holes of medal play, the field of 132 entries will be reduced to the low 50 for the last 36 holes of stroke play Memorial day.

"I'll take 288 (even par) for 72 holes and figure that will be good enough to qualify," said Morey, the 1953 Western champion, who, with Jackson, failed to qualify among the low seven in last year's Western at Rockford, Ill.

"But I'd hate to have 290 or

After Eagle Kept Dallas Title in Texas

DON JANUARY, newcomer to the pro golf trail from Abilene, Tex., waves his arms after shooting a spectacular eagle (two under par) on the eighteenth green to win the $30,000 Dallas Centennial Open with a 268 total. January, who had earned only $3417 on his first pro tour, got $6000 for his victory. Golfer at right is BILLY MAXWELL, from the state of Texas, of course. Maxwell totaled 272 for fourth place.

292." Morey cautioned. Jackson was inclined to agree, but he believed the dividing line may go a bit higher.

Besides Jackson, a two-time Walker Cupper and Trans-Mississippi champion, the impressive St. Louis entry includes that city's District amateur champion, Bob Cooley of Belleville, Ill.; Hord Hardin, Bob Cochran, Vince D'Antoni, Larry Etzkorn and Lou Cassett.

In addition, Missouri is represented in the entry list by state champion Jim Tom Blair of Jefferson City, former state winner Bill Stewart of Springfield and Bill Webb of Kansas City.

A Talented Field.

In a field that includes southern amateur titleholder Arnold Blum from Georgia; last year's Western medalist Don Bisplinghoff from Florida; the talented Houston collegian, Rex Baxter Jr.; the North and South champion, Hillman Robbins Jr. of Memphis, and the title defender Eddie Merrins of Meridian, Miss., there will be a scramble for match play places.

The great and near-great of amateur golf here won't have to worry about the title threat of Robbins, however. The young man, who has figured strongly in many amateur tournaments in recent years, will be shooting only for the medal.

When Robbins is finished with the stroke play part of the tournament Wednesday, he will depart for San Antonio where he will report for military service. This is as good as providing one unexpected player in the match play draw of 16.

Robbins was runner-up to Merrins in a 37-hole final at Rockford last year. He would have been a favorite here if he could have played through.

Conrad, Defending British Amateur Golf Champion, In Third Round of Event

TROON, Scotland, May 28 (UP)—Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., opened defense of his British Amateur golf championship today with a 5 and 4 victory over New Zealand's Ian Ewen to lead an American advance in the opening rounds of the tournament.

Frank Strafaci of Garden City, N.Y., who is entered in the tournament for the seventh time, and Hobart Manley of Savannah, Ga., also scored notable United States victories on the sun-swept but windy Troon course. But the Yanks lost one of their strongest hopes for the title when Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., was upset.

Strafaci defeated Keith Tate of England, 1 up, despite a penalty stroke on the 18th hole. Manley, a former North and South amateur champion, eliminated Alan Slater of England, last year's finalist, 2 up.

David Mackie, a 24-year-old Scottish civil engineer, knocked Sanders out of the tournament, 2 and 1. Sanders, winner of the All-American amateur championship at Chicago last year, was rated second-best to Conrad among the 27-man U. S. contingent.

Conrad, the chunky red-haired Texan who won the tournament last year on his first try, had drawn a first-round bye and thus advanced to the third round. He was the only Yank who played a second round match today, although Edwin C. Vane of Philadelphia moved into the third round when his opponent withdrew before the start of the tournament.

In all, 11 Americans won matches on the course, one advanced by default and 10 were eliminated. In addition to Vane, two other Yanks won by default before the tournament, under way and two were not scheduled to start play until tomorrow. Seventeen U. S. players are thus left in the tournament.

Besides Conrad, Strafaci and Manley, the Americans who won were Joe Golden of Austin, Tex.; Jennings Randolph Jr. of Washington, D.C.; Billie Goodloe of Valdosta, Ga.; Ernest Arend Jr. of Deal, N.J.; Ed Whalley Jr. of Salem, Mass.; Lt. Gene Eyer of Buffalo, N.Y.; Peter Grant of Phoenix, Ariz.; and Fred Brand Jr. of Pittsburgh, Pa. Yanks eliminated in addition to Sanders were: Lt. Kipling Layton of Corpus Christi, Tex.; Gil Frey of Portland, Ore.; Norman Scheer of Newark, N.J.; Charles Gilbreath of Sulphur Springs, Tex.; Finlay Goslin of Enid, Okla.; Tom Draper of Birmingham, Mich.; O. F. Woodard of Palm Beach, Fla.; John Penrose of Miami Beach, Fla.; and Ray Graham Jr. of Glen Head, N.Y.

Reiser Routs Wrozier.

The umpiring career of Sonny Wrozier, now a Borbein-Young coach, ended after one week in the Midwest League. Wrozier, manager of Kutis South last season, found the new life unpleasant, especially after a tiff with Pistol Pete Reiser, the former Dodger star now managing Kokomo.

Outfielder Harold Alcorn of St. Louis U. and First Baseman Charley Meine of Hancock High have been signed by Manager Bob Swacker of the Jokers A.C. in the new LeMay senior league. Polish Falcons have added Charley Barbaglia of St. Louis U.

Snafu department: Because nobody was around to unlock the Fairground Club clubhouse for the recent Industrial League game between Moloney and ChromCraft, gloves had to be used for bases and the players had to change clothes in a nearby tavern.

Gilmer Named Chairman of Illinois Boxing

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 28 (AP)—Gov. Stratton today appointed Frank Gilmer of Libertyville as chairman of the state boxing commission effective Friday. He succeeds the late Livingston E. Osborne of Chicago.

Gilmer is a boxing referee and a former amateur and professional boxer.

Gilmer, who will be 50 Thursday, said one of his chief aims as chairman will be to "help build the sport back in public opinion." The Athletic Commission supervises professional boxing and wrestling in Illinois.

January's 268 Nets Him Title In Dallas Golf

DALLAS, Tex., May 28 (UP)—Dallas Centennial Open champion Don January and a couple of other 26-year-old comparative newcomers to the golfing tour offered living proof today that collegiate golf is spawning the "comers" along the golfing gold dust trail.

January, a hometown lad who registers out of Abilene, Tex., after three years as a member of the national collegiate champion North Texas State College golf team, picked up his first pro championship yesterday—a rich $6000—by winning the Centennial Open with a 12-under-par 268.

Dow Finsterwald, who primed for his pro career at Ohio University shared second and third place money of $3400 with national PGA champion Doug Ford of Mahopac, N.Y. at 269, while still another graduate of that fine North Texas State team, Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., finished fourth at 272 and won $1800.

Finsterwald, who registers out of Bedford Heights, Ohio, boosted his season money winnings to $16,261.85—tops among the pros, while Maxwell raised his to $11,660.33, and Ford to $10,158.51, all well among the top 10.

January, who led the tournament through the first two rounds and then yielded the lead to Finsterwald by one stroke going into the final round, blasted 15 feet from a downhill lie for sandtrap for an eagle duce on the 18th to finish with a 35-32-67. It was his third eagle of the pressure-packed final round.

The others came on a 25-foot chip in on the first hole and a tremendous drive on the 299-yard 11th hole that left him only four feet from the cup for an eagle duce.

It was January's initial tournament triumph in a year and eight days as a pro, although he had picked up nearly $3500 in prize money already this year, thanks mainly to fourth place finishes in the Tucson and Pensacola opens.

Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Jackson Bradley of Houston, Tex., split $2800 between them as they tied for fifth place at 273, while five players won $910 each in deadlocking for seventh with 274s.

They were Johnny Palmer of Tulsa, Okla.; Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex.; Tommy Bolt of Houston, Tex.; and Jimmy Demaret of Klamath Falls, N.Y., and Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill.

St. Louisans Honored. Ty Anderson of St. Louis, captain of next year's Principia College basketball team, won a letter in baseball as a shortstop and pitcher. Jim Schierholz, another St. Louisan, won a letter in tennis.

The Winners

Roy Sievers Has Batted .500 Against Red Sox in Eight Games

Five of Hits Have Been Home Runs

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP)—If Manager Mike Higgins of the Boston Red Sox was feeling today like the fisherman who went out for a while and came back with a couple of minnows, who can blame him?

Six months ago, the Red Sox engineered a deal with Washington, acquiring Pitcher Bob Porterfield among others in exchange for five young players and cash. At that time it seemed they had stripped the Senators of their best players but now it is evident the big catch got away. The big catch is Roy Sievers.

What a whale of a job of hitting Sievers has turned in against Red Sox pitching this season, especially at Fenway Park in five Washington games at Boston, Sievers has blasted 10 hits in 20 times at bat for a torrid .500 average. That's not all. He has scored 10 runs, doubled five home runs and two drives in 11 runs. He also had four for eight and three RBIs in three games in Washington.

The slugging outfielder turned first baseman really turned on the heat against Boston yesterday, collecting five hits, scoring five runs and driving in five as Washington held the Red Sox to a split in their doubleheader.

Homers in Each Game. It was Roy's tenth-inning double that drove in Clint Courtney with the run that gave Washington an 11-10 second game triumph after the Red Sox had come from behind to win the opener, 9-7. The big St. Louisan homered in each game, the second four-bagger coming off Porterfield, who failed to finish for the fourth time in five starts. He has a 1-3 record.

Nearly half of Sievers' 11 home runs and 32 RBIs have come against Red Sox pitching. This is no fluke. Last year he rapped Boston pitching for 18 hits in 43 times at bat at Fenway Park for a .419 average. His overall average against all clubs was only .271.

In the last five games, Sievers has made 12 hits in 23 times at bat, including five homers, and raised his swat mark to .284. He has batted in 12 tallies in this stretch. His 11 homers tie him for fourth in the A.L.

Sparked by rookie first baseman Frank Torre's four straight hits, the Braves defeated the Cincinnati Redlegs 7-2 to clinch tenaciously to their slim lead. Because they have lost only nine games to St. Louis' 13, the Braves are in front in percentages, .640 to .629.

Rain washed out the scheduled doubleheader between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Phillies in Philadelphia and the single game between Brooklyn and the Giants in New York. Rain also forced the postponement of the New York Yankee-Oriole game in Baltimore but the Yankees' 3½-game lead over Cleveland remained intact as the Chicago White Sox held the Indians to a split in their twin-bill. In a first game that lasted Experiment Successful.

THE Fairmount Park management's experiment with an eight-race program each night, instead of nine on several nights, has proved a success and is likely to be continued for the remainder of the campaign. . . . For the five days of racing last week, a total of $1,117,201 was wagered on the 40 races, an average of almost $30,000 a race.

The nightly average for the week was $223,440 a little better than the season's mark of $222,724.

Managing Director Ray C. Bennigsen was well-pleased with the decision to hold only eight races each night. "It has worked out well and I'm sure that the fans like it, inasmuch as it enables them to get home at least a half hour earlier."

The betting total for the current meeting is still ahead of the figure for the corresponding number of programs in 1955. . . . For the 21 nights of the 1956 meeting, a total of $4,677,202 has passed through the windows compared to the '55 handle of $4,539,082. . . . And that figure for last year included $429,914 for the Memorial day afternoon program.

This year's holiday afternoon card will include a $5000 handicap to be run over the one mile and 70-yard course.

Lemons Tops Trainers. C. LEMONS of the C. Mikel Farm stable, owns the one-win lead over Eddie A. Cole in the race for trainer honors. . . . Lemons has saddled 14 winners, while Cole has 13 to his credit. . . . They still have a big lead over all rivals. . . . Don Kerone is next with seven firsts.

Earl Hammond has six and Dan Abbott and George Schatz five each.

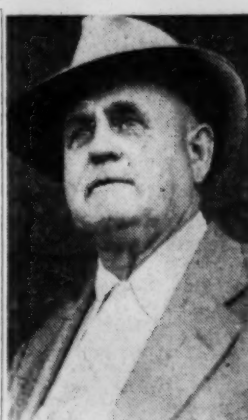

Lemons' success has put the Mikel string in the lead for owner honors. . . . The 13 wins came in 12 starts and 12 thirds have netted the stable $12,087.50. . . . The H. H. Rendleman horses, with King Bebe showing the way on victories in two $2500 handicaps, has earned $7910, while those of the Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Holman string have won $7790.

The Rendleman and Holman horses have each been in the winner's circle seven times.

The veteran Jake Coleasure piloted three winners Saturday.

four hours and 52 minutes—six minutes shy of the American League record—and 15 innings, the Sox nipped the Indians 5-4. Cleveland came back to win the second 4-2 behind Early Wynn's five-hitter.

Three Hits for Enos. The Detroit-Kansas City twin bill also ended in a split. After Al Kaline, Ray Boone and Charlie Maxwell had homered to spark the Tigers to an 8-2 triumph, Art Ditmar shut out Detroit 5-0 despite giving up 10 hits to give the Athletics an even break. Veteran outfielder Enos Slaughter helped Ditmar

John Delahoussaye has nine wins to his credit, while Billy Gummow, Wayne Stevens and R. E. Young have each been in the winner's circle eight times.

The jockey standings:

Coltman—127 30 20 15
C. Meaux—114 17 7 11

HOOFBEATS: When Charles Patrick Jones, 18-year-old rider won with Yellow Fly in Saturday night's fourth race, it was the first victory of his career on a recognized track. . . . Previously he had had 29 mounts at Dade Park and Sunshine Park. . . . A total of 35 riders have piloted at least one winner at the Collinsville track meet. . . . The largest handle on a single race Saturday night came on the seventh when $40,463 passed through the windows. . . . In the running of the event, Udo Reinach gained his third victory of the meeting, while Herb S. and Lewis A.D. finished in a dead heat for place.

to his fourth victory with a single, double and triple. Pitcher Jim Wilson, making his first appearance for the White Sox since he was acquired from Baltimore several days ago, won his own game with a two-out single in the fifteenth that drove in Minnie Miñoso with the winning run. Wilson had taken over in relief in the fourteenth and picked up his fifth triumph.

Tom Brewer suffered a tough first inning when Washington scored five times to record his sixth triumph in seven decisions. The young pitcher slammed a three-run homer in the third to climax a seven-run outburst.

Final 500-Mile Race Tests to Be Held Today

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 28 (UP)—The pressure was on a dozen or so speed demons today in their race against the weather and the clock as they attempted to crash into the lineup for Wednesday's 500-mile Memorial day classic.

The speedway set aside 63 minutes of qualifying time for "bumping." The trials were scheduled to end yesterday, but when rain washed out Saturday and most of yesterday, the management decided on an extra two-hour period.

Five cars were qualified and one of them eliminated in 57 minutes available to complete the 33-car field yesterday. Twelve other racers, including Nino Farina's Ferrari, remained lined up near the starting apron overnight so they would not lose their turn.

However, time may run out before all of them get a chance to make the field.

The forecast called for scattered showers and thunderstorms. If it rains all day, stewards said the trials will be off and no additional time be made available.

Veteran Cliff Griffith, 40-year-old Indianapolis industrialist train foreman making a racing comeback, was the fastest qualifier yesterday. He averaged 141.471 miles an hour in the same car which the late Jerry Hoyt put on the pole last year.

Griffith was severely burned three years ago when he smashed into the wall during practice.

Other qualifiers were Johnnie Tolan, Denver, Colo., 140.081; Eddie Johnson, Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, 139.093; Duke Dinsmore, Dayton, Ohio, 138.430; and Eddie Sachs, Indianapolis, 137.373. The latter's car was outstayed by Johnson.

The field now averages 142.507 miles an hour, nearly four miles faster than last year.

Augsburg Team Beats Chicago

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, May 28 — Pete Struzina, center forward of the German soccer tourists used all his skill to lead Augsburg to a 4-2 victory over Chicago's Schwaben team at Hanson Stadium yesterday before an estimated 7000.

The visitors aided by a strong wind opened the scoring after 18 minutes. Struzina maneuvering through three men, placing the ball in front of Matanovic who rifled in from 18 yards. Ed Murphy, of Chicago, came close with a header and play was well balanced. At 36 minutes, the locals equalized Felix Bachmeier, from the right corner of the penalty area, first-timed a curving knee high cross from the left side scoring into the top left corner of the net. Half time score was 1-1.

In second half Struzina deflected a deft pass and a defense splitting pass and he raced forward to give Augsburg a 2-1 lead at 5 minutes. Ten minutes later Struzina lofted a high center to Matanovic who headed in with ease. At 26 minutes, Nick Bogner now playing forward, reduced the margin with a hard placed low shot from 18 yards. Struzina placed a penalty kick over the bar but got a well earned but easy score at 40 minutes after receiving a pass from Matanovic.

Lineups: Augsburg—Suessmann; Frisch, Nennung, Schmutzmaier, George Kneitel, Lang, Yungmann, Schmelingner, Struzina, Matanovic and Piwon. Chicago — Michel; Bogner, Matt Bachmeier; Rusheinski, Buechers, Wichert; Jack Bachmeier, Felix Bachmeier, Krug, Kohberger and Thuraus. Subs—William Benesch, Ed Murphy, Gene Petromale, Soehn, Kirsch and Kramer.

Two Records Set as Ft. Riley Wins Meet

WAIKUEGAN, Ill., May 28 (INS)—Two new all-Army records were set and a third mark equaled in the finals of the 1956 Fifth Army track and field triathlon in Waukegan yesterday.

Second Lt. Joseph W. Corley, former University of Illinois runner, trimmed 1-10 of a second off the 400 meter hurdles record with a :53.8 effort. Corley also tied the mark for the 100 meter dash, covering the distance in :10.7.

Specialist 3rd class Horace J. Hunter bettered the old record for the 200 meter dash by 1-10 of a second with a :22 time.

Fort Riley, Kans., won the team championship by 91½ points while Fort Carson, Colo., was second with 62 and Fort Leonard, Mo., third with 37½.

Two Home Runs Give Bilko 18 For the Season

LOS ANGELES, May 28 (UP)—"Don't get Ty Cobb mad," used to be the watchword in the American League and the same might be applied today to Steve Bilko, the lapping first baseman of the Los Angeles Angels who is driving toward a new P.C.L. home run record.

Big Steve was cruising along on a streak of five home runs in five straight games before yesterday's twin bill with Seattle. One homer in that opening contest would have tied the mark of six set by Gene Lillard in 1935. But Don Fraccia of the Rainiers held Bilko hitless, although the Angels won 4-3.

Came the nightcap and the slugger smashed two and circuit clouts — his seventeenth and eighteenth of the year — to propel the Angels to a 5-4 win and a sweep of the doubleheader.

Los Angeles, which meets later place Vancouver on Tuesday, moved three games ahead in the P.C.L. race off yesterday's triumphs and will meet the futile Mounties with a six-game winning streak on the fire.

In other action, San Diego bounced from sixth place to fourth by topping Portland twice, 9-2 and 4-2, while Hollywood and San Francisco divided. The Seals took the opener, 5-4 on Bob Dipietro's two-run homer in the ninth frame. Hollywood won the second, 6-4.

Vancouver and Sacramento were tied by the Sunday baseball law in British Columbia.

Eddie Karak, who flitted with fame 10 years ago as third baseman for the St. Louis Cardinals, was the big man in San Diego's thumping of Portland. The veteran went four-for-four in the opener and clubbed a home run in the process to help

Shoemaker Takes the Blame for Swaps' Defeat by Porterhouse

LOS ANGELES, May 28 (INS)—Jockey Willie Shoemaker has owner Rex Ellsworth's forgiveness for allowing Swaps to be beaten by Porterhouse in the $100,000 added Californian at Hollywood Park last Saturday.

Shoemaker, three lengths ahead, thought he had the race won and eased up on Swaps 220 yards from the wire in the mile and one-sixteenth race.

Porterhouse, putting on a driving finish under Ismael Valenzuela's frantic urging, caught Swaps near the end of the stretch, too late for Shoemaker to get the colt back in his stride, and won the rich gallop by a stride.

Porterhouse's stunning upset win cost Ellsworth $43,700—the difference between the $63,700 first money and the $20,000 second money.

However, he said yesterday: "Anybody can make a mistake."

He added that the boner was not going to have any effect at all on his stable's relations with Silent Shoe.

Ellsworth said:

"As far as I'm concerned,

Missouri Must Play Oklahoma To Decide Title

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 28 (UP)—Missouri and Oklahoma must play another baseball game, perhaps Memorial Day, to determine the Big Seven baseball championship.

Playoff of a scheduled May 15 game that was not played was ordered by faculty representatives after Oklahoma and Nebraska defaulted for the lead in games over the weekend.

Missouri and Oklahoma were told to find the date, but this was found difficult since both schools now are in the midst of final examinations.

Coach H. Simmons of Missouri said he probably would complete final negotiations for the game today. He said it might be played Wednesday, Memorial Day, or on the weekend.

At any rate, it needs to be out of the way by June 5 when the Big Seven champion meets Bradley in district five N.C.C.A. playoffs.

Should Oklahoma defeat Missouri, the Sooners would be champions. If not, Oklahoma would tie with Nebraska and the two would have to flip a coin to see who would play Bradley.

The complicated situation began May 15 when Oklahoma refused to play a game at Missouri because of wet grounds and use of a makeshift field. It was further complicated Saturday when Oklahoma downed Colorado, 3-1, in a first game but couldn't finish a second due to rain. Nebraska topped Iowa State, 17-13.

That left Oklahoma with a 6-2 record and Nebraska at 8-4. Oklahoma was best percentage-wise, but hadn't played as many games.

STOCKS PLUNGE, RALLY IN VIGOR, RALLIES AT CLOSE

Decline Is Part of Reaction Market in Last 3 Weeks, but Late Support Is Good.

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP)—The stock market was lashed by heavy selling today and then launched a strong recovery drive at the close with enough vigor to bring prices well up from their lows.

The decline was part of the reaction that the market has been in for three weeks, but the late buying support was distinguished for its vigor.

Prices were higher at the opening but soon sold off. Shortly after the start of the final hour there was a concerted wave of selling that forced the tape to lag in reporting transactions. That quickly subsided, and then buyers took over with vigor enough to force the tape behind again—this time with prices rising strongly from the lows. The tape was three minutes late at the finish.

At the worst, losses went to around 8 points, but at the final bell the decline extended from 1 to around 5 points at the worst in key areas.

The market's entire broad reaction has been a reflection of the nation's spotty economic picture, and there was nothing new today to add to the overall situation.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down $2.20 to $175.20 with the industrial component off $2.60, railroads off $3.00, and utilities lower by 50 cents.

There were 1200 issues traded of which 163 advanced and 542 declined with 244 new lows but only 3 new highs for the year scored.

Volume came to 2,780,000 shares as compared with 2,570,000 shares traded Friday when the market was moderately low.

The International service said "The industrial average reached the general area of the mid-February session low—the level widely anticipated by Wall Street chart followers as expected to mark the bottom on the current downward swing."

"Today's drop was the seventh in a row for the industrial and rail groups, and was the 15th in the last 16 sessions for the industrial index, during this virtually unbroken stretch of decline over the past three weeks, the industrial average had lost approximately 50 points around today's low—one of the most drastic corrections in so limited a time in years."

"Announcement of further reductions in passenger car output this week, and news that makers were beginning to lay off workers because of the auto cutbacks, were depressant influences, meantime, the start of steel wage talks brought to the forefront the possibility of a mid-year strike in this key industry."

As usual, the volatile secondary stocks were dealt the hardest blow.

The United Press said, "There was nothing in the news unknown to the market. The list was suffering from a long list of adverse factors building up over the last few weeks, including tight money, cutbacks in several industries, talk of a cutback in steel operations in the third quarter, and prospect of a steel strike."

Last week's stock market was hit hard by continued selling in all areas of the list. The loss on the week was the greatest of the past eight months.

Brokers attributed the decline to a number of factors. Outstanding was falling automobile production that added to the rolls of the unemployed and brought diminishing demand for products of allied industries.

U.S. Economy Today

JUST HOW MUCH CREDIT IS ENOUGH?

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP).

MONEY is the source of all squabbling—or, at any rate, most of it—in the business world today.

The war of words over the Federal Reserve Board's tight money policy pretty much boils down to this: Even as you, industry is chiefly interested in how to get money and how much it can buy with what it gets. And, even as you, it wants money to be easy to get but at the same time it wants money to keep its good hard value when it comes to buying things.

Sam Dawson

Right now there's a big controversy over just where lies the happy mean. And one leading banker is suggesting that we keep money just as costly to borrow but make more of it available to people who want it.

THE FEDERAL RESERVE has been accused of a long list of things: Choking off the supply of mortgage funds, discouraging the sale of autos and other goods on time—and even making the stock market faint hearted. This comes about because of the Federal Reserve's chief reason for being is to keep the supply of money and credit ample for the needs of industry, trade and agriculture. If the supply is excessive, there's danger of inflation—runaway boom and rising cost of living, sinking value of the dollar and of savings. If the supply is too tight, there's danger of recession—industry can't expand, trade is pinched, men are laid off, and gloom settles over the stock market.

THE BIG ARGUMENT NOW IS OVER WHAT the Federal Reserve is doing. It says it's making money dear enough and credit tight enough to discourage any boom-and-bust enthusiasts. Builders of homes and makers of cars and other consumer goods say the Federal Reserve is making credit so tight that cars aren't selling, homes aren't rising, industry can't find the money easily to turn its big expansion ideas into concrete and machinery, farmers are paying too much to finance their operations. Bankers, who have seen the interest they get on loans rising, are mostly in the Federal Reserve's corner. Their chief criticism is, that they haven't enough money to lend—at the higher interest rates.

HENRY C. ALEXANDER, CHAIRMAN OF J. P. MORGAN & CO., says that by raising its own rates—and thus prompting all interest rates to rise—the Federal Reserve has been doing the right thing, just letting them get back where they used to be. He doubts if this is much of a restraint on inflation. But he thinks many quite creditworthy businessmen are being turned away at the loan windows because the Federal Reserve isn't letting the banks have enough funds to lend. Alexander's solution: Keep the high interest rate but reduce the reserves which member banks are required to keep with the Federal Reserve. Member banks in New York and Chicago must now keep 20 per cent of their demand deposits with the Federal Reserve. Banks in other Federal Reserve cities must keep 18 per cent. All other member banks must keep 12 per cent.

RESERVE REQUIREMENTS IN THE CHIEF money centers are too high, Alexander contends. He urges that they be lowered at the proper time so that the banks have more funds they could lend and thus help meet the demand of industry for funds for construction and equipment. The Federal Reserve, without saying just what it will do, promises to see there's enough credit for the seasonal needs of business and particularly for the need to borrow to meet next month's income tax payments. The question still is: just how much credit is "enough?"

Killed in Auto Accident

THE REV. JAMES O. JOHNSON and his wife, of St. Ann, killed in an automobile accident Saturday. This photograph was taken at the time of their marriage recently.

AUTO HITS AND KILLS MAN ON HIGHWAY 21

Retired Farmer Victim of County Accident—Three Other Fatalities.

Christ Dauernheim, a retired farmer, was killed last night when struck by an automobile on Missouri Highway 21 near his home, Butler Hill road, St. Louis county. Dauernheim was 76 years old.

Driver of the car was Linn E. Boyd, 19, De Soto, the Highway Patrol reported. He told patrolmen that Dauernheim ran into the path of the automobile, and he was unable to stop in time to avoid the accident.

Floyd Patterson, 36, machine operator, 709 Exchange avenue, East St. Louis, was fatally injured yesterday when two automobiles collided a mile north of Centralia, Ill., on United States Highway 51.

Driver of the other car, Charles Kraupa, St. Paul, Minn., a sailor, was returning home from a base in Florida, police reported. He was not seriously injured. Kraupa told police Patterson apparently lost control of his car.

The Rev. James O. Johnson, 30, an evangelist, and his wife, 21, were killed in an automobile accident Saturday while driving to Kansas City where he was to have opened a revival today. Although the Johnsons traveled most of the time, they had a St. Louis address at 11380 Inverness lane, St. Ann. They were members of the Trinity Tabernacle Gospel Church at 7629 Natural Bridge road. His father, Calvin Johnson, lives at 2834 South Eighteenth street.

Another pair, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Pilgrim, Kansas City, Kan., were injured seriously in the accident on United States Highway 63 about five miles south of Cabool, Mo.

Highway patrolmen reported the accident started when a tire blew out on a car driven by Forrest R. Malam, Mountain Grove, Mo. They said Malam's car sideswiped the automobile in which Mr. and Mrs. Pilgrim were traveling. The Pilgrim car then crashed into the Johnson automobile, patrolmen said.

MOVE TO PUT STALE FILMS ON TV CHARGED

NBC Says Syndicators Threaten Return to Days of Nickelodeon.

WASHINGTON, May 29 (UP)—National Broadcasting Co. charged today that a group of film syndicators are trying to flood television with "stale and stereotyped" films.

NBC said the syndicators are threatening to push television back to the days of the nickelodeon by spearheading an attack on network TV.

If such old films were used, NBC said, "the public and the vital new industry of television would be the twin losers." NBC made the remarks in a statement submitted to the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee at the request of Senator Warren Magnuson (Dem.), Washington.

Magnuson asked NBC to reply to testimony presented to the committee by Richard A. Moore of Station KTTV, Los Angeles. Moore had attacked program clearance agreements between networks and stations and certain network sales policies.

He called for their elimination by government regulation charging network operation "suppresses" the production of film for television.

Promoters Acquire Movies. NBC replied that "a wide variety of promoters and financial traders" recently have acquired masses of old Hollywood movies. It said promoters of pay-as-you-see TV also are seeking to exploit the TV system from their mobile film of contribution to the broadcasting art.

The disruption of the structure of live networking would mean the death of a national communications service of great range and vitality, with rival film interests fighting over the remains of the television system, which would shrink in scope and value to a tiny fraction of its potential," NBC said.

It added that "the accumulated product in Hollywood's vaults—most of it musty and outdated—would hit television with the impact of a tidal wave. The American public would literally drown in a celluloid sea."

Called Smoke Screen. In New York, the NBC statement prompted the Association of Television Film Distributors, Inc., a trade organization of four TV film distributing companies, to charge that NBC is throwing up "a smoke screen by issuing an unwarranted and irrelevant claim that any change in the status quo will destroy all television."

STEVENSON ACTION ON AGE PENSIONS WORRIES BACKERS

In Illinois received an average of $60.50 a month as against California's average of $70.11; that Illinois requires a lien on the oldest's home while California does not; that Illinois allows a single person to have only $400 in personal property and $600 for married couples, while California permits $1200 for a single person and $2000 for married couples.

Stevenson gave as one reason for vetoing the increased assistance bill in 1951 the fact that older and blind people had an effective lobby while children did not. Children had been omitted from the bill.

He also said: "We ought to work out a system that encourages an older person to work if he wants to instead of discouraging him. We ought to have a program for training people who have finished their regular work to do things they want to—things for which their age will be an advantage instead of a handicap. "It is high time we started rebuilding this whole program around the central idea that we want to make life meaningful and worth while, all the way through."

EISENHOWER'S SUCCESS LAID TO HIS PERSONALITY

Dulles, who took a pessimistic view of the Soviet announcement that they were going to cut their armed forces by 1-200,000, and Harold E. Stassen, who was fairly optimistic about it.

The President did what he usually does in such controversies. He backed everybody's right to argue but at the same time defended the principle of discipline. He said the Joint Chiefs could express their personal opinions before the Congress but had to support his decision. He said he had listened to both Dulles and Stassen, and thought they were both pretty logical.

The habit of returning the soft answer, of playing down controversy, of hoping for the best, pleases his supporters and infuriates his opponents. The Democrats can attack his actions, but somehow they never seem to be able to attack him.

It would be too much to say that he has substituted personality for policy in American political life, but it is probably true that the voters are more interested in personality than in policy, and it is certainly true that his personality has dominated the scene.

This may not be enough for four more years of increasingly rapid change, but it has been enough to give the Democrats the shakes in the last four years.

POLITICAL RALLY FATAL

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, May 28 (AP)—A policeman was killed and a police captain wounded seriously in a free-for-all after a political rally Saturday night in the town of Milagro, about 24 miles west of here.

About 20 other policemen were hurt in brawling between supporters of presidential candidates Raul Clemente Huerta and Carlos Guevara Moreno.

WIN OVER WILEY ASSURES DAVIS OF CAMPAIGN FUNDS

deserting him; the Coleman group has never really wanted him.

The convention action was a birthday present in reverse for Senator Wiley; he was 72 the day it happened. He has proved in the past an indefatigable and pleasing campaigner, and on those talents he must now largely rely.

Because he is an internationalist, he can expect some help in the primary from Democrats who have little hope of capturing the Senate seat for themselves. State law makes this very easy. He may be helped, too, by present indications that relations are strained between the Republican Governor of Wisconsin, Walter Kohler, and the Coleman faction.

One experienced Republican believes the Wiley-Davis race will be hot and close. He anticipates, too, that the President will be responsive to the plea that Davis is the young blood, new face, that Mr. Eisenhower has so often said the G.O.P. needs.

CZECH COMES OVER TO WEST WITH FAMILY HIDING IN SOFA

HOF, Germany, May 28 (AP)—A 35-year-old Czech worker spirited his wife and children across the border into West Germany yesterday in a folding sofa.

Andrej Donoval, a city employee in Asch, placed his 34-year-old wife and two children, aged 10 and 4, in the folded-up part of the sofa, huddled the sofa to an unwatched border point on the sidecar of his motorcycle, and crossed over.

The Czech told Bavarian border authorities he tossed the sofa back into his Communist homeland.

Discover how kind G-E Packaged Air Conditioners can be to your budget (and, of course, your business). Packaged units provide the most economical system of air conditioning. Installation involves no costly alterations or shutdowns. You can install gradually—a unit at a time to fit your budget. And you'll get other substantial savings...

You'll eliminate that hidden robber, wasteful cooling. G-E packaged units operate individually. You can cool the zones you want when you want without cooling any others. The units themselves are compact, troublefree—with cooling mechanism sealed in steel. Finally, you'll save space. Floor models may be placed in or away from areas being serviced. Ceiling-mounted models use no floor space—available in water-cooled or air-cooled designs.

You can take up to 3 years to pay, after small down payment for each unit—whether you install a unit at a time or do the whole job at once. Order now—installation at your convenience. Call your authorized G-E distributor, listed below, for free survey—learn how General Electric Air Conditioners can actually pay for themselves.

SELF-CONTAINED CEILING-MOUNTED UNITS have no remotely located parts to impair efficiency. Air-cooled models in 3 and 5 ton capacities—water-cooled in 3, 5 and 7½ ton capacities. FLOOR MODELS in 3, 5, 7½, 10 and 15 ton capacities. All models carry General Electric's famous 5-year warranty. Coils for winter heating may be added.

PEIPING RECOGNITIONSays Nasser Made Move to Get Arms if U.N. Imposed Embargo.The New York Times News Service.
(Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

CAIRO, May 28.—An Egyptian spokesman said yesterday Premier Nasser could get all the arms he needed from Communist China even if the United Nations imposed an embargo on weapons to the Middle East. This was the "secret" of Nasser's formal recognition of the Peiping regime, according to a front-page article by Maj. Amin Shaker, director general of the semi-official newspaper, Al Gomhuria. Shaker, formerly spokesman for the ruling Revolution Command Council, evidently was writing with the approval of the government.

There have been rumors in Cairo for some time that the government may have made arrangements several months ago to obtain arms from the Soviet bloc through Peiping in exchange for the credits Egypt has built up through shipment of cotton to China.

Al Gomhuria said Nasser decided to recognize Communist China after Prime Minister Eden had obtained agreement in principle from the Soviet leaders to set up a United Nations machinery for halting the Middle East arms race. Shaker charged that this was part of a plot by Eden to "tie a noose around the necks of the Arab states."

The Egyptian premier realized that Communist China was not a member of the United Nations and therefore would not be bound by any United Nations decision on an arms embargo.

Shaker's article made it apparent that it would be good Soviet strategy to appear to back Western desires for an arms embargo while allowing arms to flow to the Arabs from China.

It was also suggested that the Soviet leaders could have had as a secondary aim using Chinese arms shipments as a lever to obtain a seat for Communist China in the United Nations. Only if China were a member could the Western powers demand China's adherence to a United Nations arms embargo.

yesterday Egypt had achieved self-sufficiency in small and medium arms production and now intends to begin production of heavier arms. Gen. Hassan Ragheb, under secretary for munitions production, told newsmen Egypt's arms factories will supply Arab countries which have military

FRENCH AIRLINES HOSTESSES TO SERVE ON U.S. PLANES

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP)—A group of French airline hostesses arrived by plane yesterday to spend six months with a United States airline.

The 14 young women will be guest hostesses on Allegheny Airlines "on flights between Newark, N.J., Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Washington, Atlantic City and Philadelphia. The hostesses, trained in Paris by Air France, all speak English.

The project, designed to improve understanding between citizens of the United States and France, has the approval of the State Department and was cleared through the Labor Department and the Immigration Service.

LAYOFFS IN AUTO PLANTS CHARGED TO 'TIGHT MONEY'

Senator McNamara, in Talk to Unemployed, Blames Eisenhower Credit Policy.

DETROIT, May 28 (AP)—Senator Patrick McNamara (Dem.), Michigan, says that growing layoffs in the auto industry can be blamed at least in part to the "tight money policy" of the Eisenhower Administration and a 1955 sales race between "the giants."

McNamara also told a mass meeting of unemployed workers yesterday that "this so-called Republican prosperity that we have now is something like a false-front prosperity."

Leonard Woodcock, a vice president of the United Auto Workers, told a television audience meanwhile that "our people are suffering by layoffs and short work weeks" because of the "boners" of auto executives he said are rewarded with bonuses.

The Michigan Employment Security Commission's latest estimates place the state's unemployed at 220,000, with 130,000 of them in auto-making Detroit. Today began a week of idleness for "several thousand" at the Studebaker-Packard Corp. in South Bend, Ind.

Bulging Inventories. In all layoffs announced thus far, auto manufacturers have said cutbacks were necessary to bring production into line with retail sales. Retail dealers have bulging new car inventories estimated at 900,000 units.

McNamara spoke to an estimated 1000 at a meeting called by UAW Dodge Local 3, which estimated that 14,800 of its 26,800 members are out of work.

By the United Press. Federal, state and local officials told rally listeners they would do their utmost to ease the unemployment situation. The officials agreed unanimously to press the Federal Government and industry for public works projects, increased auto production and defense contracts.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams, Mayor Albert E. Cobo of Detroit, McNamara and Representative Thaddeus Machrowicz (Dem.), Michigan, were the chief speakers at the rally.

Williams said he planned to call a top-level meeting soon of labor and management representatives to discuss unemployment not only in the auto industry "but in other segments of our Michigan economy already severely affected by unemployment."

UAW President Walter P. Reuther, who was unable to appear at the rally, was represented by Douglas Fraser, an assistant, who said reports the Defense Department plans to send $65,000,000 in defense contracts here "wouldn't mean a great number of jobs."

Cobo said he planned to see if it was possible for the auto industry to keep car production up, thus reducing unemployment, even if it meant increasing car inventories. He said he wanted to try to keep all auto workers on the job until federal aid and local projects could fill in and carry the slump conditions.

FORMOSA PAPER OPPOSES CHINESE ENTRIES INTO U.S.

TAIPEI, Formosa, May 28 (AP)—A Taipei newspaper today urged the Nationalist Government to suspend the program by which 2000 Chinese are to enter the United States under the Refugee Relief Act.

The United Daily News said: "Most of the so-called refugees are high class Chinese whose sons or daughters are studying in the United States. These Chinese have used their money to the United States by devious means and now want to settle there in the guise of refugees. The whole thing makes us lose face."

The Overseas Affairs Commission screening Chinese applicants to enter the United States announced Friday that 1668 had been granted permission so far.

U.S. DISK JOCKEY, EGYPTIAN MARRIED IN CHURCH SERVICE

CAIRO, May 28 (AP)—Callifornia disk jockey Carroll H. Pederson Jr. and his "Princess of the Nile" honeymooned at Mersa Matruh, Cleopatra's old swimming hole, today and planned a trip to the United States.

The 26-year-old radio announcer from Pasadena, and Laurence Shaker, 22, an Egyptian airlines secretary, were married in the Anglican All Saints Cathedral after a romance carried on by mail and tape recordings. The religious ceremony followed a civil wedding May 17.

The Californian first heard about Laurence from her brother while he was in the United States. They began a correspondence which turned into a courtship.

$2 HORSE RACE BET BUILDS UP TO $12,724 IN WINNINGS

AGUA CALIENTE, Calif., May 28 (AP)—A mechanic on a honeymoon won $12,724.80 on a $2 horse race bet yesterday. The previous high here was $11,180 paid last week to Mrs. G. W. Winderscheidt of Palm City, Calif.

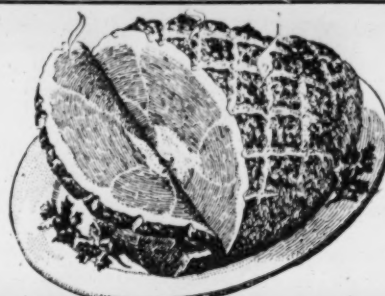

Warner G. Shelton, a San Diego, (Calif.) aircraft plant worker, picked all six first-placers from the fifth through tenth races yesterday.

Shelton's take was the largest since the pool began operating seven weeks ago.

DEMOCRATS BEAT G.O.P. TO PUNCH ON-HIGHWAY BILL

Chavez Maneuvers to Return Minimum Wage Clause to Roads Measure.

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—Democrats stole a march on Republicans in political maneuvering over the highway bill as the Senate opened debate today on the mammoth roadbuilding program.

Senator Dennis Chavez (Dem.), New Mexico, jumped in at the outset with an amendment to put back in the bill a provision strongly favored by labor to let the Federal Government fix minimum wage rates on a major segment of the proposed road system.

Senator Thomas H. Kuchel (Rep.), California, had been waiting with the identical proposal, but Chavez got the floor first.

Republicans had thought the amendment might be somewhat embarrassing to Democrats since many Southerners oppose it. Southern Senators contend it would drive up wage rates for farm workers as the highways push out through rural areas.

The Chavez amendment would apply to interstate road projects under the 1931 Davis-Bacon Act under which the Secretary of Labor can fix wage minimums on federal construction projects. He must apply those prevailing in the area concerned, but Senators opposing the amendment contend that he usually takes the rates for the nearest large city.

40,000-Mile Network. The interstate system would be a 40,000-mile network of major highways linking all parts of the nation. The bulk of the federal funds under the bill would go to this program with Washington paying 90 percent of the cost and the states the rest.

A House-passed road bill contains the Davis-Bacon provision, but the Senate Public Works Committee knocked it out in readying the measure for the Senate floor.

After Chavez offered his amendment, Senators Homer Capehart (Rep.), Indiana, and Herbert H. Lehman (Dem.), New York, said they had identical proposals and asked to serve as co-sponsors. Kuchel announced he would speak for it.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland of California told reporters he understood today would be devoted mostly to talk, with votes on the bill coming tomorrow.

Korean Orphan With New Family

KOREAN ORPHAN FINDS WARM WELCOME HERE

Eleven-year-old Jimmy Yoo Herron, an enthusiastic "cowboy" and Indian with vigor to today with his new friends living near his home at 7213 Burrwood drive, Normandy.

On his arrival yesterday, they gave him a warm greeting, complete with a banner of welcome. He liked it all so much he wants to help next week in welcoming another St. Louis-bound Korean war orphan.

His adoptive grandmother, Mrs. Ralph Herron Sr., has made arrangements to lend Jimmy as an interpreter when Christine Ann Evans, 3½-year-old, joins her new mother, Mrs. Stanley G. Evans, 3945 Lindell boulevard. Mrs. Evans has never seen the little girl from Korea, who does not speak English, whereas Jimmy has excellent command of English and Korean.

"Bang, you're dead!" he told his 19-year-old aunt, Miss Ruth Herron, a Southwest Baptist College sophomore. To his gratification, she collapsed, with upturning hands.

Airman 1-C Ralph Herron Jr., when serving in Korea in 1953, decided to adopt Jimmy, who was camp mascot, but faced the problem of having no mother for the child. He has found the girl he wants to marry—Airman 2-C Pam Myers from Denver.

Mrs. Herron Sr. is delighted to serve as Jimmy's mother until her son and Miss Myers get out of service. "I knew Jimmy was just as glad to see me as I was to see him," Mrs. Herron said, "when he threw his arms around my neck yesterday and yelled, 'Hi, Grandma!'"

STASSEN ADMITS MAKING PROTEST OVER JET SHOW

WASHINGTON, May 27 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen confirmed yesterday that his protests were partly responsible for the drastic curtailment of the Armed Forces Day display of atomic jet bombers here a week ago.

Stassen, President Eisenhower's disarmament chief, in a filmed television interview (Reporter's Roundup) said he thought "this was not the time to rattle bombers by the hundreds, but it was good to show types and strength."

"We should not overdo it," he said.

The aerial show was cut from 216 B-47 atomic bombers to 45. Protests against the mass flight had been made by private aircraft owners and pilots, who cited the hazards of a low level flyover at jet speeds. Pentagon officials said privately that the pressure had come from such places as the White House and Stassen's office.

Discussing disarmament, Stassen repeated his recent prediction that the Russians would some day accept President Eisenhower's "open skies" inspection plan.

til her son and Miss Myers get out of service. "I knew Jimmy was just as glad to see me as I was to see him," Mrs. Herron said, "when he threw his arms around my neck yesterday and yelled, 'Hi, Grandma!'"

NOTICE TO VOTERS

The Board of Election Commissioners for the City of St. Louis hereby gives notice that a general REGISTRATION OF VOTERS for all voters who are not now registered under the Permanent Registration Law, will be held in all of the precincts of the City of St. Louis on between the hours of 9:00 o'clock a.m. and 9:00 o'clock p.m. of said day.

Registrations must be made in your home precinct. For information, telephone the Board, direct line, Garfield 1-3288, or Main 1-3560, ask for "Election Office."

Note: Voter now registered need not register again. Anyone who has moved within the City and whose registration has not been cancelled at his former address, may transfer by mailing a post card, or letter, with written signature, giving his old and new address to the Board's office.

In addition to precinct registration on June 7, the offices of the Board of Election Commissioners, 208 South Twelfth Boulevard, are open for registration every day from 9:00 o'clock a.m. to 5:00 p.m., and Saturdays from 9:00 o'clock a.m. to 12:00 o'clock noon. The precinct registration of June 7 is a supplemental facility for those who may find it more convenient to register in their own precinct.

The registration office in each of the 787 precincts of the City will be located at the places named below:

Strawberry Festival Cake

"If you'll notice, when strawberry shortcake is on the menu of any fine restaurant, it's the dessert most people choose. And because it's such a favorite, I'd like to share a very special one—Strawberry Festival Cake with you. Here it is—and doesn't it look good enough to put a fork into this minute?"

"The welcome and delicious difference is that this is real cake—tender, snowy layers thickly filled and topped with juicy sugared berries and crowned with whipped cream. With our White Cake Mix that cake will always be fine-textured, moist and velvety—because we use special shortening and flour created just for cakes. And all those fine ingredients are creamed and blended more thoroughly than you could do by hand; of course, the fresh eggs you add give you a higher, better cake, too!"

"Make the most of strawberry season! Try this cake with some of our other mixes—Yellow Cake, for instance. Sunshine Sponge Cake, baked in layers, is absolutely delicious. And by all means, try it with our Angel Food Mix—split and filled for party-size desserts, or served in slices smothered in berries-and-cream for family meals."

Simple directions for Strawberry Festival Cake on Duncan Hines White Cake Mix package.

For serving to smaller groups, bake one of these two ways:

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE SQUARES

Bake white cake in oblong pan, following directions on package. Use as much of the loaf as you need. Cut cooled cake into squares. Split crosswise—put together with crushed sweetened strawberries. Top with more strawberries and whipped cream.

STRAWBERRY CUPCAKES—Follow the directions for white cupcakes on the side of package. Use as many cupcakes as you want to serve. Split crosswise—put together with crushed sweetened strawberries. Top with whipped cream. One package gives you 24 delicious cupcakes.

Baking with Duncan Hines is an Adventure in Good Eating:

WHITE • YELLOW • DEVIL'S FOOD • SPICE • MARBLE • BURN'T SUGAR • REGULAR OR CHOCOLATE ANGEL FOOD • SUNSHINE SPONGE CAKE MIXES

IRISH BEAUTY

Phyllis Class of Dublin, the "Miss Ireland" contestant in the "Miss Europe" contest, misses none of the fun at dance in Stockholm, where the contest is being held. When informed by officials that the 22-year-old contestant is married, a Swedish representative said: "The Irish have made their choice and that they have elected a Mrs. Ireland is none of our concern. We bid her just as welcome as the others."

FATAL PLUNGE IN ITALIAN ALPS

Wrecked tourist bus lies on its side in an Alpine stream bed near Bolzano, Italy, after crashing off the Brenner Pass highway in accident which took the lives of the driver and 18 Austrian tourists last Tuesday night. Twenty-five passengers were injured when the bus smashed through guard wall at upper right. Police said brake failure caused the accident, which occurred as the bus was returning to Austria.

REBEL ROUND-UP

Under the speculative gaze of French soldiers, Algerian rebel suspects squat silently after they were taken into custody in village near Palestro in north central Algeria. French troops sealed off Algiers' famous Casbah yesterday in an unprecedented drive for rebel suspects and arms. The ancient quarter, hitherto considered an inviolable refuge for Moslems, was held in an iron grip for 18 hours as soldiers routed out arms hoards and suspects. About 500 persons were detained as "super suspects."

With dignity befitting the proud traditions of his breed, Bruno, a 3-year-old German Shepherd, poses for his portrait as Dog of the Week at the Humane Society Shelter. Bruno outgrew his former quarters and was left in the Society's care. An excellent children's companion, he is available for adoption on personal application to the shelter at 1210 Macklind avenue.

EXUBERANCE IN TEXAS

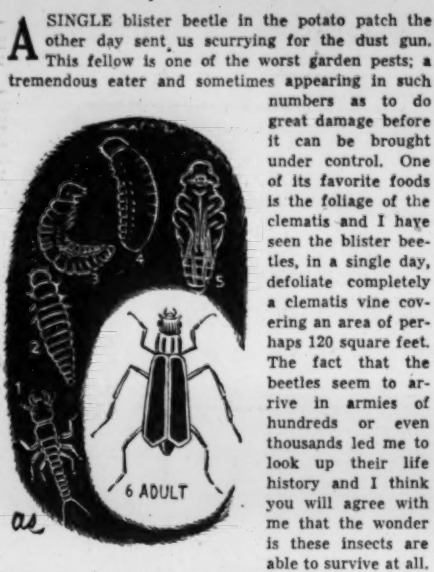

President Eisenhower, born in Texas, is right at home in the land of the lavish as he and Sid Richardson exchange warm greetings following the President's arrival at Waco, Tex., Friday. Richardson, wealthy oil man who helped Mr. Eisenhower win in traditionally Democratic Texas in the 1952 election, was in group of political leaders who welcomed the President as he arrived to deliver speech at Baylor University.

Wonders of Nature
In Life of a Beetle

By Leonard Hall

Blister beetles belong to the family Meloidae, a fairly numerous tribe. The ones we see most often in the garden are obnoxious-looking creatures of dull black or gray and black with rather heavy wings. They are about three-fourths inch in length with a cylindrical body and a big abdomen generally swollen from eating our vegetables. The larvae are either predaceous or parasitic on the eggs of one of the mason bees or flower bees of the family Apidae. But when you consider the process by which the larva of the blister beetle survives, it is little wonder the female beetle lays egg clusters in masses of 10,000 or more.

THERE ARE at least six known larval stages of the blister beetle and the first one is a tiny insect with large jaws, long legs for grasping and, at the back of its body, a sort of adhesive pad which enables it to stand on its tail. When this larva hatches, it climbs up onto a flower blossom and waits for some flying insect to come by. This in itself seems an unlikely chance and even if the infant Meloe is successful in grasping a passing insect, the percentage in favor of its being a mason bee would appear infinitesimally small. If it attaches itself to the wrong insect, it perishes in the course of its free ride; and of course, the vast majority of the larvae must die without ever encountering a flying insect of any kind.

WHEN THAT ONE-IN-A-MILLION CHANCE comes along and the Meloe hitch-hikes home with the mason bee, it must wait until the bee lays an egg in a drop of honey, then transfer itself from the bee to the egg which it begins eating. Then just before the egg is completely consumed, it must be transformed into a second larval form which will not drown in the surrounding honey. Yet even this is simply another step in the development of the adult blister beetle, since it must go through three or four more larval stages before reaching maturity. And as I go out to spray the blister beetles in the garden, these propositions occur to me: How remarkable that enough larvae of the Meloidae manage to complete their life cycle so that they can attack my potato patch in seemingly countless thousands. And why on earth would old Mother Nature ever devise such a complex and altogether improbable scheme to enable the repulsive blister beetle to survive?

WHEN ONE CONSIDERS this complexity and the fact that it is duplicated over and over again in the world of Nature, it is harder than ever to understand the naivete of some "naturalists" who set themselves up as experts in fields in which they have little knowledge and less understanding. A prime example came to my attention recently in a digest of two articles written by Manley Miner, a son of the late Jack Miner who established the widely publicized and slightly controversial Jack Miner Migratory Bird Foundation at Kingsville, Ontario. Miner, in The American Woodsman and Fur-Fish-Game, challenges the "balance of nature" theory which has hardly been considered seriously by the ecologist or wildlife technician for the past decade or more. Yet in whipping this dead horse he seems to me to make statement after statement which even the sportsman who is primarily interested in having birds and animals to kill could hardly agree with. Take this, for example:

"The deer is food for humans and it is up to man to control their enemies. There is no further need for timber wolves for controlling deer herds when man, the greatest predator on earth, takes over. Man was intended to be the predator; the wolf was only intended to control the increase of deer herds until human population was sufficient to do so."

OBVIOUSLY THIS is the sheerest tripe from start to finish. In civilized, urbanized America the deer is not "food for humanity." It is a gentle and innocuous animal which we kill in a constantly more artificial and degenerating form of sport. We have learned something about improving deer habitat with the result that, in many areas, we have more deer than before the Pilgrims landed. We have killed nearly all the wolves, yet have not even learned how to control the "deer harvest" so that the animals will not overpopulate their range and starve to death by hundreds or thousands. As for "food for humanity," you can come to Possum Trot and buy good beef for 18 cents—well, say 20 cents—per pound on the hoof. Venison, which few people know how to hang or cook and which most don't even like, will cost you upwards of $2 to $5 per pound and a good part of the venison killed each season is wasted.

BY THE SAME TOKEN, there's no doubt "man is the greatest predator on earth." But who besides this fellow Miner is authority for the statement that "man was intended to be the predator"? This sounds dangerously like setting oneself up in the place of the Almighty; and doubly so when the article ends with this piece of supreme effrontery: "Man has no place in his picture for competition afield in killing and there is no other excuse for the wolf (by which Miner intends to include the fox, all hawks, owls, herons, weasels, mink, marten, otter and all other species which may possibly prey on and eat anything Miner is interested in killing himself) to live except in 'rarity.' For my part, I would hardly presume to say that the mangiest wolf or grizzly bear hasn't as good an 'excuse' for living as Mr. Miner—or as Len Hall, for the matter of that.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

ONE lazy Sunday morning, Sweeney saw a man stand beside a car, telling his wife how to park it. She finally managed the task, after giving the cars both behind and in front of her a thorough going-over. Then the man drove the car out into the middle of the avenue, and the woman began trying to park it all over again.

"What's the idea?" asked Sweeney and the man explained, "Teaching the little woman how to park—or trying to, at any rate. We do it here outside the church because we know the owners of the cars she hits are sure to be inside for at least an hour."

AN OLD SETTLER from Arkansas vows that his paw became tired of life so he lay down on the tracks three miles ahead of the fastest express train in the state—and starved to death before it got there.

The engineer of this express, incidentally, made one unscheduled stop every day to pick up a dozen fresh laid eggs from his cousin, who ran a farm 90 miles north of Little Rock. One day his cousin hailed him with the usual, "Hi, Cousin Abernathy," but this time added, "Ye'll have to keep them passengers waitin' a few minutes extra today. I got 11 eggs so far, but one hen is on the nest now and that twelfth one ought to be along right soon."

'Grand Deception'

Successful Hoax of Masked Medium

Duplicate Box and Wireless Set Fooled a Committee of Experts

By Bernard O'Donnell

Eighth installment in a series from the book, "Grand Deception," about some of the famous hoaxes of history.

THERE was nothing lacking in showmanship where P. T. Selbit, famed British illusionist, was concerned. And it was showmanship plus a perverse sense of humor which prompted him to stage the seance that took place March 21, 1919, in Selbit's own flat in Bloomsbury.

The seance room was a long wide room, one end of which had been heavily draped with black curtains. Into this room were ushered the members of a committee of investigation appointed by the editor of the Sunday Express which had offered 500 pounds to any medium who could produce a spirit form under strictest conditions.

Chief among them was Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. Then came Lady Glenconner, Grey of Fallodon, Sir Henry Lunn, Dr. Wynn Westcott, the well-known coroner and expert on things occult, Dr. Edwin Smith, lecturer in forensic medicine at St. Thomas's hospital, Superintendent Thomas of Scotland Yard, Stuart Cumberland, an authority on thought transference, David Gow, editor of Light, the spiritual journal, and Ralph Shirley, editor of the Occult Review.

The committee made an exhaustive search of the room, lifting up the carpets to see there were no traps or other trick apparatus. They examined the walls and the windows, tested the floor for electric wires, and made sure that the lighting arrangements were not rigged in any way.

Selbit produced a small black cigar box to which a lock was attached. This he handed to the investigators to examine thoroughly.

He next produced a small silk bag which was likewise examined. The visitors were then invited to place any articles connected with either the living or the dead, into the bag. Selbit impressed upon them to observe closely that the box was never out of their sight.

Then he introduced the medium. He opened the door of the room and there entered a slender young woman clad in white evening dress which stood out in strong contrast to the black hair and gleaming dark eyes which gazed out at the assembly over a mask. She was shown to a seat at the curtained end of the room and Selbit placed the box upon her knees.

THE COMMITTEE INSPECTED THE BOX THOROUGHLY BEFORE THE SEANCE BEGAN.

The lights were dimmed.

In a few moments there was the sound of a cough and a sigh followed by a little moaning, and then the medium began to speak. Amidst pauses as though groping for the right words, she mentioned first a surname, and then a Christian name. It turned out to be the name of a member of the staff of the newspaper who had been sent along with a sealed letter which was a special test devised by the editor of the paper.

"I see words . . . German words . . . but they are not real German . . . only German in a jocular mood. I see the word Oberintellect."

YOU will note the amount of detail in the revelations of the medium concerning a letter which she had never seen. A letter which it was afterward revealed was enclosed first in a thick blue cover, which was then placed in an envelope sealed with wax, and then stamped with a private device.

But perhaps her most remarkable performance was her deciphering of the cryptic message in the letter which in fact read: "Liebe Ober-intellect, Ich habe until January 10 ein extension gewanted!"

This was a faithful and sensational rendering of the exact words in the letter, and a most convincing proof of mediumistic phenomena.

Having thus gained the confidence of the committee, the Masked Medium, as she became known, simply went on from success to success.

How did she do it? How could she possibly know what was contained in the box?

Here is the way it was done. Remember that just before Selbit introduced the medium he drew attention to the fact that the box never left their sight. He then opened the door and the medium, wearing a mask, entered the room. Every eye was naturally turned upon her, and in that moment Selbit switched the box which he held to an assistant behind the door, receiving in its place a duplicate box, which the medium subsequently held in her lap. It was done so quickly and with such dexterity that nobody noticed the exchange.

The real box was taken to a room, where it was unlocked with a duplicate key, and where a wireless installation had been set up. The mask of the medium concealed two tiny earpieces acting as a receiving set. Meanwhile assistants were making notes of the articles in the box, which had been opened with a duplicate key. They unsealed the test letter by means of a hot knife to melt the wax, and copied word for word its contents.

The transmission of the messages was made by means of a large induction coil, the man in charge of this part of the show literally telling the medium what to say. While she was reading off the various descriptions given, the back-room boys were resealing the letter and replacing the articles in the box.

Presently when the medium said she felt tired and would like to rest for a few minutes, Selbit suggested that Lady Glenconner should retire with the medium and carry out a search of her person in accordance with the terms of the test. Just across the passage was a small room, the maid held the door open, and the medium with a polite "After your Ladyship," ushered Lady Glenconner into the room, the maid seizing this moment to change the box carried by the medium for the original box containing the objects she had just described.

AT once the medium handed this box to Lady Glenconner, asking her to retain possession of it so that she could assure the committee that it had not been changed. Then throwing aside her mask—and thus cunningly discarding her receiving set—she submitted to the search.

But the seance was not yet over. There was to be a materializing test. Very soon in the shadowy darkness there appeared to come from the side of the medium a sort of vapoury figure bearing some resemblance to the human form. It grew and grew, and the silence was intense as it took a roughly human shape and then gradually disappeared.

This phenomenon was as daintily produced as had been the previous demonstration. Selbit engaged an acrobat who, when the room had been sufficiently darkened, slipped out of a window in the next flat, and crept through a narrow coping to a window at the curtained end of the seance room where the medium was sitting. He was clad from head to foot in black tights.

He stole in behind the black curtains and made his way to the side of the medium. Once there, from a pocket concealed in the front of his tights, he produced some phosphorescent muslin which he gradually formed into something resembling a human figure. The phosphorescent muslin which he produced he made the muslin vanish into his pocket and made his way back to the next door flat via the windows through which he had entered the seance room.

How convincing this seance must have been may be gathered from the fact that Sydney Moseley wrote a book on it titled "An Amazing Seance." Lady Glenconner in writing a comment on the demonstration declared: "The medium possesses remarkable powers, and deserves and has, our gratitude for placing them before our circle of investigators in so generous a manner. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle was a bit sceptical of the ghostly apparition but expressed his firm belief in the clairvoyant manifestations."

Selbit said nothing. He refused to accept the 500 pounds offered by The Sunday Express, realizing that if he did so it would savour of obtaining money by false pretences.

Secrets of Charm

Worth a Second Glance

ART CRITICS have many theories about what makes a piece of art merely pleasant to look at—or great and to be remembered. The one point they agree on is that the important piece of art reaches out from depths behind the paint or clay. It captures more than merely the eye of the beholder. Looks are only part of the many things you are, but they're all there is to go by at first glance. And whether or not a second glance follows depends, as with a picture, on what glimpse can be caught of what lies behind outward appearance.

DO YOU LOOK as if you would be pleasant to deal with, or nice to know? Everyone unconsciously wants to know these things about a stranger. The right answer is found in a quiet sparkle of good nature on your face, in the grace and dignity of your bearing, whether or not you are a beauty.

By no means should a first glance discover consciousness. Stares are surely unwanted. But it would be quite a blow to be referred to as a girl who's hardly worth a second look. This can be true if, although you wear skillfully applied makeup, you forget to wear a pleasant expression.

INTEREST in what goes on about you, gentleness, quiet confidence, responsiveness to others—these set a face alight as no well-performed beauty rite can. Movement, too, is influenced, whether it is easy and natural or hindered by self-consciousness or affectation.

Personally has a way of showing through the way you look, and even at first glance is important. It's appealing enough to smooth your way with those who touch your life slightly and momentarily, or to invite the interest of those who might touch it more deeply and permanently.

Fix It Yourself

By Hubbard Cobb

Notes on Screens.
UP until about 100 years ago no one had problems with screen doors and window screens because there weren't such things. Today, because we have screens, we also have screen problems.

A good efficient screen will keep insects out of the house but it can't keep insects such as houseflies from collecting on the outside of the screen and waiting for a chance to slip through into the house. The way to fix these creatures is to spray the screening with a residual insect spray. This type of spray remains on the screening and will kill any insect that steps on it. A residual spray will remain effective for several weeks if it doesn't get washed off by rains.

When screening has to be replaced in metal frames, be sure to use screening of the same metal as the frames. Aluminum and copper don't get along worth a nickel and so if you use copper screening in an aluminum frame you are asking for trouble. In fact, even on wood frames be sure to use fasteners of the same metal as the screening.

With plastic screening you don't have to worry. Plastic seems like a pretty agreeable material and gets along well with metals of all types.

During long dry periods it's worth taking screens down, when windows are closed, and washing them down. This prevents the dirt on the screens being washed over painted surfaces when it rains.

If you have tight fitting window screen frames it's a wise idea to drill holes in them along the bottom edge and cover these holes with pieces of screening. The purpose of the holes is to allow any water that gets trapped behind the frame to drain away rather than soaking into the window sill and window frame.

Let's Explore Your Mind

By Dr. Albert E. Wiggam

1. DOES MOTHER'S DAY COMPENSATE FOR THE 364 NON-MOTHER'S DAYS?
YES ☐ NO ☐ 5-28

Answer to Question 1.
NO, notwithstanding the opinions of the flower and confectionery industries, say Jane Whitbread and Vivian Cadence in "The Intelligent Man's Guide to Women." To most women, it adds up to the following: "There's nothing special about women; still, we can't get along without them. So we'd better put them on the back occasionally, just to keep them from walking out." So mothers are honored annually in an orgy of sentimentality for their status—and mostly unnoticed for what they do.

Answer to Question 2.
Change your attitude. You plan to buy something but find you have lost your money. Very well—change your desires or else be miserable. You are unhappy in marriage, and for some reason a divorce is impossible. If you don't change yourself, it means continued misery. "What can't be cured must be endured." But the only sensible way to endure it is to alter your desires, hopes, ambitions as much as possible. You'll be amazed how much these can be changed if you make up your mind to learn to desire other things.

Answer to Question 3.
Yes. William James likened the formation of good habits early in life to a young man who buys a large endowment policy. By "fashioning his nervous system" to the right way, he can turn most of the ordinary customs of life over to "the effortless custody of habit." He can, in old age, "live at ease on the fund."

Fruit and flowers continue to be favored as trimming for hats, and are noted among the colorful decorations for summer. Hats that have drooping brims are garlanded with realistic cherries. Large red poppies, pink roses, and daisy chains are among the floral themes that the milliners prefer. A revival of leghorn as a straw for the wide-brimmed hats follows the revival of the old-fashioned trimming.

DORIS DAY'S sunny smile and the honey in her voice, ironically, have their roots in tragedy... Many years ago she was bed-ridden for 14 months as a result of an auto accident... In an effort to forget the agony and the fear that she might never walk again Doris began taking singing lessons... Since then life has been a song.

DRENCHED IN silver brightness, Julie Andrews radiates stardust magic in "My Fair Lady"... Her twinkling triumph, however, had its origin in a form of tyranny known as Hard Work... She had extreme difficulty with her role during the first rehearsal week... Consequently, director Moss Hart devoted 48 hours to coaching her privately... Every line, every song, every inflection, every movement... Again and again and again... Without sleep and little food—Hart guided, pleaded, reprimanded... With terrifying intensity they poured their talent and energy into two fateful days and nights... Out of that crucible came Charm and Laughter... And the fiery bursts of Stardust.

HELEN HAYES'S decision to appear in a film is happy news... Movies will again be enriched by her diamond-brilliance... She renounced movie-making after her first experience with Hollywood... Mainly because studio brass constantly prodded her with advice: How to dress. What to Say. How she should or shouldn't act... Finally, she exploded: "I've played to more audiences, listening to them laugh, watching them cry, than you'll ever see. Don't tell me!" After the picture was completed—it was shelved... Most of the executives considered it inept... Months later MGM genius Irving Thalberg looked at it alone in a projection room... He studied the flaws and edited them out... He ordered retakes... Result: For her performance in "The Sin of Madelon Claudet" Helen won an Oscar.

THE AFFECTION accorded twinklers generally comes in the form of mass applause. Public tributes are not always satisfying. Personal admiration makes a more lasting impression, of course... Ethel Barrymore reported that her most touching tribute was a handsome young man's kiss... Some time ago she was a guest at a Washington home... A small party lasted until the early hours... She excused herself to go to bed... A young Marine nervously said: "Miss Barrymore, I'm just a private in the Marines and you're the greatest actress in the world. May I kiss you goodnight?"... She kissed him.

SOMETIMES A GLOWING LIGHT emerges from darkness... The Pacific night was lit by stars and in the distance was the thunder of war. Aboard the U.S.S. Dragonette (in Guam) the crew was loading torpedoes. Suddenly a winch chain snapped with a metallic clatter. There was a whine of iron slashing the air. And a member of the crew was whipped senseless. During the next four weeks he was paralyzed from the hips down. One can imagine a young man's dark despair when his future is shaped in the form of a wheelchair. Miraculously, however, life seeped back into his limbs... After the war the G.I. Bill of Rights provided dramatic schooling. And so, out of the terror of war (and the agony of an injury) came an actor who Made It... Tony Curtis.

Neighborhood Bully

By Angelo Patri

BUNNY, aged 5, raced into the house and slammed the door, put his back against it and seemed to be straining to hold it shut.

ANGELO PATRI

"I can't. He's bigger'n me." So he was. Bigger, taller, heavier and none too intelligent. As bullies are people, old or young, who feel inadequate and feel impelled to prove to themselves and others that they are really important, they fall back on the only possible asset, their weight.

IT IS USELESS to tell a small boy to stand up and fight a bully. That small boy has the intelligence the bully lacks, and he knows that in this situation discretion is the better part of valor. He runs. That is better than to be beaten up. There is one such child, as a usual thing, in every neighborhood. What can be done with him? If he is alone, not the leader of the gang, the problem is easier. This child feels shut out of the things he longs to be in. Study him to learn what these are and try to help him substitute for his lack something or other that gives him satisfaction. What that is, one must learn by association with him.

IN MY EXPERIENCE, appeal to his parents is useless. Had they been able to see his difficulty and mend it, they would have done so. No parent likes to see his child pushed aside, disliked and avoided. So the parents of the other children have to plan to take this child into the circle and help him fit into it somehow.

If it is found that the bully is feeble-minded, then there is only one thing to do. Children of the neighborhood must be protected. Let a neighbor who is even-tempered and well-controlled visit the parents, explain the conditions and ask that they take steps to insure that the child does not interfere with the others. If that is useless, then the police authorities must take over.

If he is normal-minded and just dull, he can be managed—and that is by far the better way.

Highway Holidays for 80,000,000

Reservations Are Necessary if You Want a Decent Bed on Vacation; Some Precautions Listed

By Phyllis Rosentour

This is the second article of a series on how to make the most of your vacation this summer. Today's piece deals with touring in the family car.

THE biggest mass movement the world has ever seen will take place in America in 1956... and, the chances are, you'll be in the midst of it. The machinery is even now in motion.

Revolution? Anarchy? Not exactly. The wheels going round are attached to our automobiles. According to the American Automobile Association, about 80,000,000 of us—a thirty-fold jump in three decades—will take highway holidays in the months to come. And if that's not staggering enough, hear this:

If all the registered vehicles in the United States were operating at the same time, they'd occupy a 70-lane highway between San Francisco and New York State... and it would take a parking lot eight times the size of Rhode Island to contain them all—squeezed tight.

Of course, thousands of roadside restaurants and magnificent motels have sprung up as a result of our national car cult... but they can't catch up with the automobile industry. With millions of us racing around, reservations are now necessary if you want to be dead-sure of a decent bed... and you've undoubtedly found out all by yourself that a fancy facade is no guarantee of good food. Since we're so deep in the depths already, have you ever had your car conk out halfway down a deserted desert road or up above the timberline in that splendid isolation you went so far to find?

Still happy about the whole idea? Well, don't let me discourage you. All the foregoing has been planned pessimism, just to ram home the point that the "romance of the open road" must be assured in advance these days. I suggest that you work out a schedule which will put you within pitching distance of bed and board, bearing an "inspected and approved" sign of some authoritative sort... have your auto thoroughly overhauled before an ambitious excursion... and, even if you've been driving for 50 years, find out how experts handle high-altitude, stop-and-start, long-distance and desert driving; it all differs, you know.

The kids coming along? Teach them the safety rules well ahead of holiday time. Junior's hugging Daddy in a sudden spasm of love, on a four-lane highway, has piled up an impressive number of wrecks.

Plan on carrying along a favorite toy or two, plus a flock of dime-store "surprises" to stave off boredom. (And don't expect your youngster to have the attention span of an adult.) A big inflatable rubber ball and a jump-rope will work off some of the excess energy during rest and food stops.

You big people better bone up on songs to sing, stories to tell, quizzes and counting games... and the complete history of every place you plan to pass. If the sprouts stump you too often, you'll feel pretty silly. I know. Touring is wonderful way to teach children—and parents—history, geography, botany, biology, zoology, archaeology, patience, humility, faith, hope and fortitude.

The family pug joining the procession? For a dime in coin or stamps, to cover handling, the Gaines Dog Research Center will send you a pamphlet called "Touring With Rover." Write to Gaines, 250 Park Avenue, N. Y. City 17, N. Y.

I hate to bring up the subject, but the time to budget your trip is before you begin. This unpleasant fact impressed itself on my young mind the year I had to hook a fraternity pin for eating money. (Yes, Mort, that's where it went.) The dollar is more inclined to shrink than to stretch, and manna began and ended with the ancient Israelites.

If you're even remotely average, a surprisingly accurate estimate can be made by figuring as follows:

1. Gas, oil, minor repairs—all car operating expenses—will come to a minimum of 3 1/2 cents per mile.
2. Car storage at about $1.25 per night—but don't add in those nights you expect to spend in motor courts; free parking is part of the deal.
3. Overnight accommodations are up. Allow $5 to $12 per day for two people—more if you're hitting the swank spots.
4. Meals will generally average out about the same as accommodations. If you're sleeping, learn to choose color by weight. Color definitely has weight in a room, and weight is important.

For example, a room looks heavy at one end when furniture there is all dark against a light background, while the furniture at the other end is all light.

Bold, dense pattern in deeper shades makes a sofa look bigger than light, airy pattern, and plain color to match walls cuts down the sofa size more.

A chest may look bulky as a brunette but trim as a blonde

A table may balance a big chair in a dark finish, but look too frail in a light finish, and a small chair seems the right or wrong size, depending on how much its color contrasts with the colors in the room.

In general, to cut down the bulk of a furnishing, make it match walls or wear a color that is little or no darker, lighter or brighter than its background. To make it seem larger and more important, be sure the contrast is striking. Where the color is to go in the room must always be a big point in deciding what the color should be.

MRS. C. S. "Would solid color be best for slipcovers for my living-room furniture? The walls are rose, the draperies are gray, and the rug is patterned in shades of rose, gray, green, brown and black."

Patterns other than self-color or a small geometric might not be pleasing, but there's new variety in these in the new slip-cover fabrics. And don't overlook the excellent possibilities in textured fabrics which blend shades of the same color or combine two or more. One of your best choices would be one of these which include the major scheme colors.

Steaming salmon: Add a bay leaf and a few peppercorns to the water in which the fish is poached.

JUNIOR'S HUGGING DADDY IN A SUDDEN SPASM OF LOVE, ON A FOUR-LANE HIGHWAY, HAS PILED UP AN IMPRESSIVE NUMBER OF WRECKS.

ing chic, you'll probably eat high on the hog.

5. Figure 15 per cent on tips for meals.

6. List actual toll charges and entrance fees if you know them. If you don't, you can find out from the AAA or your travel agent.

7. To the total of the above, add $2 a day, or whatever you think you can spare for souvenirs or entertainment.

Of course, there's no law (except some places) against sleeping and eating out in the open. On private land, ask for permission—and stay off posted areas. Someone may be planning to spray trees with a deadly insecticide or drop a bomb.

Four of us pitched two pup tents one summer, and ate like dray horses on $3.50 a day. Not each... all! The folding camp stove cost $13.95, but we could have lived without it. Coolers and carrying case-camp tables are also available if you're being elegant.

I hope I haven't lost everyone without an automobile. There are a few wheelless wonders left—myself included—but the car rental companies assure us of fully-insured, fine automobiles when vacation time arrives.

For example, Hertz Rent-A-Car—the largest in the field—now serves 717 cities with 16,768 autos. According to Joseph J. Stedem, executive vice president of the firm, the average cost for Ford, Chevy or Plymouth runs $7 a day, plus 7c a mile. That takes care of everything... gas, oil, complete insurance coverage, and repairs on the road. Pile in as many people as you like; the rate remains the same.

This year an unprecedented number of air and rail lines are suggesting "combined packages"—including car rental at designation—in recognition of the fact that we Americans like to whiz where we're going and wander around when we get there. Better ask; often a substantial discount is involved if you make your arrangements in one fell swoop.

Now let's consider busses and boats. Busses first... because I recently made a 20-mile bus jaunt of my own. I figured myself "stuck" with a bus when last year's Christmas crowds kept me from getting out of Oklahoma any other way.

I intended to rough it only until I was up with some other kind of conveyance. However, I sat next to so many fascinating people, saw so many strange tucked-away towns, found so much to photograph during frequent stops, learned so much from local drivers steeped in the history of the wide Southwest, laid over so often at peaks, forests, canyons and caves... that I finally wound up in San Francisco, via the Texas Panhandle, and a couple of Mexican border towns.

All by bus! After the first day, I discarded hat, highheels, gloves, girdle, and all attempts at glamour. Comfort is the key word when you board a bus. Packing your own sandwiches along is also de rigueur, and 25 cents will rent a snow-clean, plump pillow. Some of the new busses are double-decked and vista-domed. While it's perfectly possible to ride coast-to-coast without stopovers, I think the main attraction of bus travel is the easy way you can drop off anywhere along the line, stay an hour or a week, and pick up an outgoing bus at your own convenience.

If you prefer group travel, Greyhound has come up with a collection of "Amazing America" escorted tours. For example, $199.75 will take you on a 12-city, 13-day circle safari from Manhattan to Florida. Included in the deal are 11 sight-seeing trips, 12 nights at top hotels (the Roney-Plaza in Miami Beach), all baggage handling, the services of a professional guide who travels with you and takes care of all the troublesome details... and even a farewell dinner. Just hitting the highlights takes three closely packed pages of a big brochure.

OTHER Greyhound tours run the gamut from two days at $25.95 (Illinois "Lincoln Land") to 20 days at $290.45 ("California Grand Circle" out of Chicago). Wherever you are, something is scheduled for your immediate vicinity... or you can always bus it on your own to the announced point of departure.

The boat boosters, of course, have quite a different approach. Their idea is to get you off the crowded highways entirely... either as a paying passenger or in a rig of your own.

As for the former, I've made a few notes to show what freedom of choice is yours on the waterways. Just a nickel in your jeans? If your New York vacation cleans you out, save that last five cents for a Staten Island ferry-ride, past the Statue of Liberty. The next biggest bargain in New York is also a boat-ride. Two-and-a-half dollars will see you aboard one of the diesel yachts that circle slowly around the grimy, glowing, magnificent, mad Manhattan Island.

Or you can take yourself and/or car from Key West to Havana, Cuba, on a 464-foot luxury craft. Eighty-five dollars will buy you a six-day schooner cruise along the coast of Maine, and a nine-day Alaska cruise, out of Vancouver, will set you back only $200. Literally thousands of itineraries are available from every port in the land... and on lots of rivers as well.

Every day more landlubbers are learning about the joys of air-conditioned life on lake, pond, bay, river, sound or sea. You can join this fastest growing activity in the entire sports world for as little as $200, purchase price for a serviceable second-hand 12- or 14-foot rig and outboard motor. Or you can cut it even finer than that by buying your boat in kit form for home assembly. A small pram will nick you about $50.

Banks are approving retail marine financing today, so you can acquire a small craft just as you would a car. Instead of driving into a motel, you'll be drifting into a "Yachtel," "Marina," or "Float-In." "Food and lodging for men and boat." Or you can take the car and craft together with an inexpensive boat-trailer and increase your cruising range.

If you don't want to make a substantial investment or if you want to try before you buy, you can rent exactly the kind and size of craft you require. With a couple of friends kicking in, the cost will come as a pleasant surprise.

Since the waterways have rules and regulations all their own, you'd be wise to look up the United States Power Squadron or United States Coast Guard Auxiliary in your area. These outfits conduct basic courses in seamanship and piloting in towns and cities from coast to coast... free and open to the public.

Inquire of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, Department of Interior, Washington, D.C., if you're interested in domestic coastal charts. The Great Lakes, St. Lawrence river, New York State Canals, Lake Champlain and Oneida Lake have been charted by the United States Lake Survey, Corps of Engineers, with offices at Detroit, Mich., and Buffalo, N.Y. Write to the Mississippi River Commission, Vicksburg, Miss., for data on the granddaddy of them all. Most of the marine fuel companies also offer cruising information and maps.

Come on in... the water's wonderful.

Contract Bridge

By Easley Blackwood

WHEN your find yourself in an impossible contract, standard, middle-of-the-road dummy play is no good. For example, if Mrs. Fusty had taken a routine finesse in diamonds in today's hand, unquestionably Mr. Abel would have won with the king for the setting trick.

The bidding:

All pass.

In these situations, imagination and ingenuity take precedence over "normal" play. Mrs. Keen led the deuce of spades against the six-heart contract. When Mrs. Fusty saw the dummy, she realized that she could not take 12 tricks unless she could find some way to trap a defender into making an error.

She had never known Mr. Abel to make an unsound opening bid and for a sound opening here he had to have both minor suit kings. Therefore, finesse in those suits appeared hopeless.

Mr. Abel won the first trick with the ace of spades and returned a trump. Mrs. Fusty won with the ace, then led a small trump to the 10 in dummy.

Next she pulled the ace of diamonds from the board and promptly followed suit with the jack from her hand. Then came dummy's trey of diamonds and it was Mr. Abel's play.

He hesitated. Was Mrs. Fusty trying to get him to go up with the king so that she could ruff, setting up dummy's queen for a club discard? He thought a long time and finally decided to play low.

Mrs. Fusty calmly won with the 10 of diamonds. Of course she was not out of the woods yet. She still had a diamond loser, but she set out to win the rest of the tricks as follows. She cashed the king of spades, discarding a club from dummy. She ruffed her last spade and then ran the rest of her trumps.

Her last two cards were the nine of diamonds and a club. Dummy had the ace and queen of clubs. It was Mr. Abel's play to the eleventh trick, holding the king of diamonds and the king and jack of clubs. If he dropped the jack of clubs, Mrs. Fusty could go up with dummy's ace and drop the king. So he parted with the diamond, whereupon Mrs. Fusty produced the nine of diamonds, making the third trick she had won in that suit. The ace of clubs took the last trick.

Social Activities

St. Louisans to Attend Commencement in East

By Karin Hayward

SEVERAL St. Louis young women will be graduated June 6 from Georgetown Visitation Junior College in Washington. Two of the girls, Miss Julia Ann von Brecht and Miss Joan Carol Pranger, are debutantes of this season and with Miss Lucy Reuter will be presented to society June 12 at a dance at Glen Echo Country Club.

MISS PRANGER... A JUNE GRADUATE.

Miss von Brecht's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. von Brecht Jr., 11 Fordyce lane, Ladue, will go East for her graduation. Besides her dance Miss von Brecht will be guest of honor at two other June parties, sharing honors both times with Miss Reuter. On June 14 Mrs. Frank Smith will give a supper party for the debutantes and June 19 Mrs. Robert V. Heffernan will be hostess at a luncheon and swimming party at Glen Echo Country Club. Miss von Brecht, her parents and her sister and brother, Miss Jean and Charles E. von Brecht III, will later in the summer go to Douglas, Mich., where they have a summer home.

Dr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Pranger, 6363 Wydown boulevard, Clayton, will be accompanied to Washington by their daughter, Miss Martha Pranger, a Villa Duchesne student, for the graduation of their elder daughter. The Prangers, who will leave here by motor Wednesday, will stay at the Shoreham Hotel and while there will be host and hostess at a cocktail party for a group of graduates and their parents. Another commencement party will be the alumnae luncheon which Mrs. Pranger, a graduate of Georgetown, and her daughter will attend. Miss Pranger plans to enter Manhattanville College, Purchase, N. Y., in the autumn.

Another Georgetown graduate is Miss Rime Marie Dusard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rime A. Dusard, 9215 Ladue road. Miss Dusard's parents and her sister, Miss Margaret Dusard, will attend her graduation and before coming back to St. Louis the group will visit New York and Chicago. Miss Dusard plans to continue her studies in the fall but has not yet selected her college.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Edgar Moser of West Plains, Mo., formerly of St. Louis, are in New York this week visiting their daughter, Miss Emily Felicitie Moser, and in another week will go to their summer home at Jamestown, R. I., to complete arrangements for Miss Moser's marriage to Richard Havelock Soule. The wedding is planned for Saturday, July 14, in Jamestown. Miss Moser, who is known as Mimi, has been living in New York for several years. Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Whittemore Soule of Brookline and Duxbury, Mass.

The Mosers' son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Funsten Jr. (de Lancey Moser), who also live in New York, were here last week for a visit of several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Funsten, 550 McKnight road, Ladue.

Sneddon-Barnard Wedding Planned.

AMONG next month's many weddings will be that of Miss Barbara Tipton Barnard and Alexander Ritchie Sneddon Jr., whose marriage will be an event of Friday, June 15, at Central Presbyterian Church. Miss Barnard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Barnard, 613 South Central avenue, Clayton, will arrive home June 5 from the University of New Mexico to complete plans for her wedding. Mr. Sneddon, who will receive his degree from the same university, will be in St. Louis June 9. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander R. Sneddon, who live in Albuquerque, N. M., will give the rehearsal dinner June 14 at the Gatesworth Hotel.

MISS BARNARD... SETS WEDDING DATE.

The Rev. Dr. J. Layton Mauze Jr. and the Rev. Dr. William B. Lampe will perform the ceremony at 8 o'clock at night with the reception later at the Gatesworth Hotel.

Miss Sue Seeger will serve as maid of honor and Miss Ann Hoch, Miss Joan Auer, Mrs. Robert M. Williams, cousin of the bride, all of St. Louis, and Miss Paul Curtis Hea and Mrs. Robert Matteuci of Albuquerque will be bridesmaids. Mr. Sneddon will have his father as best man. Ushers will be Jack Carnahan, Mr. Matteuci and Mr. Hea, Albuquerque, and Mr. Williams and William Geitz of St. Louis.

Parties for Miss Barnard include a luncheon June 7 at Glen Echo Country Club with Mrs. Robert I. Wells as hostess; a shower June 10 to be given by Miss Hoch and a dinner that evening for the engaged pair planned by Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Pence. June 11 the bridal party will be entertained at a party to be given by Mrs. Donald M. Barker and June 12 Miss Seeger has scheduled the bachelorette dinner. The out-of-town guests will be entertained June 13 at a barbecue by Mr. and Mrs. Williams and the next day there will be a shower and luncheon for Miss Barnard to be given at the Park Plaza Hotel by Mrs. E. M. Groves.

Miss Chapin Plans July Wedding.

MR. AND MRS. ELMER FENTON CHAPIN of Cobourg, Ont., formerly of St. Louis and Falls Church, Va., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Nancy Jane Chapin, to Lt. Roy Leon Mauldin Jr., of Birmingham, Ala. Miss Chapin attends Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia, Fredericksburg, Va. Her fiancé, who was a student at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, is stationed with the Army at Fort Ord, Calif. The wedding will take place in July.

St. Louisans Living in Italy.

MR. AND MRS. PAUL ALLAN EBBS, 6250 Enright avenue, will sail in August aboard the Cristoforo Colombo for Italy to visit their son-in-law and daughter, Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. Robert Renard who are living in Naples. The Ebbs and their five children, Melanie, Peggy, Carlotta, Robert Jr. and Marietta, have a home overlooking the Bay of Naples and since their arrival in Italy last September have visited several Italian cities. With Mr. and Mrs. Ebbs they will take a three-week motor trip through Germany, Switzerland and France. Lt. Comdr. Renard has an aunt and cousins living in Paris. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Renard, formerly of Webster Groves, reside in Arcadia, Mo. They are natives of France.

Among the St. Louisans the Renards have seen abroad are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clayton Mudd and their four children who arrived May 15 aboard the Independence. Mr. Mudd will be stationed in Rome with the State Department.

At Opera Guild Party

THE GARDEN AT MRS. THOMAS M. SAYMAN'S HOME WAS THE SCENE LAST WEEK OF A ST. LOUIS GRAND OPERA GUILD PARTY WHICH FEATURED A FASHION SHOW AND TEA. MRS. SAYMAN AND MRS. HENRY H. WHITTEMORE, A HOSTESS, ARE IN FRONT, AND MRS. ETHAN A. H. SHEPLEY AND LEIGH GERDINE, IN BACK. MRS. SHEPLEY REPRESENTS WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY WHERE OPERA THEATER PERFORMANCES, GUILD SPONSORED, PROVIDE SCHOLARSHIPS FOR MUSICIANS. MR. GERDINE HEADS THE UNIVERSITY'S MUSIC DEPARTMENT.

Webster Groves Bride-to-Bes Feted at Parties

MISS DOROTHY ANN VICKROY, who will be married June 11 to Howard Marks Nelson Jr., is being feted at many parties. The week preceding the wedding she will be guest of honor at a luncheon Mrs. Kenneth C. Baker, 4 Radnor road, Huntleigh Village, will give at her home. Miss Betty Fritz, maid of honor, will be hostess at a splinter dinner June 7 at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Fritz, 8141 Stanford avenue, University City. That same evening Mr. Nelson will entertain his attendants at a party at the home of his parents, 1114 Cheshire lane.

On June 8, Miss Mary Custis and Miss Esther Pastene will give a brunch and shower at the Pastene home, 408 Baker avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Howard M. Nelson, parents of the prospective bridegroom, will give the rehearsal dinner June 10. Parties began in March with a luncheon given by Mrs. Stephen B. Young and Mrs. John S. Vickroy, the prospective bride's sister-in-law, at the Young home, 925 Newport avenue. Miss Patricia McCoy and Miss Sherry Doran gave a luncheon and shower at Miss Doran's home, 2006 St. Clair avenue, Brentwood. A luncheon was given by Mrs. Dudley W. Dehoney Jr. and her daughter, Miss Beverly Dehoney, at their home, 693 West Lockwood avenue.

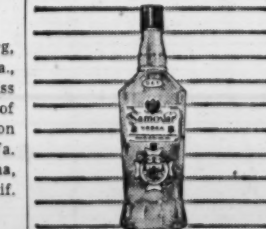

Mrs. William Anthony and Miss Mary Carol Anthony gave a luncheon at their home, 465 Bellevue avenue, May 20, while Mrs. William Godwin and Miss Sally Godwin, 102 Mason avenue, entertained at a shower.

My Day

A Reception For President Of Indonesia

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK.

THE other day I attended a reception given at the Waldorf for President Sukarno of Indonesia. It was a great pleasure to see this charming gentleman and to tell him how sorry I had been to miss seeing him last summer when I spent a few days in his capital. How he keeps his buoyancy when he is greeting a long line of people, such as went past him last Thursday afternoon, I do not know. He greeted me just as though he had seen me yesterday, and remembered me perfectly even though I had dined with him in Djakarta over three years ago.

ONE HAS a warm feeling in talking with President Sukarno even for a few moments. While he has been very forthright in the speeches he has made, I find that he has created no resentment, for people feel he is saying what he really thinks. He expressed a deep admiration for our revolutionary past and for the idea on which our democracy was founded, and in that he is completely sincere. He may criticize things that have developed of late and he may not agree with some of our foreign policies, but he does it judiciously and sincerely. I think all of us agree that this is the kind of constructive criticism which is needed to improve our international relations.

ON THURSDAY NIGHT a dinner in honor of Senator Wayne Morse was given by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brandt, at which Mrs. David Levy and I were hostesses. Senator Hubert Humphrey came up to give a delightful speech, and I think a great many people went away with increased admiration for Senator Morse, who seems to me to grow in stature the more I know him.

FRIDAY I HAD the great pleasure of welcoming Lady Stella Reading to the United States. She is here, as usual, on a very hurried visit, but I hope will get some little rest. After an early lunch with her I motored up to Hyde Park with my old friend, C. R. Smith, and had the joy of greeting Mr. and Mrs. Durward Sander, our counselor of the Embassy in Argentina, who is home on leave.

It was a great pleasure to see them and to have a weekend in which to talk about their many experiences through the troubled times which they have had the opportunity of watching in Argentina.

Their daughter, Muriel, who will soon be married and whose future husband lives in Alaska, was with them. She will be rather far away from her family, I fear, for the next few years.

Mrs. L. L., Beverly Hills, California

"When George and I began to get on in years, his hair turned to a handsome gray and made his look, well... sort of distinguished!"

"But my gray hair looked dull and lifeless. George was middle-aged and handsome... while it seemed I was becoming more unattractive. It's silly, I know, but... gray hair made me almost hate my husband!"

"Then I heard about Silver Curl... the home permanent that's custom-made for gray and white hair. I was desperate enough to dye my hair, but I'm so lucky I chose Silver Curl instead. Now, like George, gray hair is my most attractive feature!"

EASY TO DO! Even if you've never had a home permanent, you can have a Silver Curl with ease. Silver Curl is self-neutralizing... no extra steps. You just apply waving lotion—wind up curls—rinse and let dry. That's all!

GOOD NEWS! Silver Curl by Toni now has Fresh Air Waving Lotion... odor-free as a wave can be! And it gives a longer-lasting wave than any other home permanent!

Scottish Rite Club Schedules Installation

By Fay Profilet

MRS. G. GLENN WILSON, president of the Scottish Rite Woman's Club, will be in charge of the annual business meeting for members only, tomorrow at the Scottish Rite Cathedral, 3637 Lindell boulevard. The meeting will begin at 10:30 a.m. when reports of officers, section chairmen and chairmen of standing committees will be heard.

Luncheon will be served in the dining room, which is to be decorated with spring flowers, by Mrs. Albert Marks and Mrs. George Dasso assisted by a committee. The auditorium of the cathedral will depict a June garden as the background for a public installation of officers at 1:30 p.m. Afterward there will be a reception for the new officers and chairmen in the lounge.

Miss Edna Morrison, assisted by Mrs. R. H. Rodegast, marshal; Mrs. Guy Randall, chaplain, and Mrs. Charles Gund, all past presidents of the club, will install the following officers: Mrs. Leon K. Schmitt, president; Mrs. Edwin E. Hartman, vice president; Mrs. Frank Purvis, Jr., recording secretary; Mrs. Jesse Johnston, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Earl Barnett, financial secretary and Mrs. Marks, treasurer. Section chairmen to be installed are: Mrs. James Lewald, art; Mrs. William H. Ferebee, civics and current events; Mrs. Milton Bruns, dramatic arts; Mrs. Louis Slager, literary; Mrs. Elmer Schaeffer, music; Mrs. William Schorer, social and Mrs. Charles Pfeiffer, social welfare.

Music for the installation will be provided by Mrs. Pansyetta Glasco vocalist, accompanied by Oscar Jost. Mrs. Wilson will be presented the retiring president's jewel by Mrs. Hubert Foster.

Spring Luncheon.

WEST RICHMOND LITERARY CLUB gave its annual spring luncheon today at Coachman's Inn at which officers were installed. Mrs. Leo L. Herzing, retiring president, presided and Mrs. E. F. Sternberg gave the invocation. Mrs. William A. Brink, head of the entertainment committee, and Mrs. Floyd R. Evans were co-chairmen for the luncheon and program.

Mrs. Whately L. Chandler installed the following: Mrs. William M. Elinig, president; Mrs.

Heads Patrons Club

MRS. PAUL BENSINGER, NEWLY ELECTED PRESIDENT OF STEPHENS COLLEGE PATRONS CLUB.

Installation Dinner.

MRS. PAUL BENSINGER will be installed as chairman of the Stephens College Patrons Club Friday at 6 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Goetz, 19 Maret drive, Kirkwood. A potluck supper will be served on the patio. Since this is the last meeting of the club until next autumn, husbands of members have been invited.

Preceding the supper officers will be installed by Mrs. Albert J. Messmer. In addition to Mrs. Bensinger, they are: Mrs. William T. Zeitler and Mrs. Claude W. Saunders, first and second vice chairmen, respectively; Mrs. Joseph Peterson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Lester B. Brown, recording secretary; Mrs. Walter J. Jones, treasurer, and Mrs. Eugene M. Wilson, the retiring chairman, historian.

The Air Force Women's Club of Greater St. Louis will meet next Monday at 1:15 p.m. on the ninth floor of Stix, Baer and Fuller. Milton Napier will be the guest speaker.

James L. Martine, vice president; Mrs. J. F. Goodman, recording secretary; Mrs. Roy A. Butts, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Evans, treasurer; Mrs. Charles S. Colesworthy, auditor and Mrs. Herzing, director. The club will resume meetings late in September.

Gamma Phi Beta Mothers' Club of Washington University has elected Mrs. Albert Utsch president; the University of Missouri Gamma Phi Mothers' Club has elected Mrs. Glenn O. Lowe president.

Newest discovery from the laboratories of JOHNSON'S WAX!

FOUND!

ONE BUG KILLER FOR BOTH HOUSE AND GARDEN!

Kills House Insects

Raid clears rooms of flies, mosquitoes, gnats, flying insects. Kills roaches, water bugs, silverfish, crickets, ants, spiders, centipedes, carpet beetles, bedbugs, fleas and other crawling pests.

Kills Garden Pests

Raid protects roses and other flowering plants, evergreens, vegetables by killing such chewing and sucking insects as aphids, red spiders, thrips, leafhoppers, Japanese beetles, caterpillars, cutworms.

Raid sweeps bugs from the air...

Saves you buying several single-purpose insecticides

Why buy one kind of insecticide to use inside your house—others to use outside in your garden? Use Raid's revolutionary new formula in both house and garden! Raid hunts bugs down like radar! A few short bursts and Raid gets into every nook and cranny indoors—contacts and kills bugs even where they hide. And, unlike ordinary household sprays, Raid will not harm plants. Raid's new combination formula kills only the pests!

Use Raid sparingly! Its remarkable formula is so effective that a little goes a long way. Once you've used Raid in your house and garden, you'll never buy anything else. For you've never had such complete protection from a single insecticide before. So, to kill both house insects and garden pests, get Raid today!

You know it's safer—it's from JOHNSON'S WAX!

Martha Carr's

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF. OPINION

Dear Martha:

I WOULD like to know what you and your readers think of a father who won't shoulder any responsibility toward his child, a father who will uphold and shield his daughter in things which are worldly, if his wife expresses her disapproval of the stand he takes, flies into a rage and accuses his wife of nagging. It is such a struggle and a discouragement for this Christian mother, as she feels she needs the co-operation of all concerned. This day and age a mother has a trying time to rear a child correctly. I cannot understand why many people blame a mother for a child's downfall. There is nothing fair or right about it. I would like to know your opinion.

JUST A READER.

Because a mother is so much closer to a young child than his father, she often has far greater influence on his character and personality. But this does not mean that the father escapes any responsibility for the development of his child and the molding of his thinking and attitudes. Is it possible in this case that the mother is a little too strict and the father wants more freedom for the child? That, of course, would not justify his flying into a rage, and I know that too much freedom is a dangerous thing. But both parents must decide what is best for the child's physical and moral welfare and they must stand together on matters of discipline unless they want to rear a sadly confused son or daughter. Your friend can receive professional counseling on this problem at one of the family agencies in the city.

Dear Martha:

PLEASE TELL ME if there's a chance of a grandma 59 years old learning to write. I see and hear something every day that I could write about. I feel that I could write a book if I knew how to go about it. I can't type but I spell very well. My husband wouldn't give me a penny to learn. We are farmers and have grown children and several grandchildren who are as dear to me as their parents are. I've always had to do things I detest but did the best I could. I like people. Now I find myself restless and am tired of my work. What would you do?

AN ANXIOUS PERSON.

I wouldn't want to discourage you in your dream at all, and I would never say that a person at 59 is too old to try something new. However, writing a book is not an easy task and it requires a great deal of physical and mental labor. Many have tried it and have been disheartened by rejection slips. But that should not keep you from sitting down and writing what is in your thought. Put it down on paper. You will find joy merely in creating something, in composing a story or telling something about your life on the farm. Many publications are anxious to receive hints on labor-saving methods, for instance, or "how-to-do-it" items. You might start with this, with the subject you know best, and see how you get along before tackling a more ambitious project. Ask the Missouri Library Commission at Jefferson City for books on writing. Read the magazines in your home carefully and analyze the kind of material they publish. Then, get to work—and good luck!

IN ANSWER TO Ellen: For an informal morning or afternoon wedding, when the bride wears traditional wedding gown and veil, the bridegroom wears a single or double-breasted Oxford gray coat, striped trousers, white shirt and gray tie. For an informal wedding in the morning or afternoon when the bride does not wear a veil, the groom wears a dark business suit in blue or gray, white shirt, and tie of conservative pattern.

Memo to Brides

By Ruth Millett

MEMO to June brides: Go out and buy yourself a notebook and on the first page write: Why I think my husband is the most wonderful man in the world.

RUTH MILLETT

as you look for and discover all the fine and good things about the man you married.

If you will keep this up through the years, chances are very good that you will be a happy wife and that you will have a happy marriage.

For one of the great mistakes many wives make is to take a husband's good qualities for granted. Instead, they all too often worry and fret and nag about his faults.

If you can begin your married life determined to think about why you love your husband instead of worrying about his faults or wishing you could change him in this way or that you'll be a happier wife.

And just because you are a happy, admiring wife instead of a critical fault-finder you'll have a better husband. So don't put off buying that notebook and starting your list. And don't put it away and forget about it, either. For the good you saw in your husband when you married him isn't nearly so important as the good you continue to see in him through the years.

As the list grows so will your happiness and contentment.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

LETTER tells me: "My husband is home recuperating from a very serious operation. He is well enough to be up and around, but is still very weak. Since he has been home many of his friends have come in to see him. He is very happy to have visitors, but some of them stay too long and after they have gone he is completely exhausted. Is there any way he can tactfully get them to leave after a certain length of time without making them feel that he does not appreciate their visits?"

There is only one thing to do. You must take each visitor aside and explain seriously that the doctor insists that your husband must not see any visitor for more than a specified time—and remind all visitors the moment their time is up.

DEAR MRS. POST: Is it considered good manners to wipe up what is left of the yolk of a fried egg from the plate with a small piece of toast held in the fingers?

Answer: At family breakfasts—certainly! But not when "out in company."

Designing Woman Summer Porch With Winter Future

By Elizabeth Hillyer

CHANGE THE PORCH TO AN ALL-YEAR-ROUND ROOM.

IF the weather's as hot this year as it has been the past summers, man-made air conditioning has it all over nature's for most of the season. This may be as good a time as the fall, or a better time, to change the porch to an all-year-round room.

The major change comes with the remodeling with glass, wide expanses of it which keep the outdoors as much a part of the room as it can be.

For the times when the sun's too strong, wood slat shades at their handsomest temper the light while they add no little to the airy good looks of the room. They come in beautiful colors to inspire good color schemes and in wood tones to include a soft new driftwood, and have fine beveled edges which provide privacy as ordinary shades never did. They can even be made so they admit extra light above and create privacy to the height needed. With their new variety, they settle both decorative and practical problems of the room.

THE NEW ROOM can be the answer to where to view television, and it's the guest room the house never had with the choosing of sofa beds. Shown are two new sofettes, simple and trim with foam rubber on wood platforms with brass-tipped legs. One extends the wood platform to form a table with a marbleized top, and both are made comfortable to sit on and sleep on by means of special horizontal springs under the foam rubber. Their light and airy look is especially appropriate to the sunny nature of the room, and they have the fresh style that makes the new room worthy of an adjoining living room.

The Dean Speaks Up

The Lessons Learned From an Aunt

By Adele Starbird

TO hear their descendants tell it, everybody in the South "before the War" lived in feudal splendor. They all owned vast plantations and hundreds of slaves; they lived in white-pillared mansions, scented with jasmine and magnolias, on a diet of mint juleps and moonlight.

Dean Starbird

However, history shows that families who led a fairy-story existence were relatively few. I propose to tell a tale of three houses in St. Louis county, a sober tale of the people who lived in them.

my doll-clothes. "That is a lazy man's thread," she remarked when I took too long a thread, but she let me go on until it was snarled and knotted. Then she raised her eyebrows quizzically. To this day I see those eyebrows when I thread a needle.

When I said that one of my dolls was not as pretty as the others, she said with a passion of tenderness which even a child could not miss, "Then you must love her more than the others, for she will need you the most." I could not know then out of what depths of pain she spoke.

I brought a baby chick into the house and placed it on a huge round mahogany table, amused to watch its wobbly progress on the dark surface. "You had better not leave it there," she said mildly, but I paid no heed. When in a few minutes it misbehaved, I looked up at her in an agony of shame and confusion. Once more the eyebrows were up. "Now you see why," she said in a quiet voice as she rose to clean the table.

SHE WAS DYING when the elder of my brothers was born. They took me in to see her. "Henri has a son," she said, and I learned in that second that it means to have a son. Something was communicated from the dying woman to the little girl, some passion for the family and its continuity.

And so with a gesture, a tone of voice, she formed my attitudes. When I pass the house that was hers, I feel again the coolness of the tall grass in the fence corners where the "ragged robin" bloomed. I taste the pears and the small round red grapes of her arbor. I see the imperial glory of her purple clematis.

The old house was always teeming with life. Big men clattered up and down the back stairs, big men who were gay and boisterous and hot-tempered like their father, men who laughed a lot and talked incessantly. But the heart of the house was a small woman with bright blue eyes and graying hair, expressive eyebrows and a cleft chin. She gardened and cooked and ministered to her household, all the while living another life in which they did not share.

Of that life and of the house across the road I shall write next time.

Teen Date Advice: Leave 'Em Laughing

By Elinor Williams

"LEAVE 'em laughing!" Have you heard this expression?

It comes from show business like "corny," "ham," and some of your other favorites, and it's a good one to tuck away under your curly locks or crew cut for future use.

Why? What does it mean? It's always been the slogan—working rule—of top comedians from old minstrel show and vaudeville days to Bob Hope. All comedians—actors, too—end their acts on a pleasant note and leave the audience laughing, so they'll want more of their performances and will want to see them again... and again. "Leave while they're enjoying themselves, so they'll want you to come back" is the idea.

This is a good idea for your date-life, too. Instead of trying to show how grown-up you are by staying out until 3 a.m., you're twice as smart to end your date at a reasonable hour while you and your date are still having fun... instead of prolonging the evening's doings until the fun wears thin, the chatter dies and everybody's just plain weary.

If you're clever enough to "leave 'em laughing" and say goodnight before the time begins to drag and there are long, awkward silences, your date is more likely to be eager to see you again.

So why not leave some things unsaid and some things to do another time, instead of crowding everything into one long, long evening? Your telephone will ring more often if you do!

Pear Suggestion

Poach fresh pear halves in a sugar syrup; add strips of preserved ginger. Serve as an accompaniment for pork or as a dessert.

International Pattern

JOSET WALKER spends a good deal of her time traveling in various parts of the world, knows therefore the kind of costume that cuts down on packing and weight. This new design of hers is one of her favorites since when worn with its bertha collar, double breasted bolero made with or without sleeves, it is a perfect dress for daytime and summer cover up in any cosmopolitan atmosphere. Come sundown, the packet is left at home to reveal the low neckline with its narrow straps cut in one with the bodice. Wrapping the waist is a softly crushed cummerbund with attached breezy bow and streamers, very effective in matching fabric if you're using a printed silk for the outfit. The skirt has a panel front and back and inverted pleats on either side. The pattern, available in exclusive retail sizing measurements, is accurately cut by hand with open perforations for precise markings. Make it in foulard, novelty cottons, shantung, sheer wool or linen. With a crisp fabric choose a contrasting soft texture for the cummerbund.

Hat as Accent

A dark dress that has the accent of a colored hat gives millinery a distinctive place in the summer wardrobe. A simple black sheath, for example, becomes colorful and gay with the addition of a large pink or yellow hat. Navy blue and brown likewise are excellent background shades for the use of colorful millinery. Straw hats with the peach basket crowns are draped with organdy or have flowers and fruit circling the crown.

Middy Collar

The middy continues to inspire the designers in the creation of summer clothes. Dresses with the middy collar are featured for matrons as well as young girls. The striped pique middy blouse is a popular type for active sports wear, including use as a beach coat. Overblouses of white pique with the sailor collar are shown with matching skirts to add to the vacation wardrobe.

Combination Colors
Plaid cottons and fabrics that blend cotton with synthetic or silk are appearing for entire dresses or for jackets to be worn with dark dresses. Combinations of yellow, white, gray and black are typical of the trend. The true Tartan patterns are seen, too, and are being used by the designers in the dark shades as well as more vivid ones. Plaid trimming is attractive for neutral tones and for dark dresses of a solid color.

Sleeveless Jackets
Boxy, sleeveless jackets that end at the waistline are among the novelties for wear with shorts or to give a "cover-up" aspect to sun dresses. Necklines usually are of the bateau cut or moderately low and rounded. Dark linen-like fabrics predominate.

Women Aren't Punctual

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

WOMEN are not very punctual. I make that statement merely as a fact. I don't think many of my men readers will deny it. If some of the women readers want to argue, I hope they will look into the evidence first. Psychologist G. J. Dudy-cha, for instance, watched people coming into public meetings. The number of men and of women who arrived ahead of time was about equal. But most of the men came on time, most of the women came late.

If there weren't some basis for the belief that women lack punctuality, there wouldn't be so many jokes on the subject. A wife, for instance, is standing on the corner and addressing a friend whom she encounters: "This is intolerable. It's quarter of five now and I've waited for my husband, ever since 4 o'clock."

"What time was he supposed to meet you?" the friend asks. "Half-past two."

I GET SO MANY complaints or comments from men on this topic that it's worthwhile to consider some of the reasons why women find it difficult to keep appointments. One is that time doesn't mean just the same to them. If a woman says she's going out at 3 o'clock this afternoon, she may really mean that so far as she can judge in advance she doesn't intend to go at 2 o'clock or at 4 o'clock.

Beyond this, the husband who is impatient because his wife isn't ready to leave the house on time, should remember that she has more to do than he has. All he needs to do is to put on his hat. She has to dress and see that everything in the house is in shape to leave.

But unfortunately, the problem is deeper in some instances. Many a woman fails to be punctual because, unconsciously, it makes her feel important to keep other people waiting. It's one way of showing who is boss.

Neurotics are particularly likely to behave in this way. What they want to do is more important than what other people want to do. They act as if the world should wait for them. They have to learn that while Joshua may have made the sun stand still, they themselves can't do it.

THE WOMAN who is habitually behind time, needs to give herself some intensive re-education. An alarm clock will help her to know when to stop one job or to start another. She can begin by planning two hours a day in detail and living absolutely by the plan, letting nothing interfere with it.

Meanwhile, her husband will have to be patient—and I hope he will also be helpful.

Small Turnovers

Mix orange marmalade and chopped raisins and use as a filling for small turnovers made from scraps of pastry left after rolling out pie dough.

It's an Idea

By Vera

The appearance of a choice house plant may be enhanced by using a different container. For added focal interest, use a planter of copper or brass mounted on a square wooden base. Finish in ebony stain.

Luncheon Omelet

Cook diced kidneys, strips of onion and sliced mushrooms in butter; use as a filling for a luncheon omelet.

PEOPLE sometimes speak of "Tom, Dick or Harry." A man may declare, "I won't let my daughter marry any Tom, Dick or Harry."

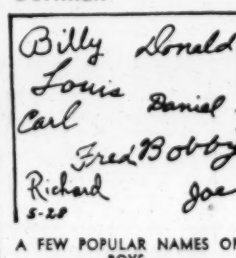

Although nothing is said about those names being the most common for boys and men, they suggest the idea. Actually certain other names are far more common. It would be closer to the fact if we gave Bill, John and Bob as probably the most common names. George and Jim also are popular, with Tom, Dick and Harry following down the line.

AFTER MAKING surveys of the given names of persons listed in the telephone books of five cities, I discovered various interesting facts.

It became clear that the initials "J" and "R" are the common initials for boys' names. "J" is the first letter in Joseph, John, Jack and James. "R" is the initial of Ralph, Raymond, Richard, Russell, Roy and Robert.

Ranking third among the initials is "W," which is the initial of William, Wilbur, Will, Wilard and Walter. "H" ranks high because of Harold, Henry, Harry, Herman and Howard.

In that survey I found that 6 per cent of all the men listed have the name of William. A small proportion use Bill as the "official" first name. Next comes the old favorite, John, with 5 per cent of the names of men. James and George each have about 4 per cent of the names covered in my survey.

LET ME NOTE at this point that telephone directories in five other cities might have brought results of a different nature. In Minneapolis, for example, we could expect to find Olie, Carl and Oscar among the most common names for men. In Ireland Pat and Mike would rank high.

The top 25 names of men in my survey were William, John, Robert, George, James, Charles, Joseph, Thomas, Edward, Richard, Harry, Roy, Fred, Albert, Donald, Arthur, Harold, Carl, Henry, Ralph, Raymond, Paul, Walter, David and Howard.
